occupation in the reach at the expense of their own zones. France was said to be pressing for inclusion in her zone of Cologne, which now is in the British area, and Frankfurt, which is in the American and is the site of Gen. Eisenhower's advance headquarters. The French also would like the Saar basin, which originally was included in the American zone. It was reported that the lines of demarcation in the reach would be essentially the same as those indicated in maps published Wednesday in Moscow. These maps showed the Russian zone as including the eastern half of Germany.

Bonomi to Remain
At the request of the Italian council of minister's Ivanoe Bonomi has agreed to remain as premier until the Italian committee of liberation can choose a successor. Bonomi's resignation had been expected today. Communists, socialists and actionists on the six-party committee are opposed to offering the premiership to Bonomi again. Thus far the committee has been unable to agree on a successor.

The Yugoslav telegraph agency said that Marshal Tito had told a delegation of Yugoslav Catholic clergymen that he wanted the Catholic church in Croatia to be more national, more independent and more "closely bound with the rest of the Slavs." He added, however, that he did "not assume any right to denounce Rome."

that we'll get nowhere with Russia by lying down and letting her walk on us.

ABOVE all else, in the present and probably future state of world affairs, we want to get along with Russia. This writer has a notion we can't do it by KOWTOWING.

Let's BE OURSELVES—going through with it, conscious of our strength and of the purity of our purposes, and let's know we're right. Let's be tolerant of Russia and of her perfectly understandable suspicions of us and the rest of the world, but let's be FIRM at the sticking points.

If Stalin is the kind of individual we HOPE he is, that is the way to get along with him.

AN odd situation bobs up in congress.

The house of representatives votes itself an additional $2500 a year as EXPENSE ACCOUNT. The senators refused to vote for themselves. President Truman not only says he'll sign the bill giving the house members their added expense money but suggests that congress is underpaid and intimates that he will sign a bill raising the pay of congressmen and senators from the present $10,000 to as much as $25,000 a year if both houses will pass it.

ABOUT the best one can say of it all is that it is a GOOD idea at a BAD time. We need in congress the BEST MEN WE HAVE. If paying them $25,000 a year would get our best men into congress it would be the soundest investment we ever made. The right kind of men in congress in the past dozen critical years would have saved us BILLIONS ON BILLIONS.

But we're trying now to sit on the lid until the world gets back to something like normal. If congress votes to double its OWN pay at this period when explosive inflationary pressures are building up, the lid will be blown sky high.

AIR TRAGEDY LEADS TO VALLEY OPENING aid the big transport "eventually became caught in a downdraft as it flew above uncharted peaks and crashed 7200 feet above sea level into a mountain."

Unexplored Jungle
The C-47, in which 21 others were killed, crashed about 3 p. m. May 13 against a mountain which rises up to 17,000 feet. The mountain helps form the wall around the fabulous valley where an estimated 50,000 to 100,000 natives live in walled communities, completely shut off from the world outside by jungle and mountain areas largely unexplored.

Apparently warring on each other, the walled communities keep sentinels atop tall posts. They till fertile valley extensively, terrace the mountain slopes and raise enormous hogs.

May 16, the wreckage was spotted high on the mountain wall and the two men and the woman could be seen alive near the burned fuselage. They were suffering from slight burns and shock.

"We are all right," one survivor assured after the walkie-talkie was dropped.

"Just keep sending us supplies."

Lt. McCollum said the explosion and bright glare of the burning plane attracted natives from the valley. He told Capt. Victor R. Myers of San Antonio, Tex., flying in one plane over the scene, of the gift of the pig.

Natives Aloof
Most of the natives once thought possibly to be headhunters, remain aloof but officers believe they will not attempt to harm the Americans. "I am fine and enjoying it all," said Wac Hastings in a clear, firm voice over the walkie-talkie.

The 100-pound corporal wore regulation Wac slacks.

Paratroopers in the valley are building the emergency landing strip below the crash scene.

"As long as we have American planes zooming around over us, we feel perfectly safe and can hold out indefinitely," said Lt. McCollum.

The hidden valley was discovered accidentally in the spring of 1944 while an aerial survey was being made of shorter routes by which to bring supplies from Australia to Hollandia.

Never Entered
In an unexplored sector, the vicinity of the valley was approached some years ago by a ground expedition but never entered.

Nowhere between Hollandia and the valley is their a spot even for a forced landing by plane. The native homes in the walled communities appear from the air as mushrooms. They and Secretary of State Stettinius, who acted with President Truman's approval, to end the deadlock. Hopkins, on instructions from Stettinius, asked Stalin to reconsider soviet insistence that any of the Big Five could veto even discussion in the peace-enforcement council of an international dispute. The other four major powers did not want a major veto to block round-table talk.

Reverses Position
Stalin reversed the soviet position, acting, according to his spokesman here, in the interest of unanimity and to speed the conference to success.

Russian Ambassador Andrei Gromyko first advised Stettinius of Moscow's action yesterday. Then he told it to Stettinius and representatives of Britain, China and France at a mid-afternoon meeting at the secretary's penthouse headquarters. The five next rushed to conference headquarters at the Veterans building and amid much applause announced the news to the delegation chairman of the other 45 nations represented here.

After days of tension and anxiety lest the big powers split permanently, 4 to 1, on this issue, delegates emerged from the steering committee conference room chatting and smiling.

Stettinius went to a news conference where he made the same announcement for the world to hear. He emphasized the ability of the nations to work together.

have thatched roofs set upon poles.

The farmlands are neatly laid out for many square miles. There is row upon row of water-filled ditches. The natives practice crop rotation.

Pilots report having seen "boars as big as donkeys."

The only gorge which could have formed an entrance to the valley is cut off by a mountain wall running at direct cross angles. This wall probably was hidden by clouds when the transport plane crashed. The rescue airmen have been quick on the stick to avoid a similar accident.

From aloft, they have looked down at a great cascade of water falling over the slopes and splashing many feet into the valley below, then racing down a gorge in a swift, rolling river.

The industrious natives have spanned this turbulent stream with a rope bridge.

Some American fliers insist the neat rows of ditches are not really for irrigation but to keep the moist soil properly drained.

Trucks Crowd Auto Off Highway; Woman Hurt In Crash

A traffic accident occurred this morning at 4 o'clock when an automobile driven by Walter S. Pullman, USMC, was crowded off the highway near the Riverside Auto camp by a large truck which failed to stop.

The vehicle rolled down an embankment and Edith Bates, a passenger in the car, received a broken collarbone. She was rushed to the Klamath Valley hospital where she is reported to be resting comfortably.

of New York City, to be a member of the national labor relations board to succeed H. A. Millis, resigned. Herzog, former chairman of the New York state labor relations board, has been doing labor relations work for the navy as a reserve lieutenant.

Discussing the Hines-Bradley shift, Mr. Truman, a veteran of World War I himself, told reporters he would not have liked to have a Spanish-American war man conducting veterans' affairs for the last two decades or more.

The president reiterated a previous assertion that the veterans administration will be modernized. He said that as presently constituted it is adequate to handle the affairs of World War I veterans only.

Logging Truck Tire Supply To Improve

PORTLAND, June 8 (AP)—A United States Rubber company executive predicted here that June and July will see the logging truck tire situation improve, although supply still will not meet the demand.

New tires for A-card drivers, however, will be scarce, reported J. C. Ray, sales manager of the company's Fisk tire division. He said B and C-card holders gradually will receive more tires. "We are working on the theory that it will be better to have too many tires than too few for the military operations of licking the Japs," he said.

Arctic Missionary Leaves Alaskan Post

POINT BARROW, Alaska, June 8 (AP)—Rev. Fred Klerekooper, Arctic missionary, left Point Barrow yesterday after eight years service, as representative of the Presbyterian board of home missions.

He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who was born at Fairbanks last summer. Klerekooper has made repeated trips by sled, snowmobile and plane from Barrow to Canadian territory for church work. Roh Ahmoak, local Eskimo trained by Klerekooper, is in charge of the Barrow church until a replacement arrives.

diately instituted, and later a federal fugitive charge was lodged against him.

Heuvel was accused of contributing to the delinquency of a young girl in connection with charges she made of advances he allegedly made to her after her arrest here. Later, on February 19, he was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of rape, and two counts of sodomy, in connection with charges made by two girls at The Dalles who had been previously in custody here.

Sheriff Low had a large number of circulars printed and carried on a widespread correspondence with police officers in an attempt to apprehend Heuvel.

False Clues

He received many false clues. One report was that Heuvel was else reported seeing him in Reno. He was reported seen riding a motorcycle in Klamath Falls, and only a few days ago a woman reported she saw Heuvel in a local restaurant, wearing a beard and tramp clothing.

The Arkansas development, however, disposes of recent tips of this nature. Evidently, Heuvel has been in Kessett for some time. This little town is in White county, and the nearby county seat is Searcy.

Sheriff Low said he had asked the FBI to make the arrest, rather than local officers in Arkansas, with the thought that under present conditions, the FBI could more conveniently and quickly return Heuvel to Oregon.

Flood Stage Forecast For Willamette

PORTLAND, June 8 (AP)—An 18-foot flood stage for the Willamette river here Saturday has been predicted by the weather bureau, which forecast 18.6 feet Sunday and 18.8 Monday.

The rate of increase will diminish after Monday, officials said. The Columbia river at Vancouver is expected to climb from 17.2 feet today to 18.9 Monday.

The bureau said little or no damage will result.

EVANGELIST OUSTED ON MORALS CHARGES

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8 (AP)—Pointing to his conviction last February on a disorderly conduct charge involving morals, trustees and the board of the people, Crystal Lake Gospel park, last night ousted the Rev. Jerry Owen as their president and evangelist.

Owen, who calls himself the "football-evangelist," was accused by the board of violating the scriptural requirements under which he was to have held office for life.

An appeal now is pending from Owen's sentence—$50 and 30 days in jail. "At the trial police testified they had arrested him in a hotel room with a 21-year-old woman."

A Los Angeles waitress, Mrs. Jean Kelly Wheeler, last month filed a paternity suit against Owen, naming him the father of her 23-year-old son.

LAWMAKERS SPEED LEGISLATIVE WORK

SACRAMENTO, June 8 (AP)—The legislature worked under forced draft today, the last of the present session on which one house can transmit its own measure to the other house except by a three fourths vote.

Several controversial issues remained to be settled, including the Warren-proposed measure re-creating an unemployment relief setup in preparation for a mass unemployment that might come with reconversion.

Still on the senate file was the assembly-approved Sawalish bill to impose a midnight curfew on liquor establishments.

Blocked in the senate yesterday by Senator John Shelley, San Francisco, on a reconsideration motion after it had been returned to the assembly for concurrence in minor amendments, eventual passage of the curfew bill seemed assured but it was doubtful if it would get to the governor in time to take effect this weekend.
