MILK MEASURE APPROVED BY OREGON HOUSE

By PAUL W. HARVEY JR.

SALEM, March 2 (AP) — The house passed unanimously today and sent to the senate today the milk pasteurization and Bang's disease bills, while the senate approved 21 to 7 a senate memorial asking congress for compulsory military service for all boys when they reach the age of 18.

The milk pasteurization bill, which started out to be one of the most explosive issues of the session, won unanimous approval after the house food and dairy committee removed the provision that all milk must be pasteurized. The bill now requires only that milk from diseased herds must be pasteurized.

The bill also gives the state department of agriculture power to license pasteurization operators. The Bang's disease bill requires that herds be inspected at least three times a year if raw milk from those herds is put on the market. The requirement now is one inspection a year, and even that hasn't been enforced.

New Pine Creek

There will be a regular meeting of the East Side Grange this Saturday evening which promises to be well attended as such weighty matters as just how the grange will continue to operate under the new midnight curfew ruling, will be discussed. Some think that by going back to the old time will solve the problem to some extent. Others say to start grange earlier and still others think by doing away with the midnight lunches considerable time and energy on the part of the kitchen committees will be saved and will give everyone time to dance a little with about the same amount of time for social activities as before.

Mrs. Walter Butler is getting along nicely after breaking a shoulder last Thursday. The accident occurred when she tripped over a rug and fell on the kitchen floor at the beginning of the day's household duties.

Ora Steward's father, who died recently in Holly, Colo., was buried in Klamath Falls last Thursday beside his wife who had preceded him in death a few years. Roy Steward who is now in the navy and is stationed at San Diego, was home on leave for a few days to attend the funeral.

TRIAL POSTPONED IN CRASH CASE

YREKA — The manslaughter trial for Franklin Bradford Sames of Keno, which opened in superior court here Tuesday morning, has been postponed until March 13 because of illness of the defense attorney, M. F. Buffum.

Superior Judge James M. Allen granted a defense motion for postponement of the trial just after a jury of eight men and four women had been sworn in.

Jurors were dismissed by the court until March 13 at 10 a. m. when trial proceedings will resume where they left off.

Sames is charged with manslaughter in connection with a fatal automobile accident near Dorris. He is the alleged driver of a car which struck and killed a Los Angeles truck driver on December 9, 1944.

No Gym — Laurie White returned to his classes at KUHS Thursday. He has been out of school several days on account of a head injury received while boxing in the gym. Under doctor's orders he must not participate in gym for a period of time. Laurie is the son of Mrs. Lois White of 1821 Dayton, teacher at Mills school.

Seedlings to Be Planted In Burn

FOREST GROVE, March 2 (AP) About 40,000 seedlings will be planted along the Wilson river road by high school students over the next two weekends as part of the project to beautify the Tillamook burn, officials said today.

Continuation of the tree-planting program, started along the Wolf creek highway last spring, was announced by Arthur W. Priaulx, editor of Random Lengths, Willamette Valley Lumbermen's publication.
