Reports reached here from Dairy today, advising that the quota set for that Klamath county community had been exceeded three times over. Dairy was the first outlying section to report.

FILARIASIS BEATEN IN YEAR'S STUDY

never develop in the human body unless they leave it for a time to pass through a mosquito. Hence, the adult worms are unable to reproduce themselves in the body, and they do not accumulate. Those which are there are slowly destroyed. In an area such as this, where there are no susceptible mosquitoes, infection does not occur. Furthermore, marines here have been known to have so few filaria in their bodies that even though there were susceptible mosquitoes here, they would not spread infection.

No Elephantiasis
In all the thousands of cases of marines with filariasis, not a single case of elephantiasis has occurred. This seems to be confined to the natives in areas where re-infection occurs innumerable times.

The filariasis scare has thus vanished. Marines who contracted the disease are living normal lives. Many of them are married and have families. Hundreds of them have left here for full duty status. There are still filariasis cases, but a lot more is known about it now and it is no longer a major medical problem in the marine corps.

Hector Appointed Licensing Agent For Explosives

County Engineer Wally Hector has been appointed federal explosives licensing agent for Klamath county, it was announced today. The public may now obtain licenses at the engineer's office in the courthouse.

This job was previously held by Glenn Tyrrell of KID. Tyrrell resigned some time ago to accept a position with the M. L. Johnson Insurance company.

Service bringing the injured man to the hospital.

Wilson was conscious during the trip into Klamath Falls.

Storm Breaks
It is understood that during the drilling, the workmen struck rock, probably a heavy boulder through which the drill could not pass. Nine sticks of dynamite were prepared when the blast occurred. Just at that time a heavy electrical storm broke over the basin area.

Final rites for Robert Wilson will be announced later by Whitlock's. The young man was born in Butte, Mont., September 28, 1916. He had been a resident of Malin for 13 years. He is survived by his wife, the former Irene Spolek, daughter of Mrs. Katie Spolek of Malin, two children, Robert Aron Jr., and Linda Lee, his mother, Mrs. Clyde Van Meter of Malin, and one brother, Cpl. Charles Vernon Wilson, U. S. army air corps, Hollywood, Calif.

RAINS DELAY WORK ON COUNTY ROADS

Unprecedented rains during the month of May have held up work on Klamath county roads for a good week, according to County Engineer Wally Hector. Trucks cannot operate over the mired roads and not until a good warm spell will the program continue.

Major projects on the 1945 summer program includes the surfacing of the Round Lake road, a stretch of some four miles, surfacing of market roads in the Poe valley and Langell valley districts, and some surfacing of market roads up Fort Klamath way to the north.

A rock crusher, which should have been in operation April 1, is not ready as yet, Hector said. His office is still awaiting arrival of parts. The crusher will operate near Harpold dam in Poe valley.

Fire trails and the Lake of the Woods road will come in for blading this summer and work on the Dehlinger bridge across Lost river is being held up, waiting for timber, Hector advised.

sorbed by the expanding civilian economy and the armed forces will amount to 4,100,000. At the same time, the withdrawals from the labor force are expected to exceed entrants by 200,000, leaving 1,300,000 persons unemployed, or 600,000 less than at the end of the first three months.

Arms Plan Cut
As of May 12, Krug reported, the 1945 munitions program had been slashed by $7,000,000,000, leaving it at $55,000,000,000. "This is a substantial drop," Krug commented, "but it still does not bring programs down to a true one-front war basis. The military services now are reviewing their requirements, and within a few weeks it is expected that another large step-down will be ordered. Some further small readjustments are likely in succeeding months."

WORD RECEIVED FROM PFC MILLER

An intercepted enemy propaganda broadcast emanating from Japan, was forwarded today by the provost marshal general's office to Mrs. Robert Odlin Miller, 501 N. 11th, giving her information regarding her son, PFC Robert Lowery "Bilby" Miller, United States marine corps.

Young Miller was taken prisoner at the fall of Corregidor in the spring of 1942. He was at one time held prisoner at Hoten, Manchukuo, but is now at Osaka, it is understood. The broadcast carried the following message:

"Dear folks, I am happy to take this opportunity to send this radio letter and let you know I am in fair health and spirits. I have been anxiously awaiting word from you all since I have been a prisoner but I have failed to get even one letter so far. That's a long time to go without word from home. I did receive one parcel from one while I was in Hoten though. It was like manna from heaven. Please send letters and parcels with all my love and (hope?) I am looking forward to next Christmas with you. Your son, Robert."

The provost marshal general's office advised that this broadcast supplements all previous reports.

Paper Pickup Drive Slated By Jaycees

Sunday, June 10, will see another waste paper pickup drive sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce, according to the Jaycee paper salvage chairman today.

Despite the end of the war in Europe, the need for paper salvage is just as vital to the prosecution of the Japanese war as ever, Jaycee Bill Kunz, paper salvage publicity chairman, stated, and the junior chamber is going to continue its paper pickup drives until the need is over.

Tin cans are still being salvaged. A partly filled carload of tin from Salem is being shipped through Klamath, and the

Blasts Reporter

Eric-Gen. Frank Allen, above, chief SIAEF press relations officer, declared, on authorization of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, that dispatch about German surrender issued by Edward Kennedy, Associated Press reporter, put the Allied commander-in-chief in the position of having broken his word with Russia. Allen said Eisenhower had promised the Russians the news would not be released until they were sure surrender was positive on all fronts.

German radio since April, 1939. One of his last broadcasts was the English translation of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz's order reporting the death of Adolf Hitler.

More than a year ago the British government announced that British subjects who had worked with the enemy would be returned to Great Britain for trial.

Obtains Review
Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the U. S. supreme court, chief United States counsel for the prosecution of war crimes, went to work immediately to obtain an up-to-the-minute review of the progress in indicting prominent nazis upon his arrival in London from Paris.

The British foreign office expressed the hope that Jackson's visit would result in rapid progress in the discussions to establish machinery for the trial of major war criminals. Prime Minister Churchill announced in common the appointment of Attorney General Sir David Maxwell Fyfe as the British representative of the big power board of prosecution for leading nazis. Sir David will serve with Jackson and presumably with representatives of Russia and France who have not yet been named.

Churchill said that the trials "ought not to be proceeded with until they are properly arranged and the method is agreed upon between the great powers."

BIG SICK LIST
It has been estimated that between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 persons in the United States would be found ill, if a survey were conducted at any given time.

local residents are asked to contribute two tons of tin to fill it before it is sent on its way south. This tin is needed before Saturday, June 2, and can be left at the Salvage depot on Market street.

guarantee is given that materials can be found.

Gradual Program
"Controls will be relaxed just as soon as resources become available," the agency said, "but relaxation will have to be gradual."

The move was in line with numerous steps taken within the last month in the field of consumer goods.

Already WPB has ruled that 200,000 passenger cars may be made in 1945 if the automotive industry can find materials without priority help, sewing machines and typewriter makers have received the same go-ahead, but with no restraint on volume of production except ability to locate materials.

Other prime consumer items — notably refrigerators and washing machines — are considered so urgently needed that WPB has offered priority help for their manufacture. Thus 700,000 washers and 330,000 refrigerators are assured this year, plus as many more as can be built without priority aid.

Hit Tokyo
An imperial communique said some of the attacking forces swept 18 miles northward to hit Tokyo and the intervening industrial town of Kawasaki. The Japanese admitted the raiders caused considerable damage.

The enemy communique placed the attacking force at "some 500 B-29s and some 100 P-51s." Dispatches from Guam said there were "more than 450 B-29s."

The imperial communique claimed 30 raiders were shot down and 40 damaged.

Relief Slated
Premier Kantaro Suzuki's cabinet allocated 50,444,000 yen, roughly $13,000,000, for relief of Tokyo's fire bomb victims.

Four top admirals in the Mikado's disappearing navy were re-shuffled, as delayed press dispatches disclosed the first Nipponese attempt to run supplies to Okinawa. The three ships making the attempt a week ago were sunk by carrier aircraft. Ten other sinkings reported today included a Nipponese destroyer.

A single Japanese platoon behind a road block composed of barrels was the only opposition encountered by sixth division marines surging through Naha, capital of Okinawa. But Yank patrols reaching an island in the harbor were driven off by machinegun fire.
