

THUMBS DOWN GIVEN ON AIR MONOPOLIES

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—The justice department gave a thumbs-down opinion today on single-company operation of America's international air transportation.

The department said it is opposed also to surface carriers, such as steamship companies, owning or controlling international air transportation.

A 105-page report by Attorney General Biddle on what the justice department believes should be America's international air transportation policy recommended:

1. That this country adopt a policy of controlled competition.

2. That it seek an understanding with other countries to define and limit the amount of governmental financial assistance to be given international airlines.

3. That an international organization be formed to analyze information on air carrier operations, laws, regulations, traffic and safety rules, and to serve as a medium for solving world airline problems.

4. That economic and legal conditions be of a nature to encourage continued private operation of America's international air carriers. The department added, however, that government operation of an international airline might be advisable when absence of profit opportunities made private-company operation impossible.

The report is the first of a number of justice department surveys to be submitted to congress. Others to be completed soon, an announcement said, deal with machine tools, aluminum and magnesium. Under study are such subjects as synthetic rubber, aviation gasoline, iron and steel.

The aviation survey recommended that the right of a carrier to land in a foreign country for refueling, repairs or other services be established as an international principle. It called for direct government negotiation of rights to engage in air commerce. It urged negotiation of agreements with other countries which would lead to a sound and progressive international air service.

The report said this country should see to it that United States airlines "will carry a volume of world traffic commensurate with the importance of the United States as a market for air transport services." It said this country's policy should forbid foreign control or ownership of United States-Flag Airlines, and added "such a policy may very well be imitated by other countries." It recommended that all international carriers be permitted to use international airways, communications facilities, meteorological services and airports without discrimination.

Seedling Planted to Mark Site of Fire

TILLAMOOK, March 5 (AP)—A seedling Port Orford cedar was planted yesterday by state foresters at the spot where the great 1933 Tillamook forest fire originated.

The state forestry department erected a marker at the site along the Wilson river highway. It later will be replaced by a permanent memorial to the CCC worker who was killed when a tree fell while he fought on the fire-line.

State Forester Nelson S. Rogers supervised the planting, one of 4000 trees to be set out this month by high school boys of Hillsboro, Forest Grove and Timber as part of a four-year reforestation program at the 400-square-mile area.

BUILDING OF THE DALLES DAM PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Early postwar construction of a dam on the Columbia river at The Dalles, Ore., may be recommended by the army engineers, Senator Cordon (R-Ore.) said today.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, engineer chief, told Cordon in a letter that, while his dam was not included in the recently passed rivers and harbors bill, it is a part of the "ultimate" plan for development of the river.

"The growth of navigation on the Columbia river," Reybold wrote, "has reached a point where construction of the dam might be warranted." The engineers, he said, are studying whether it should be recommended for construction in the early postwar period.

River transportation operators recently asked if The Dalles-Celilo canal could be enlarged, saying it would be a bottleneck even if the Umatilla (McNary) dam and others between Umatilla and Lewiston, Idaho, were constructed.

The Dalles dam, Reybold wrote, would effectively replace the Celilo canal and provide a much more satisfactory solution for water transportation than enlargement of the canal.

MUMPS PREVALENT IN KLAMATH AREA

Mumps, according to Dr. Peter Rozendal, public health physician, is quite prevalent in this area now.

A swelling around the lower part of the ear is an indication of mumps and may be accompanied by soreness.

If a child complains of the above symptoms he should be taken home immediately, Dr. Rozendal states, kept out of school and in bed as long as the swelling lasts.

It is during the swelling time that mumps is contagious, therefore the child should not be taken to the doctor's office but the doctor called to the home to prevent spreading the disease.

If no family physician is available, Dr. Rozendal may be called.
