The Time To Start By EARL WHITLOCK

Do you hear people say that you never get rich by saving pennies and dimes. Maybe so. But you can learn to save larger by that.

When a man says he is going to start saving after he has a raise in pay when he is married, after his children are born, you can put it down that he will never start. He is kidding himself.

Any man or woman wants to accumulate a comfortable time to go to it, it is right now, even if only a dollar or a dollar is to be saved. The thing is true in improvement of a better job, time to study and plan for is now—today—that may be ready when the time comes along and not to say, "Yes, that was the time for me, if I had only been a little word 'now' is one of the most important features of the entire English language.

Monday Mr. Whitlock will comment on "When Comes Home."

Visitor—Ross Finley, former resident of Klamath Falls, was greeted by friends here today. Mrs. Finley left Sunday morning for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., to report for duty in the medical detachment of the Wac. The Finleys recently sold the Lake Odell lodge which they operated for many years.

TAX BATTLE HEADS TOWARD FINAL FIGHT

SACRAMENTO, March 12 (AP)—Taxation headed toward a final fight in the legislature at the second week of the fifty-sixth session opened today.

The governor will not compromise on the issue but will continue to oppose, unalterably, any fiscal measure which might disrupt his "hold the line on taxes" program was made evident by his weekend radio speech.

In it, he reiterated declarations previously made at a press conference and that California doesn't need to increase its levies on the pocketbooks of its citizens.

He asserted that the state already has a surplus, and reserve of $288,000,000. Despite this, he said, "a determined drive is being made upon the legislature to induce it to raise taxes, and in anticipation of its being done, appropriation bills have already been introduced to spend the increased revenue many times over."

Although he did not mention the League of California Cities' $100,000,000 state-subsidies-to-local-government bill, he apparently included it in his expressed opposition to upping the tax schedules and to setting up new spending habits that will result in affliction for our people."

Previously he had voiced the belief that proposed subsidies involved adoption of a new philosophy of state taxation and as such needed a two-year study.

Life in Belgium Has Its Troubles, Writes Pvt. Pex

Comparing life "Somewhere in Belgium" to the busy routine of his work as crew dispatcher for the Southern Pacific, Pvt. Richard W. Pex, writes home from overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pex, 2030 Vine, and the following letter was sent to his aunt, Mrs. Earl Masters of Dunsmuir, formerly of this city:

"This is your adopted nephew again with another sad story. I haven't had so many troubles since the night I called a Shasta engine crew for a wrecker east when I should have pulled the engine crew off the second 16 since they were already called. I can still remember that night. I had two brakemen yelling about a runaround, that fireman, Edwards, was yelling that he tied up for eight hours' rest and it wasn't his fault if it wasn't on the register, both phones were ringing, one of my call boys was in jail for speeding, and there weren't enough men on the board to start a poker game.

"Then 'Pop' Sprague came in and I said to myself, 'if he so much as opens his mouth, I'll walk out!' but he yelled at everybody else to shut up and get out of my office, answered the telephones for me, and even talked the cops into turning my call boy loose.

"I always have thought he was a swell guy ever since, even though I was in his office every other morning for an investigation.

"I was in Welkenraedt, Belgium, when the Jerries made their break-through. It is about three miles from—and about 15 miles from—They didn't get to us, though. I always have thought he was a swell guy ever since, even though I was in his office every other morning for an investigation.

Eighth Body Found in Freighter Hull

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 12 (Canadian Press)—The eighth of what was believed to be nine persons aboard the wreckage-stricken hull of the freighter S. S. Greenhill Park was recovered yesterday. None of the bodies has been definitely identified.

Salvage boats were to attempt refloating the 100,000-ton vessel at high tide today and tow it to a North Vancouver shipyard.

They have some very pretty flares, though, and tracer bullets are always pretty to watch at night as long as they are not coming toward you. The buzz-bombs are, or rather were, more of a curiosity than a danger, because most of them went on by, although a few of them dropped in on us from time to time.

"Just enough to keep the local window merchant in business. I got bounced out of bed by one, but that's the closest one ever came to me. They don't sound like you would expect a rocket ship to sound, but more like a big Mack truck pulling a heavy load up a steep grade. They make the windows rattle like

LOCAL WOMEN GET THOUSANDS OF EXTRA RED POINTS

Every day, precious red points are being paid to housewives who turn in used fats to their butchers. Because this country is faced with a possible fat shortage, these used kitchen fats are even more urgently needed to make medicines, synthetic rubber, gunpowder, soaps, paints and a hundred other essentials on the battlefield and home front.

Every woman can help towards final Victory by saving every drop of used fats each time she cooks. Even a spoonful is worth salvaging. Won't you keep saving until final Victory over both Germany and Japan?

SIMPLER FORM OF CENSUS ADOPTED

The old system of knocking on every door in the county to determine the school census, has gone by the board and a much simpler form has been adopted by grace of the Oregon state legislature.

In the past, a house to house canvass was made, checking on the residents between the ages of 4 to 19, inclusive.

By act of the 1943 legislature, the following system will be followed to determine school census. The last school census is to be divided by the average daily attendance in elementary grades and that will establish the school census ratio in the district.

Census figures are usually obtained during the month of October each year. This year the census will be determined in the spring. The law, however, sets forth that once every five years a census must be taken in the old way, the house-to-house system.
