HUNNICUTT DECORATED
James Archie Hunnicutt, chief quartermaster attached to the ground school of the naval air training base, Corpus Christi, Tex., has been decorated with the Silver Star medal "for distinguishing himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity in action near the Philippine islands while serving in the acting capacity of chief quartermaster of an aircraft carrier. After his ship was hit by a bomb from an enemy aircraft, he remained on the ship fighting fires for a period of seven hours, exhibiting great presence of mind and initiative in evacuating wounded personnel, and in maintaining communications with other ships."

CLARKS IN SERVICE

The oldest youth took his "boot" training at San Diego, Calif., after which he was sent to an amphibious base and landing craft school at Coronado. After a period of training at this southern California base, Clark was assigned to duty on the South Pacific, and is now aboard a transport somewhere in the South Pacific.

PORTER ASSIGNED
James Richard Porter, S 2/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Porter, 825 Lincoln, has been assigned to the United States naval training school, Sonarman division, west coast sound school at San Diego. The Sonarman operates underwater sound equipment for detecting the presence, bearing, course, and range of submarines. Musicians are selected by the navy to receive Sonarman training, since tone and pitch are important factors on which the Sonarman bases his interpretations, together with readings from dials and indicators, in the operation of underwater sound equipment.

How about a breather?...Have a Coca-Cola

Picking up overseas mail
"...on the fly"

Nothing is quite so precious to a fighting man as a letter from a loved one back home—nothing more miserable than "sweating out" mail call—for the letter that doesn't come.

Picking up mail "on the fly" at small stations, as shown here, is one way Southern Pacific and other railroads see to it that your letters are handled quickly.

Another example of fast, efficient mail service was Southern Pacific's handling of Christmas mail to the men overseas.

All mail to the Pacific fighting fronts is first routed to Army and Fleet Post Offices in San Francisco. During the last Christmas season, 2,931 carloads of overseas mail rolled into Oakland and San Francisco rail terminals! If the mail bags in these cars were placed end to end they would have formed a continuous column from San Francisco to Seattle. To get this unprecedented volume of mail through on time—loading, transporting, switching, handling, and trucking problems were worked out well in advance. Many solid trains of mail were run across the country—thousands of freight cars were "drafted" for mail service. Everything possible was done to assure your fighting man a letter or package from home on Christmas.

We want you to know that mail for fighting men comes first with us. It is never put aside for other traffic. You know how letters help the morale of men and women at the front. So, won't you write more letters? Whether it's V-mail or regular mail, write often.
