the parties a commissioner of conciliation to remain so assigned until these differences are settled.

6. The west coast lumber commission is willing to arrange meetings between the parties and representatives of the commission for the purpose of devising procedures for the settlement of any disputes not settled by other means.

In view of all these facts the west coast lumber commission now calls upon and requests all the parties to take the following steps:

1. Return immediately to work and to production on the same terms and conditions of employment as existed when the dispute arose.

2. Proceed by negotiation, conciliation and other means exclusive of economic force to settle their existing grievances and disputes between themselves.

It is requested that each party reply to this telegram. JOHN GALEY, Chairman. NLWB, WGLC.

Company officials were expected to receive the notices from the union this afternoon, and it appeared possible that a break has finally come that may lead to the end of the strike.

Union Telegram Following is the telegram which the union sent to the WGLC:

"In reply to request of the west coast lumber commission telegram relative to Klamath Falls strike. This will inform you that Local 6-12 IWA-CIO has concurred in your request in its entirety and have notified lumber companies involved of action taken. Copy of letter to companies being mailed. This telegram is addressed to Al Roth, Weyerhaeuser Timber company, West Coast Lumber commission, E. P. Marsh, U. S. Conciliation, strike division NWLB, Claude Ballard, IWA-CIO, A. F. Hartung, labor member WGLC, U. S. Dept. of agriculture, H. E. Geiger, president, Local 6-12, IWA-CIO.

Union Letter This is the letter sent by the union to all of the companies involved and the Pine Industrial Relations Committee, Inc.

"Weyerhaeuser Timber Company
"Kesterson Lumber Company
"Big Lakes Box Company
"Ewauna Box Company
"Bly Logging Company
"Chiloquin Lumber Company
"Pelican Bay Lumber Company
"Pine Industrial Relations Committee, Inc.

"This is to inform you that Local 6-12 International Woodworkers of America which is the Collective Bargaining Agency for your employees voted at a special meeting to comply with the request of the West Coast Lumber commission in its telegram of September 13 of which you received a copy.

It is the desire of Local 6-12 that meetings between the parties be held as soon as possible preferably Friday, September 14, at 10 o'clock in the office of the Pine Industrial Relations Committee, Inc. If this date is agreeable, we suggest that a joint telegram be immediately sent to E. P. Marsh, United States Conciliation service, asking that a conciliator be assigned as provided in the telegram of the West Coast Lumber commission.

Very truly yours, H. E. GEIGER, President, IWA Local 6-12 CIO.

Feeling ran high this morning when the AFL machinists went through the Weyerhaeuser CIO picket line. Pickets piled up in front of the first machinist automobile and brought it to a stop. The driver attempted several times to move ahead, without success, and pickets on two occasions lifted one side of the car from the pavement. It was not overturned, however.

With pickets grouped around the first car, the driver of the second machine went around the crowd and rolled into the plant gate. That appeared to give momentum to the AFL movement, and about a dozen cars, carrying approximately 30 men, passed into the plant amid catcalls. The driver of the first car got going and went in at high speed.

No one was hurt. Virgil Burtz, international vice president of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) displayed torn trousers which he said resulted from an attempt to run him down. He said he stopped to talk to a man in a car parked with the machinist automobiles half a mile from the picket line, and that the man started up the car and ran to the plant gate. He said his trousers were torn by the license plate of the car.

Sheriff Lloyd L. Low and Deputies Jack Francy and Dale Mattoon sought to maintain peace at the gate. Sheriff Low asked the pickets to keep the road open. He told the pickets he was not interested in strike breaking or in opposition to their program but that his duty required that he do what he could to keep the public highway open to travel and maintain order.

Machinists went through the CIO line for the first time yesterday. On that occasion, the line opened to the cars and there was no physical resistance.

Several state policemen were in the vicinity of the picket line this morning, but did not enter the crowd milling around the stalled car.

Machinists announced last week that an investigation showed that the CIO strike to be "illegal" and that they were not obligated to respect the picket line. CIO spokesmen charged the CIO workers here are suffering under "intolerable conditions" and demanded a union shop. The strike has tied up four large mills. At Weyerhaeuser, focal point of the trouble, CIO has organized production employees, but the machinists have an AFL contract.

panies. At 6 p. m., NBC and ABC said the technicians walked out. NBC broadcasts were interrupted for 15 minutes, and ABC broadcast for a half hour.

NBC, in a statement, said the union staged the "unauthorized and wildcat strike to secure their completely unjustified wage demands."

Powley said the men receive from $226 to $381 monthly for a five-day week, but that they are obliged to work up to 12 hours a day without overtime. He said the union sought a general wage increase averaging 35 per cent in all classifications and overtime after eight hours in any one day.

Tojo Planned Suicide For A Long Time

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 13 (AP)—Hideki Tojo, in the first interview since he shot himself two days ago, said today he had planned to kill himself for a long time, but that when he saw American officers outside his house he "knew the time had come."

In talking today Tojo brushed aside many questions relating to war and politics, but when asked if Saburo Kurusu had known about Pearl Harbor plans when he talked to Cordell Hull about peace, Tojo replied that he could not answer without documentary evidence.

1,300,000 Men To Get Discharges

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The army expects to release an additional 1,300,000 men by Christmas, a war department spokesman told senators today.

With approximately 700,000 already released since V-E Day, this will mean a reduction of 2,000,000 in army strength since Germany's defeat.

Maj. Gen. S. G. Henry, assistant chief of staff, told the senate military committee that demobilization was running ahead of schedule with an estimated 400,000 being released in September instead of a planned 250,000. By January, he testified, discharges will reach a rate of 672,000 monthly, or 22,400 daily.

Phew—w—!

Indian summer hit Klamath basin with a bang when the mercury climbed to 93 yesterday, only two degrees lower than the hottest day this year. On July 27 temperature reached 95 degrees, and the hottest recorded for August was 91 degrees which occurred the 21st and 22nd. At 1 p. m. today the temperature had reached 78.

ered significant disclosure by the American embassy that the American diplomatic representatives were hurrying to London. Already here are Arthur Bliss Lane, American ambassador to Poland, and Robert Patterson, ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Barnes Expected Maynard Barnes, minister to Bulgaria, arrived in Paris this morning and was expected here soon. Burton C. Berry, American representative on the allied control commission for Romania, was expected today or tomorrow.

Robert Gray, American minister to Eire, also will arrive here tomorrow for consultations with Byrnes.

Some diplomats said they believed King Peter was trying to gain American support for his view that Marshal Tito's regime in Yugoslavia was dictatorial, and that the situation demanded a resolute attitude.

The young monarch was in Paris last week conferring with Dr. Vladimir Macek, Croat peasant leader, and was believed attempting to persuade Macek to come to London and set up a government in opposition to Tito.

U. S.-Greek Talk Byrnes' talk with the Greek regent was believed linked both with a proposed peace treaty for Italy and Balkan politics.

Byrnes took advantage of a day recess in the conference of five leading allied foreign ministers. Staff representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China held secret conferences and studied documents which were so complicated as to postpone the third plenary session until Friday.

Diplomats say the Greeks are willing to join the United States and Great Britain in a lenient attitude toward Italy, even though Mussolini attacked the little kingdom.

lapsed and did not revive until the next morning. He saw the bodies of Bill and Don lying near by where they had washed up. He examined them both, saw that it was two of the crew for sure. Bill was terribly bruised.

The crash happened only a few yards off shore, near Shipu, 20 or 30 miles from Ningpo in Chekiang province. Shipu is a small village of about 300 persons and is only a short way from shore. Native Chinese built wooden coffins and buried the boys on a knoll overlooking the sea. Neilsen said that the graves can be easily found.

Died in Prison On December 1, 1942, Lt. Robert Meder died of dysentery while in prison in Nanking and the Japs cremated his body.

Lt. W. G. Farrow, D. E. Hallmark and Sgt. H. A. DeSper were then separated from the others who later were found and nothing was ever heard of them again.

On August 20, 1945, Neilsen and his companions were called by Jap guards from their prison at Peiping, were given hot shower baths, a shave and then were told to return to their own country, that the war was over.

Prior to this time they had heard nothing of the progress of the war. The Japs told them they could find American soldiers in a certain hotel in Peiping.

Highest Esteem Neilsen said that Bill's companionship was held in the highest esteem by all members of the task force on the Hornet and that he had no superior in ability.

the people who live in great workshop cities don't just go out in the fields at night and gather their food for that evening and the next day. It has to be BROUGHT to them.

You then recall the bombed and dynamited railroad bridges, the shot-up and burned-out rolling stock and the wrecked and torn up terminals that have been meeting your eye in an almost wearisome sequence day after day.

You recall the highways that would be practically deserted but for the American military traffic. Deserted because there are few trucks left in Germany and precious little fuel to run them if there were any.

How, you ask yourself, is the food that is obviously present in the country to be got into the cities where it is needed?

It then breaks in upon you that a very considerable number of these dead and smokeless chimneys must belong to PROCESSED plants that for one reason or another (war damage, lack of fuel, lack of tin or glass or sugar) are idle.

If it can't be processed, how is it to get to the people who need it? AND if it isn't processed much of the food you see in the fields must inevitably SPOIL.

IN the light of these facts, you begin to revise your opinions. It isn't enough that a normal (possibly even MORE than normal) amount of food is growing undamaged in the soil of western Germany. Or even that it is slowly and inefficiently, with clearly apparent lack of equipment, being harvested.

Before it can assuage the pangs of hunger in the cities it must be transported and processed and stored and distributed—and the machinery of transport and processing and storage and distribution in Germany is now all but out of commission.

ANOTHER fact filters slowly into your consciousness. This food you see growing all around in such apparent profusion is PERISHABLE food—fruits and vegetables and wine grapes and such.

There is some grain, to be sure, but not a great deal in the aggregate. Western Germany has always imported its grain and feedstuffs from eastern Germany and Poland and Hungary and Romania. That now is OUT. There is no transport, and besides it is rumored on pretty good authority that the Russians aren't leaving any there for the Germans to import.

Lack of feedstuffs cuts down the number of livestock that can be maintained, and at this point you recall that you haven't seen many cows and steers and pigs and sheep and chickens since crossing the Rhine.

SO, in the end, in spite of the fatness and the lushness and the undamaged completeness of the purely agricultural areas of this rich and intensively tilled western Germany you have to concede that it is entirely possible—indeed, highly probable—that starvation may stalk the land this winter.

If it does—well, that is another story, to be dealt with in another chapter.

know it was beaten. The business men admitted they had been "too cowardly to speak out."

The business leaders, top industrialists of Japan, acknowledged the country had been so badly beaten that even without atomic bombs some 7,000,000 Japanese would probably have starved in another year of war. The present national economy is based upon "nothing," they commented.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, pre-war premier and present vice premier, told Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines today that his resignation in October, 1941, resulted from arguments with Tojo over continuing peace negotiations.

Telling how he tried to arrange a conference with the late President Roosevelt, Konoye said:

"I feel confident that if I had been able to see President Roosevelt, I could have established a basis for intervention of the imperial house (emperor) in the rising war tide within Japan." But Tojo took over the government, and "I knew war was inevitable."

Tojo's navy minister, Adm. Shigetaro Shimada, surrendered quietly at his home to an American officer. His name is on General MacArthur's list of 47 "wanted" men. Said the admiral, to a request that he hurry: "Be quiet. No suicide, no suicide."

An outbuilding behind 1825 Fremont caught on fire from a grass blaze and was burned about 3:34 Wednesday afternoon. At 3:57 the trucks were called to 2051 Vine. An old house which had been partially burned before, had again caught on fire and was burning.

In advocating an early end to the program, government officials who asked anonymity said that for all practical purposes shoe rationing already is at an end.

who visit the Barracks, itself one of the navy's most handsome war-built installations.

Touching on the future of the Barracks, Dr. Coggeshall said it seems certain it will go up to 5000 men as marines return to the States from the Pacific in large numbers. He said that it might well become a permanent asset to the community.

Dr. Coggeshall gave a review of the accomplishments of the Klamath installation, which was originally set up for marines who contracted malaria or filar-iasis in the Pacific combat zones. He said that of 5000 men who came here under that mission 4800 returned to full-duty status. More recently under a new directive marines needing physical re-conditioning for any purpose, but not hospital bed cases, have been coming here.

The speaker said there had been no spread of malaria or filarinas among civilians in this community because of the presence of the Marine Barracks here.

Dr. G. A. Massey introduced Dr. Coggeshall.

Joe Hicks, president of Kiwanis, said the club would consider means of carrying out the suggestion for access road improvement.
