Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

Yesterday, there were quitting noises from Japan.

Today, in response to the Truman-Churchill-Chiang ultimatum that the Japs must give up or die, there were Tokyo reports that the Jap leadership had decided on the latter alternative.

These wide discrepancies in the not-too-reliable news on Japanese inside policy may be indicative of the confusion and disagreement that exists among those who are directing the destiny of hard-pressed Nippon.

They may be even having a hard time thinking. Klamath people who claimed their mental processes were disrupted by a few small planes flying over at night may have some idea of what can happen to the old thought-tank when Superforts are roaring overhead dropping block-busters and fire bombs.

Hour of Decision

SERIOUSLY, it does appear quite clear that the Japs have reached a definite point of decision in the course of their ill-starred war with America and Britain.

The choice they make in the next few days will determine whether the war is to go on, with ever-mounting air attacks on the empire and an eventual invasion of the Jap homeland.

It is just possible, if the Japs decide for peace, that it will come as a surprise in the midst of sabre-rattling talk of more war.

The Japs went to war in the midst of strong talk of continuing the peace, and with peace emissaries in Washington. Consistently inconsistent, they might make peace in the midst of a great show of continuing the war.

News Interpreter

WITH peace feelers and ultimatums buzzing through the news, American ears are straining toward Japan. Every word from radio Tokyo is intensively studied for plain or hidden significance.

A man who is performing important service of this sort for the Associated Press is J. D. White, who for many years while in the Orient gave as his home address the Rock Creek Ranch, Klamath Falls, Ore. He is a brother of Mrs. D. E. Alexander, and he is now on the cable desk for the AP at San Francisco.

He is an able correspondent with years of experience in the Orient, and covered the beginning of the war in China eight years ago. He is taking over the AP's column, "Interpreting the War News" previously handled by Kirke L. Simpson, which is a companion feature with DeWitt MacKenzie's "The War Today" appearing in our paper.

A Tear For Winnie

SWINGING our attention in the other direction, a lot of us will shed a personal tear for Winston Churchill as he relinquishes power after the great labor party victory in England.

Unforgettable to those who have lived through these times is the inspiring leadership he gave in the dark days when a complete German victory seemed almost inevitable.

He was the man who rose in the hour of crisis, and his performance then will live on through history. We will remember best his straight talk—his determination to speak out the truth when the truth was most bitter to swallow.

The political defeat he has just suffered is not interpreted by anyone as a repudiation of his leadership in the war. The issues that brought his overthrow were concerned with British domestic policy; they are of far-reaching significance, but in no way a stain on the brilliant war record of Winston Churchill.

For some intimate details of the British election announcement, we will await with interest early columns from our own Frank Jenkins, in London when the big news broke.

The War Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

WINSTON CHURCHILL has gone down to political defeat in the midst of that stirring drama which brought him to power and in fact has marked his whole adventurous life, for as his government was being voted out of existence he signed the historic allied ultimatum of Potsdam, calling on Japan to surrender unconditionally or suffer "prompt and utter destruction."

That was a fitting farewell gesture for a gallant warrior—one of the great figures in English history—who has had so great a part in saving the world from axis slavery. This edict, which in effect renews Britain's pledge to wage war against Nippon to the finish, of course had the approval of the new prime minister, Major Clement Attlee, who has been attending the Big Three conference as Churchill's "deputy." Attlee says England will see it through.

Allied Question

THE big question in Japan's mind, and the minds of the allied publics, is what Generalissimo Stalin says—if anything—about it. Is he prepared to help America, Britain and China enforce this ultimatum, or is he standing to one side? I think Tokyo has a right to fear that he gave the grim notice his blessings.

Labor's triumph in the British general election isn't a rebuke to Churchill—for the country reverences him as the man who led them out of the wilderness of defeat. Rather it is a repudiation of the conservative party and represents a heavy swing to the left.

The leftist development in England isn't new, although there have been those who refused to see it. This column has been pointing to it consistently since 1942. However, as I remarked yesterday, we shouldn't misunderstand the meaning of this trend, for it has little to do with long-haired intellectual socialism. It isn't revolutionary but evolutionary—a gradual development arising from the search of the working class for a better way of life. One would expect it to progress without fireworks.

Labor Aims

THE labor party aims at "a socialist commonwealth of Great Britain." This contemplates as an initial step the nationalization of coal mines, iron and steel plants, railroads and all other forms of public transportation. Public ownership of the Bank of England also is advocated.

Of course this presages a great change in England's domestic policies. It means further breaking up of the vast estates of the landed gentry. It means an acceleration of the leveling off of incomes. The England of Queen Victoria has gone forever.

However, while we may expect a big change domestically, Britain's foreign policy is likely to remain broadly the same. Britain's commitments, such as those relating to the Japanese war and the rehabilitation of Europe, will be carried out in full.

To Shake Tradition

THERE'S one qualification which I think we should make here. The laborites undoubtedly will do their utmost to shake off the tradition of imperialism that has clung to the conservative party like the old man of the sea. Among other things this might give rise to a fresh effort to settle the dangerous Indian question. And it might influence the government's policy towards Britain's pre-war spheres of influence—Greece and the Middle East, for example.

Sixty-two-year-old Attlee, while totally lacking the color and magnetism of the Churchill personality, is an earnest and determined leader. He is generally regarded by his colleagues as being the good samaritan type of socialist. He is thumbs-down on communism for British (although friendly towards Russia) and always has preached against dictatorships, either of the left or of the right.

LUTHERANS TO PICNIC SUNDAY; SERVICES TOLD

Preceded by an open-air service, the annual Sunday school and congregational picnic of the Klamath Lutheran church will be held at Moore park, July 29. Pastor S. M. Toppens will conduct the morning service at the park at 11 a. m. The subject of his sermon will be "The 'Probable' Son." There will be a pot-luck dinner served at noon. Each family is asked to bring table service, as well as a dish to pass. The brotherhood of the church will provide coffee for the grown-ups and pop and ice cream for the children. In the afternoon there will be races, games and contests for young and old. Transportation will be provided for all who meet at the church between 10 and 10:45 a. m. Members of the Sunday school and congregation, as well as friends of the church, are invited to attend.

Attend Synod Two young people of the Presbyterian church, Shirley Robinson and Marjorie DuFour, attended the Presbyterian Youth Synod which was held July 17-19 in Portland. With other representatives from Presbyterian churches throughout the state, they heard forums on each of the commissions in the Westminster Youth Fellowship plan. Other Klamath representatives in Portland were Dr. David F. Barnett, Dr. George L. Wright and Bert C. Thomas, who attended the Presbyterian Synod, the governing body for the Presbyterian church.

Sunday Spookers The Rev. Charles Sundstrom will speak at Sunday services in the Immanuel Baptist church. The subject for morning worship will be "Conquest Through Surrender." Mrs. Stanley Gordh of Portland, will be the soloist and will lead the choir. The evening evangelistic service will begin at 8 p. m., with Mrs. Gordh leading the song service. Special music will be presented by the stringed trio. The pastor's subject will be "The Anonymous Good Samaritan." Chaplain David T. Gillmor of the U. S. army, will speak at the Sunday morning service of the Community Congregational church. His topic will be "Life on an Airplane Carrier."

Subject for the morning service at the First Covenant church will be "Cooperating With God," given by Alvert L. Dwight, pastor. At the evening service his subject will be "The Fire Fell in China." At that time he will give a first-hand account of the Christian awakening that swept over a large section of China and greatly influenced the trend of Christian work throughout the whole country.

Cherry Slug Hits Klamath County Trees Cherry trees in the area are showing considerable cherry slug this year, entomologists in Klamath Falls on Thursday said. Leaves will curl and fall off the trees this year if infested with slugs, they stated, but trees will not be seriously damaged. If slugs are allowed to remain, trees may show some damage next year. Lead arsenate in either dust or spray, blackleaf-40 or a light application of nico slug may be used to control the slug. If trees are sprayed frequently with a force of water from the garden hose, slugs will be washed off, removing the danger to trees.
