

BOYS COMPOSE FIRE FIGHTING CREWS IN AREA

Two fire fighting camps composed of boys of high school age have been established this summer by the Klamath Forest Protective association under the direction of H. H. Ogle, district warden.

One of these camps is located at Penny Springs off the Ashland-Klamath Falls highway and is composed of nine boys along with a foreman and a cook. The other camp is situated at King's cabin on the Long-Bell tract in the northeast corner of the Klamath Indian reservation where 10 boys are stationed along with two foremen and a cook. Boys placed there are responsible for fire suppression as far east as Summer lake rim which is 30 miles east of the main camp.

The duties of the boys consist of telephone line repair, clearing of roads, relief of forest lookouts, and suppression of any fires breaking out in their two respective areas.

The boys seem to enjoy the work, Ogle stated, and prefer their own districts. Several boys at both camps hold radio broadcast licenses, he said.

The 10 boys stationed at King's cabin are: Dave Williams, Joe Williams, John Ogle, Robert Mocabee, John Foster, Gaylord Upington, Charles Blackstone, Dick Yates, Norman Stratton, and Kenneth Ellis.

Boys in the Penny Springs camp include Solon Stone, John Carstensen, Jim Case, Gene Yarnell, Robert Lee, Richard Young, Alvin Steele, Dick Cole, and Harold Gillette.

Standard Service Station Burglarized

The Standard service station across from the Tower theatre on S. 6th was entered some time last night and the cash register containing $5 in pennies and an unknown amount of gas coupons stolen. Entry was made by forcing the front door.

E. C. Bridger, owner and proprietor of the station, discovered the theft at 7 o'clock a. m. when he arrived to open up and notified state police, who are now investigating the case.

Rifling a gun barrel, a delicate machining job, is now being done 30 times faster than a few months ago.

Mrs. L. G. Logan, 1323 Worden and Mrs. Elizabeth Bell, Rt. 3, have received letters from the captain and chaplain of their late brother and son, Hilliard Bell.

Bell lost his life April 2, 1945. His body is buried in a cemetery located on the former school grounds in the town of Zamami, on the island of Zamami of the Kerama Retto group near Okinawa, according to Chaplain Luther M. Cole.

Cpt. John Doorley's letter was received through the Red Cross. The captain wrote "Hilliard was killed in action against the enemy on board ship when a Jap bomber crashed into the bridge. He was given medical attention immediately but died almost instantly."

Memorial services were held aboard ship and again on land, the captain said. Company C, of which he was a member, named its company street Bell's Row in his honor. He was liked by everyone, and his loss will be deeply felt, the captain wrote.
