NEW OFFICERS ANNOUNCED BY HEALTH GROUP

New officers of the Klamath County Public Health Association, Inc., which were announced at the annual dinner meeting at the First Methodist church on Tuesday evening were Mrs. Robert P. Ellingson Sr., president; Mrs. Gilbert Fleet, first vice president; Mrs. A. F. Blocklinger, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Henzel, third vice president; Mrs. Keith Ambrose, secretary; George McIntyre, treasurer.

A capacity crowd was on hand to enjoy the chicken dinner and to hear the three speakers who arrived in Klamath Falls in connection with the work planned by the association. Fred G. Sherer, division director of the social hygiene education division of the Oregon Tuberculosis association spoke on "Decent Living," and outlined a general program for public health. Sherer has just returned from a trip of study and investigation in several of the eastern cities, sponsored by the American Social Hygiene association.

"Oregon's T. B. Survey" was the topic of a brief talk given by Mary Jane Green, health education director of the Oregon Tuberculosis association, and she spoke upon the methods of eradication of tuberculosis. Miss Green is in charge of the mobile X-ray unit which is expected in Klamath Falls sometime this fall. She stressed the fact that complete victory over tuberculosis will be reached only through individual cooperation.

Following the dinner, Dr. U. G. Dubach, dean of men at Oregon State college in Corvallis, covered the subject of "Progress Through Teamwork," at which time he stated that remedies and treatments are not the cure for venereal disease, but that morality taught in the homes is the only answer. Dubach went on to say that if America doesn't do something about this problem, the center of civilization will revert to Asia in the future, rather than remain in this country, thereby repeating the trend of history.

Those present at the dinner also learned that one-fourth of the men in Oregon were unfit for military service because of disease, with venereal disease as the prevalent factor, and that with victory so close, this problem is becoming greater, especially in this country rather than overseas.

The Oregon Tuberculosis association has taken over the social hygiene education program at the request of the state board of health, University of Oregon medical school and the American Social Hygiene association. The six-point campaign is getting underway, and will be based on the prevention and treatment of venereal disease.

New Bus Stop Sites Aid City Traffic

The change in the site of bus stops on Main to the far side of the intersection is working out well, according to E. A. Thomas, city engineer.

The new system has relieved traffic congestion and reduced the number of traffic accidents to an appreciable extent, he said. It has also speeded up the motor traffic as it allows private vehicles to use the right hand lane and to make a right hand turn without interference from buses.

The present location of bus stops has little or no effect on pedestrian movement, Thomas stated, and has proved to be satisfactory.

Peace Preservation Needed for Mankind, Believes Hoover

PHILADELPHIA, April 18 (AP)—Mankind must bring up to date its methods of preserving peace if civilization is not to perish altogether in a third world holocaust, Herbert Hoover said here last night.

In an address before the foreign policy association, broadcast by NBC, the former president said the San Francisco charter should "agree upon a definition of aggression to include direct or indirect subsidized governmental propaganda in other nations.

"Enforcement of such a provision would help cure that cause of wars which grows out of crusading faith, political or otherwise," he said.

Mrs. MacVeagh to Head Women in 7th War Loan Drive

Mrs. Rogers MacVeagh of Portland, who was in Klamath Falls last Thursday morning to speak at the kick-off breakfast of the 7th War Loan, replaced Mrs. Saidie Orr-Dunbar Tuesday as director of the women's division of the state war finance committee.

Mrs. Dunbar, well known here through her work in women's clubs and the state tuberculosis program, resigned after three years' service.

COLONEL WRITES SCOUTING ARTICLE

Boy Scout training has saved the health and lives of countless thousands of our young men in this war, says Col. George O. Van Orden, commanding officer of the Marine Barracks here, in an article in the April, 1945, issue of "Scouting."

Col. Van Orden has been a scout since his 12th birthday, and attained the rank of Eagle Scout, before entering the naval academy.

"I have observed a condition of morale that was amazing among hard, rugged groups of fighting men away from home and restraining influences," the colonel says in his article, "this condition is due of course to the morality of the sergeants, lieutenants and captains, that is reflected in the Marine Corps men." The majority of his subordinate leaders had Boy Scout training, he said.

The colonel pointed out in his article that his men didn't suffer from diseases normally incidental to campaigning in the field. They knew how to be sanitary, and feed themselves in the field. They knew how to read signs and avoid traps and how to be as comfortable as possible in the jungle.

And with all these virtues, Col. Van Orden concluded his article, his marines were the toughest, most rugged bunch of fighting men the world has ever seen.

MURDER CASE MAY GO TO JURY TODAY

SEATTLE, April 18 (AP)—The fate of the three juveniles, charged with second degree murder in connection with the fatal beating of John Emberg in the King county jail in January, was expected to go into the hands of the jury today.

Attorneys for the defense rested yesterday after an unsuccessful effort to have the verdict taken from the hands of the jury.

Robert Battig, juvenile detention officer, said he had scuffled with two of the defendants — Chester Mabe and Donald Beal, each 15—during yesterday's noon recess when they refused to give up cigarettes they had obtained during the court session. He said the pair also had complained about the food, upset cots, thrown dishes about the room and games through the window in their sixth floor quarters at the same time.

The third defendant—Charles Thomas—was not involved. He occupies a cell in the regular King county jail.

'Paper-Trooper' to Receive Citation

A 15-year-old boy, "paper trooper", will receive a citation from an army general Sunday, April 22, for collecting 60,000 pounds of waste paper during the current paper salvage drive.

The boy is Orth Frankford of Pennsylvania, and the "service medallion" will be presented over the radio's Army Hour this coming Sunday.

Paper is still needed in the war effort, the local salvage committee reminds citizens, and clean flat bundles of paper may be left at the central salvage depot at any hour.

IRRIGATION SET TO BEGIN IN WEEK

Water will be turned into the main irrigation canal "A", Wednesday, April 18, E. Laton Stephens of the reclamation bureau announced.

Priming the canal will take about a week, Stephens stated, before the canal system is ready to deliver water. The water is turned on slowly, and the canal inspected for weak spots. By the time the water is raised to the required level, the canal is able to take the necessary quantity for delivery to farmers for irrigation purposes.

The main canal runs through Klamath Falls, and services miles of territory, extending down into northern California.

Irrigation is already in effect in the vicinity of Tule lake, with farmers in certain areas having had water delivery for about a week, Stephens reported.

FUNERAL SET FOR FORMER TRAPPER HERE

Military rites for Harold Jack Manning, 36, whose body was recovered from the waters of Agency lake after a search of more than a month, will be held from the Earl Whitlock chapel Thursday at 3 p. m. with interment in Linkville cemetery.

Manning, well known Klamath trapper, left his home March 13 to run his trap lines. He failed to return and not until his brother, Elmer, discovered his body April 16, was the search abandoned.

Harold Manning was born January 9, 1909, at Portland, Ore., youngest of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Manning. When he was two years of age, his family moved to Rose Lodge, Ore., where the father homesteaded. Harold attended Rose Lodge grade and high school, graduating from the latter when only 15 years old. He then worked his way through the University of Oregon in three years.

For eight months, Manning served in the United States army and then received a medical discharge at the end of that time. He moved to Klamath Falls in 1935, and engaged in trapping. Manning was an active member of Fort Klamath grange where he received the Flora degree. He was also a member of the American Legion, and both organizations will assist in the funeral.

He leaves to mourn his passing his mother, Mrs. Hilda Mustonen of Kernville, Ore., three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Paul of Rose Lodge, Mrs. Helen Johnson and Mrs. Margie KaKelday, both of Portland, and one brother, Elmer, Klamath Falls.

MORTICIANS STILL BELIEVED ALIVE

SEATTLE, April 18 (AP)—Discovery of new clues tending toward the belief that John F. Hennessy and Earl J. Cassedy, Seattle morticians who vanished November 24, are still alive was announced yesterday by Detective Lt. C. E. Neuser.

The detective said a Seattle woman informant, who earlier had given some "straight" information on another case, told police late in January the two men were "still alive and 'shacking up' on the outskirts of a Spokane suburb. . . . living in a clapboard house or log cabin with a big fir tree growing near one end."

Neuser said a trip to Spokane had uncovered a service station operator at Chatteroy who said a man "he is positive is Hennessy had bought some gasoline from him less than 30 days before."

Other reports of the men having been seen also have been received, he said.

Rewards totaling $2250 still stand for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the disappearance and $150 for recovery of the black sedan the pair drove away from the home of a friend.

Schools Answer to Juvenile Delinquency, Says Pastor

Institutions such as the Log Cabin Ranch school south of San Francisco, is the answer to community problems which deal with juvenile delinquency, John Watson, director of the school for problem boys, said in an interview here.

The school is supported by the city of San Francisco and San Mateo county, and is under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court of San Francisco. Boys who the court feels will adjust themselves socially if placed in this environment make up the group. At the present time, Watson said, there are 55 boys at Log Cabin Ranch school. Sixty is capacity.

Log Cabin Ranch school is two years old and was the idea of the late Judge James Dunn. Ages of the boys run from 13 to 18 years of age. There is a half-day of formal school instruction and the remainder of the day finds each boy assigned to a project. This may be in the dairy, kitchen, on the construction crew which handles the landscaping, garden or other projects.

In the two years the school has been in operation, Watson said, there had been only two recidivists or repeaters. One of these boys came back to the school, the other was sent to another institution.

The school produces all its food, including vegetables, beef, milk, eggs and fruit. Land under cultivation includes some 620 acres. The original property cost $56,000 and many additions have been made.

Watson, who is himself an ordained Baptist minister, is participating in the Inter-Baptist missionary rally being held this week at the First Baptist church.

If the highways in the United States were laid out end to end in a single long line, there would be a filling station for each mile.
