ROSE M. POOLE GUEST SPEAKER AT CLUB MEET

The function of the state legislature at Salem was the topic chosen by State Representative Rose M. Poole when she addressed members of the Soroptimist club at its regular meeting in the blue room of the Willard hotel on Wednesday, March 28. Rather than giving her impressions, Mrs. Poole explained how bills are introduced and passed, as well as giving a few of her own experiences.

She was associated with 58 men while legislature was in session, and stated that they were more polite and cooperative with a woman than with their own sex.

Mrs. Poole explained that legislature is the least known branch of the government, and consists of a cross-section of the citizenship of the state. She was in office for the longest session of legislature in the history of Oregon, which was due to the fact that it dealt with many wartime, problems. Originally school bills were of the greatest importance, and problems of liquor and highway bills were in the background. Veterans' aid was also one of the high points of discussion at this time.

Several hundred bills are introduced at each session, and any one person or group of persons has the privilege of introducing a bill, as long as he or she is a member of the house or senate. As many as half or more of the bills were either amendments or repeals of bills that hadn't worked out, according to Mrs. Poole.

Mrs. Poole went on to tell of the procedure after a bill has been introduced, giving the "red tape" that must ensue before a bill is finally passed. She also stated that there are representatives of several of the Oregon newspapers on hand at this time, and their desks are just below the rostrum.

The women were in the spotlight when Mrs. Poole and State Representative Ann Ellis, the only two women in the legislature, introduced a bill concerning statues. There has previously been much discussion as to the fact that Oregon is not represented in the hall of statuary at Washington D. C., which holds statues of illustrious men of the various states. Several organizations offered to pay the expense of having these statues made, and the bill inherited the name of "The Scotch Bill" because no appropriation would be necessary. The bill was put through, and the men in both houses voted unanimously in its favor.

During the luncheon, Alyce Wells and Bud Selby, accompanied by Barbara Zinn at the piano, sang, "Without A Song", "Easter Parade" and "Irish Lullaby."

Special guests at the meeting included Mrs. Julian C. Smith, wife of Maj. Gen. Smith who is in Klamath Falls inspecting the Marine Barracks, and Mrs. George O. Van Orden, wife of the commanding officer there. Both women spoke briefly for themselves, and on behalf of all marine officers' wives in Klamath Falls, for the gracious hospitality that has been shown to them while here.

Dorothy Gilcrist, president of the Venture club, and Jean Thompson, a member, were also guests of the Soroptimist club.

Salmon Catches Reported Good

ASTORIA, March 29 (AP) — Salmon catches the last several nights in the lower Columbia have averaged 400-500 pounds a boat, canneries reported today, and some gillnet fishermen have taken 3800 pounds.

"Right river conditions," created by spring freshets and a rough sea, were responsible for the last few days' success, fishermen said. April 1 marks the beginning of a month's closed season.

KLAMATH MAN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Albert Ambers, 67, is in Hillside hospital seriously injured as the result of an automobile-truck accident which occurred at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the junction of the Sprague River and Lakeview highways.

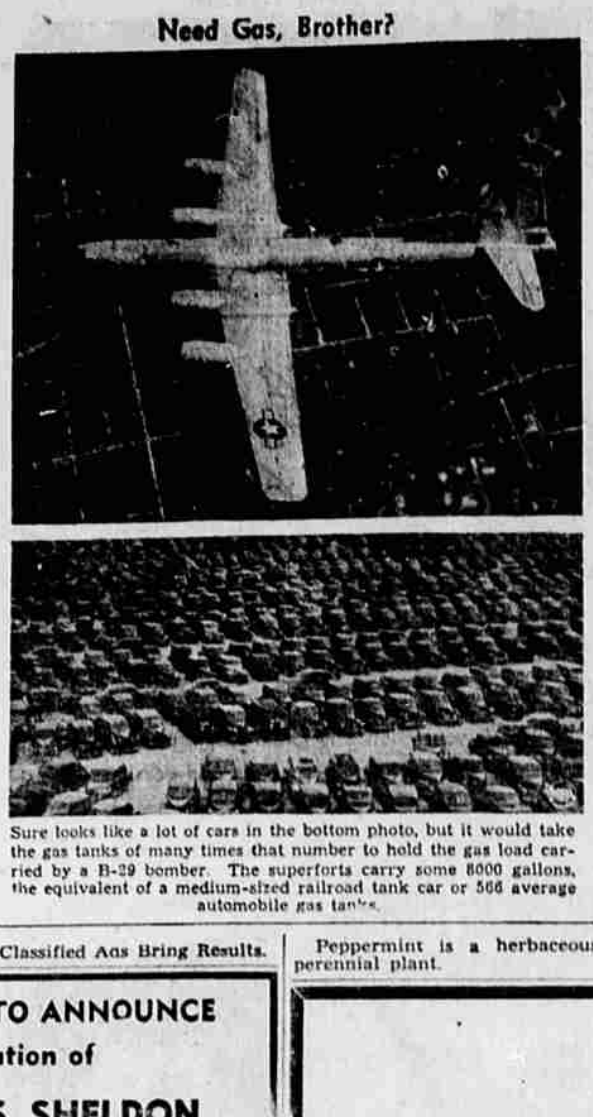
Mrs. Bertha Ambers, who was riding with her husband, suffered cuts and bruises, but after treatment at Hillside was returned to her home at 1342 Pleasant. Their daughter, Mrs. F. J. Enders, 42, visiting here from Vallejo, Calif., was recovering today from shock and bruises.

According to Mrs. Enders, the family was returning from Lakeview where they had been visiting the Ambers' sons, Walter and Don. As they approached the Sprague River junction, a truck operated by Quincy Baker of Beatty, sideswiped their car. Baker was en route home from Klamath Falls and Mrs. Enders said he was driving on the wrong side of the road. The Ambers car was totally demolished and some damage was done to the truck.

Rollie Berry and Lloyd Williamson of the Morrison-Knudsen company, en route to Klamath Falls from [illegible], rushed the Ambers and brought them to [illegible] hospital.

Ambers retired March 2, 1945, as night watchman at the Ralph L. Smith Lumber company plant. He had been in poor health for some time.

Need Gas, Brother?



Sure looks like a lot of cars in the bottom photo, but it would take the gas tanks of many times that number to hold the gas load carried by a B-29 bomber. The superforts carry some 8000 gallons, the equivalent of a medium-sized railroad tank car or 566 average automobile gas tanks.
