HILLS OF HOME

(In memory of Seaman Lee Brady) He was a landsman, this brother of mine. Green hills he loved, and the smell of pine. He never dreamed of another fate.

Want Good Government

THE one characteristic these men have in common is that they want to give good government. I do not know whether they can, but they want to. I am inclined to think they may succeed to unexpected proportions because their minds are not distorted by ideologies which might lead them to foolish decisions.

Today's Roundup

NEWS suppression usually backfires. Except in cases where military security is clearly involved, attempts to shut off the free flow of information are likely to end unsatisfactorily, if not disastrously.

The Jap balloon business furnishes a case in point. It was felt that military security required that there be nothing published to give the Japs information about specific localities where these balloons have been seen or landed.

Meanwhile, rumors got started, and a lot of wild and false stories were gaining credence among an uninformed public. Finally, it was agreed to permit publication of general information about the balloons, along with a sensible warning.

Interesting Evening

SALEM STATESMAN, taking note of Klamath's commencement without guest speaker, recalls that the single speaker idea came as a great reform in its day.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, May 25—Type of men Mr. Truman is bringing into government is likened by some to Coolidge or Harding, and the assembling personality of his whole regime is being run into that past character niche, especially by bewildered and confused radicals.

Harding or Coolidge era. Why he was not even president of the First National Bank of St. Louis from which Mr. Truman extracted him. He was a reasonably young vice president, with no grey hair, no wrinkles, a clear round open face, genial, open-talking.

First thing Mr. Snyder did also rated only an obscure paragraph from the press associations. He found six lending agencies under RFC functioning with six separate staffs, letter-heads, offices, and all the costly individual paraphernalia of bureaucracies—by order of law.

Mr. Snyder had his staff write a new law consolidating this absurd duplication. The congressional banking committee introduced it. The bill passed the senate unanimously, without objection, Tuesday, and will shortly receive the same approval of the house.

Pauley Leads Commission

LOOK into Edwin W. Pauley, Truman's leader of the allied reparations commission, whose head is being projected into the bear's mouth in Moscow now. Pauley made a million or so in California oil, but he looks like an oil worker.

Second To Truman

OR look again into Bob Hannegan, the new postmaster general (beginning July 1) who requires another look in view of his sharply advanced eminence in this new regime. He is second man to Truman now.
