

Work of Year Reviewed by Council

Climaxing a busy year for the Klamath County Council of PTA, a potluck luncheon in Mills Community hall on Monday of last week was well attended, with Klamath school principals as special guests.

Fred Peterson, county school superintendent, emphasized the need of parental recognition of authority among teachers, and stated that the authority of home, church and school are all necessary in child education. Mr. Peterson strongly recommended a "yes" vote on June 22 for levy on funds already collected, for use in developing state and college buildings, and "yes" on the cigarette tax to obtain funds so badly needed for the cause of education.

Arnold Grallap, city school superintendent, backed up Mr. Peterson's statements, speaking of the urgent need of new money for education, and explaining that the property tax offset measure merely re-allocated old funds. The Oregon State Teachers association favors passing the cigarette sales, backing the measure because of the great need of funds for the better education of our children.

Ernest E. Hambrick, city recreation director, said that Georgia has used the cigarette tax for the benefit of education for years. Mr. Hambrick outlined summer recreation plans, and claimed that lack of funds will curtail the program. The Teen-Age club, high school classes in arts and handicrafts, and a boys' and girls' week at Lake o' the Woods are included in the program.

Mrs. W. B. Hendrickson, historian, reviewed the council's year from the school of instruction in October to the installations of new officers by Mrs. John Selby. Mrs. Selby, key-note speaker, outlined the council's goals for vision and vitality; I for ideals and intelligence; C for council and cooperation; R for real hard work and response; Y for young America yearning for better education.

Installed as officers were Mrs. Ivan Crumpacker, president; Mrs. W. E. Guyer, vice president; Mrs. W. S. Metler, secretary, and Mrs. Ellis Matthews, treasurer. The council adjourned until next September.

Sisters Wed

Two sisters have added a Mrs. before their names within a month of each other. They are Mildred and Lorraine Martin, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Martin of Langell valley.

Mildred became the bride of Arliss Reeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reeder of 536 Pine in Klamath Falls, on March 25 at Reno, Nev. On April 26, sister Lorraine exchanged vows with Cpl. Robert L. Kinden, United States marine corps. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Kinden of Sanish, N. D.

The ceremony was read at the First Christian church with the Rev. Howard F. Hutchins officiating. The wedding guests included only close relatives and friends of the couple, and a reception followed at the home of PFC and Mrs. Jack Rogers. Following in her sister's footsteps, Mrs. Kinden wore a light blue suit for her wedding.

Mrs. Reeder attended high school at Bonanza and Henley, and is now making her home on Homedale road. Mrs. Kinden left Monday of this week for Spokane, Wash., to be with her husband while he is stationed there.

The dinner tables were particularly lovely at the BPW meeting on Monday evening at the Willard hotel, with miniature Maypoles, bowls of apple blossoms and paper streamers in pastel shades for decorations. Highlight of the evening was election of new officers who will be installed at the next meeting on May 21.

Talmadge of Athens, Ga., the president general of the national society DAR, with headquarters at Washington, D. C. Bowls of both white and purple lilacs were placed about the room, and members and guests enjoyed the fragrant blossoms which have arrived early this spring, due to the unusually warm weather during the past two weeks.

Mrs. Byron Friedman, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting. Plans for the evening party to be given for members of Sojourners, their husbands and guests are progressing well, but no date has been definitely decided upon. Members will be called when plans are completed.

Mrs. Donald Rice was named chairman of the nominating committee and is to be assisted by Mrs. Guy Harmon and Mrs. Ben Gibson. Hostess for the day was Mrs. K. M. Moty, and guests included Mrs. Joseph O. Smith, Mrs. H. A. Kirchen, Mrs. A. J. Honzel, Mrs. Francis Manning and Mrs. George O. Van Orden.
