HOUSING UNIT CONTRACT LET TO SALEM FIRM

The contract for reconstruction of 48 housing units in Klamath Falls was let to the Halvorson Construction company of Salem, when bids were reopened in Seattle, August 3. The Halvorson bid was the only one received when bids were opened in July and a re-bid was advertised for letting the contract.

Halvorson's previous bid was $200 per unit higher than his re-bid at $125,000, underbidding the other contractor from Seattle, whose bid was $127,000. The proceed order goes into effect Wednesday, August 8, and work on the project is to be completed 100 days later, according to contract.

The six two-story buildings at Vancouver, Wash., will be fumigated, dismantled and brought to Klamath Falls, where they will be reconstructed to conform to present standards on the site north of the new civilian housing unit at the east end of Main.

Halvorson is the builder of the 155-unit navy housing project on Washburn way, which is proceeding according to schedule. This project will be ready for occupancy September 1.

hot milk, but often with no sugar.

The use of coffee is definitely spreading in England. English people tell you so, quite frankly. It isn't however, cutting down tea consumption. It is merely something added. It comes largely from the Kenya colony, in Africa. Its flavor is quite different from the Central and South American coffees to which we are accustomed. It tastes like a cross between Turkish coffee and New Orleans drip coffee.

It really isn't bad—after you get over your hankering for rich, thick cream in it. It also isn't rationed, whereas tea is—which helps to account for the growing use of coffee. Coffee is taken at the end of a meal, as a sort of dessert—also about 11 in the morning as a picker-upper.

THERE is a little bacon in England—some of it home-produced, and most excellent. The bulk of it comes from America, and a thin trickle is beginning to seep in from Denmark—which, most people here agree, is getting back onto its feet more quickly than any other occupied country.

Breakfast rather often consists of sausage, a microscopic silver of bacon and mushrooms. Mushrooms, fried, are used extensively to supplement the slim supply of meat. It is such a toothsome idea that one wonders why we haven't done more of it. The sausage is slightly disappointing, being "stretched" with cereal.

Toast and a roll are served, with a dab of margarine for breakfast but none ordinarily at other meals. And marmalade AND jam, without which no English breakfast would be complete.

HERALD AND NEWS—FIVE

AFFIDAVITS FILED AGAINST JUDGE

Herbert Welch, attorney for Earl Heuvel, former Klamath Falls police chief facing trial on morals charges, yesterday filed four motions and affidavits of prejudice against Judge Charles Combs, Lake county, who had been assigned to hear the cases after Judge David R. Vandenberg, Klamath county, disqualified himself.

The affidavits alleged that Combs was prejudiced against the defendant (Heuvel) and that Welch believed that he could not have a fair and impartial trial before Judge Combs.

The affidavit applied to the chief justice of the state supreme court to appoint another judge to the cases.

Judge Combs recently upheld the four indictments against Heuvel and Heuvel pleaded not guilty to all four charges, which include contributing to the delinquency of a minor, two charges of sodomy and one of rape. Trial was set for September 17 by Combs and the district attorney's office said this morning that the affidavits would probably not hold up trying of the case.

Production of baby carriages, strollers, and walkers in 1944 totaled 1,636,000 units, an increase of 32 per cent over that of 1943.

RURAL MAIL ROUTES COVER 192 MILES

The three rural delivery routes from the Klamath post office cover an approximate total of 192 miles and handle about one-fifth of the mail received here.

There are 12 foot carrier routes serving the city, and two mounted routes serving the suburban areas. The mounted routes give the same service as the city foot routes.

Two city carriers handle about the same amount of mail as the rural route carrier, and the city delivery, including the mounted routes, contributes about three-fifths of the mail.

The remaining fifth goes to the Marine Barracks, naval air station, general delivery and post office boxes. Burt C. Hawkins, Klamath postmaster, explained in giving a rough division of mail handled through the Klamath post office.
