News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 16—The meaning of the death of Mr. Roosevelt to the country and the world escaped searching examination in the period of shock and mourning.

His law partner, Basil O'Connor, in a tribute which was great in its simplicity, said portentous estimates of the changes to be expected might not be safely made for a long time.

Yet the passing was not a shock to those who knew the condition of the president, and in that fact lies the substance of the immediate situation.

A week before his death he had lost his taste for food. His general condition had become so weakened, a bad cold might at any time have brought the end which came through hemorrhage of the brain.

He had not been able to work at the White House for many previous weeks but had been at Hyde Park and Warm Springs. Indeed, he had been a sick man for at least 18 months.

The greatest of men, while ill, cannot do their best job.

The immediate change, therefore, will go no further than to place a protege of the late president at his desk.

The difference of administration at first then will only be personal. Mr. Truman has been saying by every action and word that his guiding inspiration will be the thought:

"I would like to do this as Mr. Roosevelt would have wanted it done."

He went beyond the normally expected announcement promising to keep the Roosevelt policies, and proposed to keep the Roosevelt personnel as well.

Not Discouraged
THE war-sensitive stock market showed no discouragement at these prospects. There was no selling. National reaction generally shared this interpretation.

As far as the war is concerned, not the slightest change is possible. Our plans were all in the hands of the army and navy, and not only have been long-since adopted, but all near fulfillment.

Some changes in the peace I think will eventuate. I believe Mr. Roosevelt was near some alterations to meet the newly-arising international situation. Whatever these turn out to be, they will not be far from his plans.

His State Secretary Stettinius knows the situation thoroughly, is realistic, and a far greater man than yet recognized (his handling of Argentina successfully gave evidence of this.)

Furthermore, the personality of Mr. Truman is bound to inject itself more and more in all decisions, domestic and foreign, as time goes on. In a year or so, necessity may well force him into assumption of policy-originating initiative.

Remember, he has nearly four years to serve, and time swiftly covers graves.

End of an Era
YET I cannot escape the conclusion that this is the end of an era.

Great men, I have found, are like artists. When they produce a great work in a certain style which gains them popularity and fame, they think that is the only way to do things always thereafter. It becomes the only way for them. Writers who make a hit with a certain line of endeavor adopt that style and a change of it later becomes physically impossible for them. Actors who gain success playing a certain part, always thereafter live that part in other roles. They become that person.

Indeed all of us cling to the theories which once proved successful for us, long after they are successful or popular. New minds come along and capture popularity with new methods, and they supplant the old who cannot change.

Mr. Roosevelt was of the era of depression. He came into the thick of it, devised a successful and popular line of thought, illustrated by the spend-lease theory. Although times changed, he did not. He could not. Human nature would not allow him to discard or greatly alter the ideas which brought him to the top of the world, and he wanted to pursue them internationally as a post-war measure.

Truman is a new man, although also a product of the depression era. Indeed he has been a senator only since 1934. His superior personal knowledge is on the subject of war contracts as a result of his chairmanship of the senate investigation. He has been raised politically to the worship of Mr. Roosevelt's methods, particularly in the political sense.

Yet the basic Roosevelt political principle was to keep his organization and his setup as a one-man unit. He did not even groom his successor.

What kept the government and organization line on straight center was the magic of the Roosevelt name and personality. Can anyone else do that? I doubt it.

Mr. Roosevelt was the political genius Roosevelt. Mr. Truman is Mr. Truman. Sooner or later the difference must begin to show. So just as certainly as the Cleveland tariff era passed, the Theodore Roosevelt big-stick, the Woodrow Wilson and the Coolidge-Hoover leadership all had their days and gave way to newer methods, I believe today we invisibly and unwittingly (for you can only tell such matters truly by looking back upon them) are experiencing the birth of a new era in a new world.

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

STRANGE it is to listen to a new voice in a broadcast speech by the president of the United States. To many, perhaps, full realization that a new man occupies the presidency did not come until Harry Truman's voice was carried over the air Monday.

There were notable differences from that other voice, now stilled. Mr. Truman sought to follow neither the voice nor the style of his predecessor, whose fame was great as a radio orator. We remember little about Mr. Truman's radio speeches in the 1944 campaign, but we would guess that Monday's address, with the exception of text, sounded much like one of those. That is as it should be.

So much has been said and will be said in eulogy of Mr. Roosevelt that Harry Truman, a modest man, may feel that he is a pygmy in a giant's shoes. But the first indications are that he intends to be himself. With the full weight of responsibility upon him, it will be impossible for him to carry on as if Mr. Roosevelt were simply out of town and had left him in temporary charge.

Some critical note has been taken of the conscious effort that has been made, by commentators and columnists, to build Mr. Truman up. This springs, we believe, from wholesome motives—a desire to give the new president the best break possible, and to bolster confidence in the country. It may be unnecessary, but the purpose is worthy.

Mr. Truman well knows that what he does with the presidency is his responsibility, and that he is to be judged not now, but later. He has the hope and good wishes of Americans everywhere as he undertakes the task.

Big
A NEW enterprise for the Klamath country that is impressive in size and potentialities is the grain storage plant to be built by Tulana Farms at Worden, on the Weed-Klamath Falls highway.

Rising 130 feet, or approximately 10 stories, this structure will stand out like a young mountain on the landscape. People who have traveled through the wheat country of northeastern Oregon, eastern Washington, or the middle west, will recall the striking appearance of huge elevators of this type.

It is interesting that the Tulana Farms storage plant will not only be used in the big grain operations of that firm, which includes the Henzel and Liskey Brothers. It will also be devoted to custom storing, and some of the products of distant grain-growing areas will be stored there in transit. Thus Klamath will participate, to some extent, in the economic activities of other areas.

We have had a somewhat similar situation in the storage here of fine pearls from the Rogue river valley.

Transportation

THESE things could not happen without the excellent transportation facilities provided for the Klamath district. In our efforts to appraise the economic future here, we sometimes overlook the great importance of transportation; we have heard whole speeches given on the outlook without mention of it.

Transportation is not only in itself a major industry, but it makes other industries possible. Recently a lumber remanufacturing plant was established in this area which would never have come had it not been for the railroads that will bring boards to that plant from distant areas.

Klamath's future as a distribution center is dependent upon its favorable transportation situation. Its ability to market its products favorably in the big centers north and south is due to railroads and highways.

What has been done to develop these facilities in the past is deserving of our gratitude. What we can do to expand highway, railroad and air facilities in the future deserves our serious attention.

Child Dies From Overdose of Aspirin

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 16 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lakoduk today mourned their 18-month-old son David, who died yesterday after an overdose of aspirin tablets.

His parents found the tot standing, violently ill, on a chair near the bureau where the tablets had been left. The aspirin bottle—nearly full before then—was half empty.

Hospital physicians attributed the death to drug poisoning.

STRINGS ATTACHED

MILES CITY, Mont., April 16 (AP)—A trade was made here, but there were strings attached. When Sofia Talarski came home from work she found that her table model radio had disappeared. A guitar was left in its place.

LOS ANGELES, April 16 (AP)—Wheat futures advanced 1/2 cent to 114 1/2 cents today. Demand for wheat was heavy with millers bidding sharply higher prices for wheat. The strong demand reflected a shortage of grain at terminal markets and heavy flour sales.

At one time the market was bare of offerings and the commission house demanded higher prices for wheat. Some buying was prompted by the prospect of a heavy decrease in the domestic visible supply.

The rye market, up as much as 2 1/2 cents at the start, was nervous with commission houses and pit operators on both sides of the trade. One of the reasons for the late dealings was buying of the May contract against sales of the July.

At the finish wheat was 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents higher than last Friday's close. May 1945 wheat was 114 1/2 cents, or 1 1/2 cents higher than 113 1/2 cents. Oats were 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher. Rye was 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher. May 1945 rye was off 1/2 to 3/4 cent. May 1945 corn was 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher.

IN MEMORIAM
THE GRAND OLD MAN
I liked your never-failing wit
That cheered a gloomy day;
I liked the tenderness you gave
The helpless by the way.

I liked the courage you displayed
When illness dealt a blow;
I liked the carriage of your brow
When strength was ebbing low.

I liked the way you took the helm
Of this vast Ship of State;
I liked the way you breathed a prayer
For every soldier's fate.

I liked the way you stood the blunt
When critics would deride;
I liked the sadness in your voice
The day Pearl Harbor cried.

I liked the way you squared your chin
When tempest-clouds drew near;
I liked the way you bowed your head
And shed that secret tear.

I liked your sunny, friendly smile
That flashed like some bright star;
I liked the way they spoke of you
As—"F.-D.-R."

A gifted statesman, staunch and true;
A master-artisan;
In memory you'll always be
The Grand—Old—Man.

BRAKE PROGRAM PROCLAIMED BY MAYOR OF CITY

Mayor Ed Ostendorf today proclaimed the beginning of the National-wide Brake Emphasis program in Klamath Falls.

Orville Hamilton, acting chief of police, also announced the beginning of the nation-wide program, which the police of the nation will put into effect April 15 through June 1.

The program, sponsored by the International Association of Chief of Police, will focus attention of all motorists on the vital importance to traffic safety of good brakes and good car condition. It will also bring to the front the great necessity of conserving rapidly aging cars.

It was pointed out by Hamilton that brakes are the prime factor in many traffic accidents and that the brake check can be combined with regular enforcement work of police officers. Repairs can be made with little or no loss of use of the vehicle, he said. The brake check can be obtained at any garage in Klamath Falls and motorists here are strongly urged to comply with this program in an effort to forestall the threatening rise of traffic accidents and to conserve the dwindling supply of motor vehicles throughout the nation.

Application Made to Install Sewer Here
An application for a 16-inch sewer to be installed near the new housing project in Klamath Falls has been sent to the federal works administration in Seattle, Wash., according to E. A. Thomas, city engineer.

A complete report is hoped for soon, Thomas said, but at the present time action is still pending official word from Seattle.

VFW, Auxiliary to Install Officers
Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pelican post 1383, and members of the auxiliary will hold a joint installation of officers in the KC hall Thursday, April 19, at 8 p. m. Julia Canfield of Medford will install officers of the auxiliary and Ira Canfield of Medford will be installing officer for the veterans.

This will be an open meeting, and the public is invited. Lunch will be served at the close.

Quadrangular Meet Postponed at Medford
The quadrangular track meet scheduled for Saturday at Medford was called off, it was learned today, in memorial to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was thought by Klamath Union high school officials that the meet would be run Tuesday afternoon.
