

HELP ASKED FOR POSTWAR LUMBER SNAGS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.) asked War Mobilization Director John W. Snyder today to help expedite return of the Pacific Northwest lumber industry to peacetime production.

He requested that the army release heavy-duty tractors and trains earmarked for military use, that the army and navy needs be re-assessed to permit the release of lumber for urgent civilian demands, and that the war manpower commission state its war policy regarding employment in sawmills and operations.

Problem Acute
The reconversion and demobilization problems of the Pacific Northwest are going to be especially acute because of the heavy concentration of war industries in that area, Mitchell wrote. "The lumber industry will need to work at full capacity to supply deferred civilian needs. This will afford employment for returning veterans and men from the war industry."

Mitchell also made public a letter to Price Administrator Chester Bowles suggesting that the OPA delegate greater authority to its state and regional offices.

He also urged that OPA adopt "a more realistic policy which exempts as many items as possible."

Vic and Jay, The V-J Twins, Arrive

SEATTLE, Aug. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Eloff Sutherland, whose husband, an army private, is stationed at Camp Roberts, Calif., celebrated her own V-J day today by giving birth to twins whom she named Vic and Jay. Nonplussed by the arrival of twins, Mrs. Sutherland quipped "Now my husband will have twice as many to come home to."

Vic weighed four pounds six ounces; her brother, five pounds one ounce.

Sailor Injured In Crossing Crash

A car crashed head-on into a freight train last night about 2:35 o'clock at the Great Northern railroad crossing on Altamont drive near the naval air station.

Leon William Boyd of Klamath Falls received a broken leg and numerous deep cuts and was taken to the hospital at the air station by the navy ambulance.

The impact of the collision carried the car about 300 yards down the track, state police said. Boyd was the only occupant of the car, which was a total wreck.

TICE ADMITS INDIAN KILLING, ARKELL SAYS

Ralph Tice, 34, well-known Klamath Indian and veteran of this war, last night admitted killing Eugene Mecume, Coos Bay Indian, 40, with a shot from a rifle yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock at West Chiloquin, according to word received from John Arkell, special officer at the Klamath Agency.

One shot was fired from a 30-40 Craig rifle and the bullet entered Mecume's body just below the heart. He died en route to the hospital.

The two men drove into West Chiloquin together and both got out of the car, Arkell said. Tice picked up the gun and walked 100 feet away where he sat down on the running board of another car.

Mecume started walking toward him making threatening remarks and cursing Tice, Arkell declared. Tice warned Mecume not to come any further and when he failed to stop, Tice shot him.

Police Chief Henry Johnson of Chiloquin arrested Tice shortly after the shooting and he is being held in the jail at Chiloquin.

Tice will be charged with murder under the federal law, Arkell stated, and the grand jury will establish the degree. He will probably be arraigned this afternoon before Bert C. Thomas, U. S. commissioner.

Peace Hopes Touch Off Early Outbursts In Nation

Peace hopes soared to the celebration point today from the Far Pacific to the Atlantic seaboard as indications multiplied that Japan's surrender was near.

It was a nerve-tingling climax to long, suspenseful waiting—marked by premature celebrations last Friday, when the Japanese offered to quit if they could keep their emperor, and Sunday night, when a quickly killed false surrender flash moved on the wires of the United Press.

Most war plant and other workers punched the timeclock as usual today although 4200 foundry workers at the Ford River Rouge plant left their jobs after an unidentified man blew the factory whistles. Army and navy inductions also continued as on any other day.

In contrast to the joyous outbursts on Pacific islands, western cities and some coast centers, most of the nation waited quietly, if not calmly, for a go-ahead from Washington before celebrating.

The first Tokyo report produced impromptu parades in New York's Times Square. Darkened windows lighted up, ticker tape streamed down and crowds of celebrants roared out patriotic and martial songs.

Rejoicing soldiers and sailors in San Francisco climbed to the tops of trolley and cable cars and clanged the car songs as the vehicles nudged their way carefully through surging throngs of peace-greeters.

Out on Guam, hard-fighting marines took the reports of Japanese surrender skeptically, commenting "it can't be all over." Enlisted men generally took the news without signs of excitement. Sailors waiting in line before a recreation hall for their beer rations said they hoped peace would bring "extra beer."

Natives at two Guam villages planned celebrations.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP)—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, says "probably about 10 million people" will be unemployed in six to eight weeks.

trying to get a slant on British opinion mustn't forget that the pub is the common, everyday Englishman's club. He doesn't go there just to get lickered up—although he sometimes does just that, even as Americans do. The pub is a great place to talk things over.)

These British cousins of ours are no quitters. When they start something, they aim to finish it. There's a bulldog quality to the breed that you can't help admiring unqualifiedly.

jitterbugged down the main stem.

Sailors kissed girls. Girls kissed marines. Marines kissed each other. Church bells rang out and sirens blew. Gunpowder caps thrown into the street by a couple of prankish sailors added to the noise.

The whole atmosphere of the town was one of long suppressed exuberance being at long last released.

Indications of excessive drinking were noticeable by their absence and the air was pervaded with heartfelt relief that at last it was all over, even though the official announcement from Washington, D. C., was and still is yet to come.

The only signs of open and deliberate vandalism were a few broken windows at the front entrance to Klamath Union high school through which beer bottles had been thrown.

Confetti streamers were also attached to the parading automobiles and crowds gathered at the main corners to talk the thing over.

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that this was it, even in the face of the lack of an official announcement, and serenity was debating when they would doff their navy blue and field-green for the long awaited civvies. A few more were seen making the experiment by swapping their blousers and hats with civilians on the streets.

Klamath Falls celebrated in true fashion and, although it was not New York's Times Square, it was a reasonable facsimile thereof.

We Americans have a lot to learn in that respect from the British.

It was a fine thing to do. But, because it is FUNDAMENTAL in the British system, it must be repeated that it wasn't just a spontaneous, sportsmanlike gesture on Churchill's part.

Churchill is CAPABLE of that kind of gesture, but he didn't do it just as a personal move. He was simply doing what he knew British public opinion called upon him in the circumstances to do. He was PROTECTING BRITAIN and British prestige.

Chamber Tells V-J Plans

The following schedule, as set up by the retail trade committee of the Klamath county chamber of commerce, will be observed by local stores when V-J Day is announced by President Truman: (1) If the event occurs on a business day before 12 noon, stores will close immediately for the remainder of the day and will be open for business the following day; (2) If the event occurs on a business day after 12 noon stores will close immediately for the remainder of the day and will also be closed the following day; (3) If the news is officially announced on Saturday, stores will close immediately and will open Monday as usual; (4) If the news is officially announced any time after midnight on Saturday, Sunday or on a legal holiday, stores will remain closed the following day.

Official announcement of V-J Day is an announcement made by the president or authorized White House spokesman for the president. If the president of the United States by proclamation establishes a prescribed period for public celebration, then this plan is to be disregarded and stores will remain closed during the hours fixed for such celebration.

The Oregon state liquor store will follow the store schedule set up by the chamber of commerce. The post office will remain open on V-J Day unless an announcement authorizing them to close comes from Washington, D. C., while the federal banks will remain open unless a special proclamation comes from the president stating that banks will close.
