

California Senate Committee Hits Klamath Diversion

SACRAMENTO, March 21 (AP)—The California senate fish and game committee favorably recommended a bill yesterday by Senator Irwin T. Quinn, Eureka, making it illegal to divert the waters of either the Klamath or Trinity rivers into the Sacramento river watershed.

The bill was opposed by Sen. Oliver Carter, Redding, who contended that the U. S. bureau of reclamation was making a study of the Trinity diversion and that no conclusion should be reached until the findings of the study are announced.

However, Quinn and other supporters claimed that fish life would be impaired in both streams if their waters were diverted and they didn't want to take any chances on what either the bureau of reclamation or U. S. army engineers decided to do.

Dr. Allan Taft of the state fish and game commission said "no assurance has been given by either the army engineers or bureau that enough water would be left in the streams to support fish life" if the diversions were made.

Legislation continuing the state farm production council another two years was in the hands of the assembly today with the unanimous approval of the senate.

The bill authored by Senators George Hatfield, Merced county and Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton, carries no appropriation, but a companion measure to follow authorizes use of an unexpended balance of approximately a million dollars from the original appropriation made under the food and fiber act.

Chief function of the council is the recruiting of farm labor to maintain the war time food supply.

Passed by the assembly late yesterday and transmitted to the senate today was another proposal for a constitutional amendment authorizing annual sessions of the legislature. The measure is in different form from that beaten twice by the people at elections. The new form, Assemblyman Albert Wollenberg declared, meets many of the objections which caused defeat previously.

As passed, with only Assemblyman Edward O'Day, San Francisco, voting in the negative, the 30-day constitutional recess of the regular session would be retained. In even numbered years the legislature would meet merely to prepare a state budget and consider any emergency legislation laid before it by the governor. General legislation would be considered at regular sessions in odd numbered years.

The bill, if approved by the senate, would go on the next general election ballot.

PRESIDENTIAL APPEAL MADE FOR RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Four million workers, spurred by a presidential appeal to every American to help meet needs of fighting men, renewed their efforts today to collect $200,000,000 for the Red Cross.

President Roosevelt called for over-subscription of the 1945 war fund in a brief radio address last night.

"This is no call for charity," he said. "This is our chance to serve those who serve us."

Mr. Roosevelt said he couldn't predict when victory would come. But there is nothing unpredictable, he added, about 7,500,000 Americans overseas or fighting afloat and another 70,000 in enemy prison camps.

"The need never was greater," he asserted. "It will not soon be less."

The president said he could testify from personal observation to usefulness of the Red Cross in battle zones. He said it has sent food, clothing and medicines through the barbed wire of enemy prison compounds, collected blood plasma that saved thousands of lives, provided refreshment, entertainment and good cheer and linked fighting men with loved ones at home.

The fund drive ends March 31.

AMERICA REMAINS BEST FED NATION

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles said today that "we remain the best fed nation of the world," but he acknowledged that civilian meat supplies will be shorter this year.

Testifying before the senate banking committee, Bowles asserted that the American Meat institute, representing the majority of packers, is attempting to "capitalize" on War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes' statement on the meat situation "by using it as a basis for an attack on price control."

"Thanks to the extraordinary efforts of our farmers, and in spite of the tremendous food needs of the direct war effort," he said, "we remain the best fed nation of the world, wartime or peacetime."

"Certainly civilian meat will be shorter than at any time during the war but that arises from the extraordinary needs of the war effort. Moreover, and this is the vital point, the shortage would not be relieved in any degree by higher returns to the packers."

"OPA will not be stampeded into giving price increases." The meat institute had contended that government price control policies were largely responsible for the shortage.

Marvin Lewis, OPA hearing commissioner, upheld the OPA's claim that information given to Oregon Grocers by an OPA official constituted formal notification of new ration rules. The store contended that verbal notice was not official.
