TRAINING PROGRAMS CLOSE OVER STATE

Along with war production training programs all over the state, the training program being carried out in the Klamath high school vocational department was ended last night at the meeting of the advisory board.

Following the present plan, the shops and facilities in the vocational department are to be used only for training in the future. At the present time, the classes are being offered to marines but as six more classes have been requested, the department may be boosted to 12, according to LeRoy Erdmann, director of the vocational department.

In 1941, classes began under the heading of national defense training. This was changed to war production training after Pearl Harbor. Classes were offered on a 24-hour schedule in 1942 in an effort to train workers for production. Later when production material for war work had been taken from the community, classes were used to supplement training in local industries. Also high school students received training on a production basis.

When asked if the vocational department was to be open to high school students this fall, Erdmann replied that there may be a phase of day training in shops for high school students even though the marine program continues.

The department has been added to the department from which classes have closed in the Ashland area. Because of this, Erdmann anticipates a strong vocational department in the future.

Recovering—Mrs. Betty Sloan of Los Angeles is in Hillside hospital recovering from a major operation performed last Thursday. Mrs. Sloan is the sister of Mrs. Larry Whytal of this city.

League Executive to Visit in City

As a means of extending the organization of the National League of Women Voters, Olive McKay, organization secretary from the national office in Washington, D. C., will meet with Klamath Falls league members June 29.

Before the board meeting a luncheon will be held at the Pelican cafe at 1:00, according to Mrs. Donald F. McKay, president of the local league.

Travelling with Miss McKay on a statewide organization tour are Mrs. John Stark Evans, Portland, president of the Oregon league, and Mrs. Richard S. Godfrey, Portland, member of the state board of directors.

Giving advice about organization of new leagues and enlargement of old ones, the group will stop at Medford, Eugene, Portland, Bend, Astoria, and other Oregon cities.

Miss McKay, a graduate of the University of Montana and Columbia university, is a national authority on public law, labor economics and social legislation.

Less Nuisance from Dogs Seen

"Dogs have caused less nuisance this year during the two-month tie-up period than in the past," A. Fields, poundmaster, asserted today. He commended dog owners on their fine cooperation during May and June in keeping dogs off the streets and out of gardens and in keeping police court comparatively free of violation cases.

The heaviest day this summer was when 20 dogs were in the pound at one time, Fields said. This was unusual, however, as most of the time not more than two or three were detained at one time.

Dogs kept in the pound are released when the fine is paid. In a few cases some owners would rather lose a dog than pay a fine, Fields said. In these instances, another home is found for the canine, preferably in the country.

After July 1, dogs may be turned loose again. Fields reminded owners, advising them that animals must be licensed. If the license has been purchased but is lost, he said, the loss should be reported.

GRAND JURY INSTRUCTED BY JUDGE

The Klamath county grand jury for the June term of circuit court convened this morning and was instructed in its duties by Circuit Court Judge David R. Vandenberg.

"The principal function of the grand jury," Judge Vandenberg said, "is to inquire into crimes committed and triable in Klamath county. It may present or indict any person for a crime."

"Every time a man is charged with a crime and elements of that crime are not shown to the jury, the court will free him," he declared.

"This happened a week or so ago. I did it once and I will do it again. As sure as a crime is not proven as charged, a directed verdict will be returned by the court. There is no reason for the grand jury bringing in a wrong indictment because it has the right through a presentment to bring the facts it has heard in the grand jury room directly before the court, omitting the name of the person investigated," Vandenberg said.

"The court will then instruct them as to whether or not the facts constitute a crime of law," he declared.

"If one element of a crime is missing there is no case."

He informed the grand jury that it could investigate law enforcement in general or in part and could return an indictment if an investigation justified it. It requires the concurrence of five grand jurors to return an indictment, he explained. It is then presented to the court by the foreman of the grand jury and filed with the court clerk.

Judge Vandenberg concluded by saying that "it is the duty and right of the grand jury to investigate any and all crimes."

The grand jury then retired to investigate and report upon matters presented to it by District Attorney Clarence A. Humble.

The temperature here reached 92 again Tuesday for the second time this year. Today's temperature promises to tie that figure, if not surpass it, with the mercury reaching 88 at noon.

LIONS EMPHASIZE BOND PURCHASES

The meeting of the Lions club on Tuesday afternoon was given over to the sale of war bonds for the 7th War Loan drive. Mrs. Rose Poole, Andrew Collier, Vern Moore and Myrtle Adams stressed the importance of the purchase of "E" bonds by Lions in particular and the public in general.

Mrs. Poole stated that some businessmen contended that "E" bonds were not "their meat," and went on to say that Iwo Jima, for example was not the "meat" of our fighting men, but it was their duty to finish the task they had set out to do. Mrs. Poole drew an analogy to the job on the home front and the battle front.

Lions were asked by Clarence Humble, organizational chairman, to do all they could in this drive. He acted as chairman of the day, and passed out pledge cards to the members to list their purchases to date, as well as expected purchases before the completion of the 7th War Loan drive. The results of the pledges indicated that the members have or would purchase a total of $37,000 as against the quota of $35,000 which was set for the club.

"Baldy" Evans reported the purchase of an additional bond, thereby making him eligible for the Limit club.

Guests for the day included Ray Worden and Cecil Barkdoll.

LOWELL APARTMENT PROPERTY SOLD

A real estate transaction involving the purchase of lot 31, block 17, 201 E. Main, for a sum between $15,000 and $20,000 was completed recently, according to a warranty deed filed June 18 in the county clerk's office.

Gust and Mary G. Lampropoulos bought the property from Frank V. Lowell and Dorothy Hollingsworth Lowell. The property was formerly occupied by the Lowell apartments. Lampropoulos said today that the name had been changed to the Olympic apartments.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Rye broke the five-cent limit after noon today and other grain futures markets were sharply lower under general liquidation.

A steady stream of commission house selling orders came into the rye pit after mid-day, and there was little support in the market which had started with losses ranging up to 3 1/2 cents a bushel.

The disturbing influence was the Chicago board of trade's call for more margin for rye futures—20 instead of 10 cents—at a time when many analysts considered the market technically weak.

At the finish wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/2¢ lower than yesterday's close. July $1.09 1/2-1.10 1/2. Corn was unchanged to off 1/2¢. December $1.17 1/2. Oats were down 1 to 1 1/2¢. July 68¢. Rye was 3 1/2 to 5¢ lower. July $1.54-1.54 1/2. Barley was down 3 1/2 to 4 1/2¢. July $1.14 1/2.
