

RETURNED VETS GET TO GUARD WAR PRISONERS

Returned overseas veterans, especially Americans liberated German and Japanese prisoners, will be utilized to a maximum extent in guarding prisoners of war and administering camps within the 9th service command, it was announced today by Maj. Gen. Sam E. Shedd, commanding general at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Reassignment and redistribution stations in the command have been instructed to have been instructed to fully screen overseas recruits for selection of qualified personnel who desire assignment for duty at prisoner camps, he declared.

Commissioned and enlisted personnel selected will be thoroughly indoctrinated in the provisions of the Geneva convention and the need for firm but humane treatment of prisoners prior to reporting for duty at the camps.

Shedd also stated that military policy regarding feeding prisoners of war has been revised. The revised menu, being served at all internment camps, eliminates most of the rationed foods from the menu, he said. The only authorized consists of vegetables which are in least degree, such as feet, neck, hearts, and tails.

The caloric value of the rationed food for working prisoners will be maintained by use of plentiful vegetables and fruits, with sugar and fat virtually eliminated.

Prisoners who refuse to work immediately placed on a bread and water diet.

NEW PLANING MILL BEGINS OPERATIONS

Operations started Monday morning in the Modoc Point Planing mill, under direction of Al Fleishman, manager of the Southwest Oregon Lumber company of Grants Pass.

The custom planing mill, an affiliate of the lumber company, started with a crew of 15 men. A superintendent for the mill has not been selected yet, Carl Huson, representative, stated, but several applications are under consideration.

Planing and re-sawing boards on government order will be the main operation of the mill, with grading, sorting and finishing. Lumber obtained from the Willamette valley will be used and buildings on the former Lamm Lumber company site at Modoc Point will be utilized.

The location is exceptionally adapted for the purpose of the mill with two main railway lines convenient, Huson said.

This is the first re-manufacturing operation to be located on the site of a dismantled sawmill in this area.

The office of the Modoc Point Planing mill will be at 111 S. 7th in Klamath Falls. The office building is being redecorated and will be occupied about the middle of this week.
