Adolf Busch Heard Wednesday Night

A thrilling concert, drawn largely from the beautiful music masters of the 18th century—Bach, Haydn, Mozart—was heard Wednesday night at the Pelican theatre by Adolf Busch and his Little Symphony under the banner of the Klamath Community Concert Association.

This was the third of a series of winter concerts, the fourth to be heard within just 11 days when Dorothy Maynor and her group opened the program with Haydn's Symphony in D Minor, No. 49, followed by Concerto in D Minor for Violins, Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in D Flat, and a rousing string orchestra "Kleine Nachtmusik." The concert was probably the most heartily accepted and enthusiastically murmured of the series.
