

OPA PRICING POLICIES NOW UNDER ATTACK

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—OPA's pricing policies—under attack as a cause for current food shortages—reeled today from a judicial blow and senatorial admonitions to get together with business.

Although upheld on one major contention, the agency was told by the emergency court of appeals that its present ceilings, even with government subsidies, do not allow packers who produce only fresh beef to make an adequate profit or "indeed to break even."

The court, on the other hand, ruled that "processing" packer ceilings generally are fair and equitable. In contrast to non-processors, these packers turn out in addition to fresh beef such by-products as sausage, lard and oil. They handle about 85 per cent of the beef supply.

Otherwise the food picture was in a weekend dim-out, with separate senate and house investigating committee resting for a resumption Monday of quest for cause and cure of shortages.

There was no rest, however, for OPA—already under heavy pressure for concessions to business groups which contend its policies have been unfair to them.

Even before yesterday's decision from the court set up solely to hear appeals from OPA regulations, the agency had direct requests from two senate committees that it patch up its differences with business.

The agriculture committee in midweek told OPA, in an "or else" manner to adjust things with packers who contended they were being forced into bankruptcy. This perhaps was tempered somewhat by the court's decision, as it related to the larger processor packers.

Yesterday, the banking committee called in OPA officials for a talk about complaints it has had from businessmen. Chairman Wagner (D-N.Y.) reported the agency chieftains gave assurances they would try to "harmonize" their relations with business.

The senate committee then tentatively approved extension of the price control act for one year from June 30.

TRAFFIC TOLL NUMBERS FOUR DEAD IN 1944

Four persons were killed and 77 were injured in the 674 accidents reported in the city of Klamath Falls for the year 1944, according to a statistical summary of traffic mishaps for this city, prepared and distributed today by the safety division, office of Robert S. Farrell, secretary of state.

All four of the city's traffic fatalities in 1944 were pedestrians and 26 or 33 per cent of the injured toll were pedestrians.

Of the 674 accidents reported in the city, 397 or 58 per cent occurred in the downtown business district. Eighty-four occurred in the industrial district, 174 in the residential district and 19 in the vicinity of schools.

Three of the fatalities were in the business district and the other was in an industrial area. The summary shows that 75 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal accidents were drinking.

One always stands out

*"RHAPSODY IN BLUE" is a modern symphony which has played itself into the hearts of Americans throughout the land. First performed at Aeolian Hall in New York, February 12, 1924, it fast became recognized as a symphonic jazz classic. Other musical interpretations of life in these United States have since been written, but among them all, the "Rhapsody" stands out.
