

WORK PROGRAM DETAILS TOLD BY PELICAN BAY

Officials of Pelican Bay Lumber company, first strike-closed local mill set to renew operations, today announced details of the work resumption program which is set for Monday.

Here is the Pelican Bay statement: "Pelican Bay Lumber company has announced today that they expect to start the sawmill, box factory and lumber yard next Monday. They ask that all old employees of the company report to their respective superintendents, as it is the desire of the company to take care of all old employees first, in line with seniority privileges. In this connection we would like to make it clear that no clearance from any source is necessary in order that you may re-enter your old employment. We know that you will realize that reopening any operation of this size requires cooperative effort on your part so that we may as quickly as possible get back to efficient production.

"By the same token and under the same circumstances we request that all woods employees report to the woods superintendent at Sycan camp and there again no clearance except with him is necessary. We will begin operations in the woods at the Sycan camp first. We wish to say that after this is accomplished we will take up the question of the second camp at Chinchalo. All woods employees, however, will be given full consideration in securing men for the first camp operating, and the Chinchalo superintendent will be temporarily located at Sycan camp.

"In case it is more convenient

Released Prisoner

The Rev. John R. Blalock, Baptist missionary to China, will tell of his experiences as a prisoner of the Japanese Sunday. He plans to return to China.

for you to call the main office at Klamath Falls, please do so that we can here give you helpful suggestions.

"The cookhouse at the Sycan camp will be ready the morning of September 24, and as quickly thereafter as a sufficient operating crew is gathered together or is gotten together we will begin operation in the woods at Sycan first.

"It is presumed that we should do this by Wednesday, September 26.

"We hope that you will come back with the desire to help us make up for lost time, as the war production board consistently and continuously informs us that they are badly in need of lumber. You all know that we still have a vast army throughout the world. We have urgent housing needs for our people at home. Our job is not finished until after these boys are back safely from the field of danger.

"It is our desire as we know it is your desire to serve."

HOMEMAKING COURSE SET FOR KF WOMEN

With Klamath homemakers looking green-eyed at the demonstrations given at home extension units throughout the county, a unit has been organized in town.

So many requests for a unit here made organization imperative, and Mrs. Harry Mitchell, past home demonstrations leader for the state, got busy and the Klamath Falls unit was started September 11 with 27 members enrolled.

Meetings will be held in the homes of members until a larger place can be selected to accommodate the group whose membership is expected to increase rapidly. The third Wednesday of each month has been chosen for meeting dates, with the place for the first regular meeting which will be held October 17 to be announced later.

Mrs. Ray L. Garrison was elected chairman of Klamath Falls unit with Mrs. A. E. Gross vice chairman and Mrs. Mark D. Taylor Jr., secretary-treasurer.

Committee heads elected are Mrs. L. V. Hosford, hospitality; Mrs. Gross, luncheon; Mrs. G. E. Matthews, publicity. Project leaders include Mrs. Thomas J. O'Hara and Mrs. Hosford, clothing; Mrs. Taylor Jr. and Mrs. George Crakes, foods; Mrs. L. D. Metcalf, home management.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By JOAN O'NEILL

Today is the day. It is our first game of the season and the school is "teaming" with pep. Looks as if a good percentage of the student body will be at Modoc field tonight to watch their favorite team.

Pep Assembly

The pep assembly opened this afternoon at 1:05 with a couple of numbers by the school band. Aloys Wells sang several songs, accompanied by Barbara Zinn at the piano. Yells for the school were led by our twin co-ed leaders, Ted and Fred Reeves. Dee Nelson and Chuck Thurman, who play starting positions of left and right end, respectively, on the Pelicans tonight, gave brief talks on the team.

K. G. Klahn, a member of the Quarterback club, spoke to the student body. Paul Angstead, KUHS Pelican football coach, introduced the team. Bob Clammer read a humorous poem on the forthcoming game as part of the entertainment planned. Kelly Farris was master of ceremonies.

First Issue of Krater

The first issue of the Krater, school paper, was distributed to the home-rooms today. The Krater is a bi-weekly publication. George Zupan is editor-in-chief and Margaret Ireland is advisor.

The sale of student body tickets closed today. They have been on sale for the past week and a half and according to Darlene Gehman, secretary of the student body, who has had charge of the tickets, they have sold quite well.

Student Council Meeting

There was a proposed change in the eligibility committee at the student council meeting yesterday. The eligibility committee is composed of a group of students and teachers who decide whether the nominees for a school office are eligible to run.

However, in the past the committee had no rules of eligibility to refer to and the proposed change would draw up a given set of standards. This change is a welcome idea because it will relieve the committee of some of the responsibility they have had to assume and will give the rejected nominees a faint idea of the reason.

The committee in charge of posting a calendar of coming events in the main hall was also explained. Barbara Roskamm is in charge of this committee which will give the students an idea of what is going to happen.

Water Carnival At Marine Post Thrills Large Crowd

Combining hilarity and exhibition swimming and diving, a cast of 26 marines put on a sensational water carnival last night before a capacity crowd of civilians and servicemen at the barracks swimming pool.

Starting out in a serious vein with a demonstration of various strokes used by swimmers the world over, the program soon turned into a bedlam of unexpected skits that originated from every place including the ceiling.

Highlight

One of the highlights of the evening came when S/Sgt. Charles Stebbins, replete in a nightmarish Leatherneck zoot suit, entered the building from a side entrance and challenged P/M 1/c Reno Rapagnani, San Francisco swim champ, to compete with him in a race of one length. Stebbins allowed the Olympic club ace to wear "fins," a decided advantage in speed racing, and then sat on the side of the pool unconcerned as the starting whistle blew.

After Rapagnani had covered a half of the length, Stebbins jumped in, caught on to a rope near the bottom, and with the help of a crew of gymnasium instructors who were planted at the other end of the pool outside, covered the entire distance in a matter of seconds.

Interesting Feature

Another interesting feature of the show came when Lt. Henry F. McNamara demonstrated several methods in which a man can keep afloat. Using a regular combat helmet, a pair of dungaree pants, a jacket and a mattress cover, McNamara inflated them to form a comfortable life raft or jacket.

Ensign K. N. Bebb, representing the water survival section of the naval air station, demonstrated the use of a one-man life raft and accessories when forced down by sea.

Upon completion of the show the crowd enjoyed an open house swim.

GRALAPP DESCRIBES POWER OF THE ATOM

The energy in a simple piece of pasteboard, such as a football ticket, is sufficient to drive a railroad train across the continent, Arnold Gralapp, city school superintendent, stated in an address on the atomic bomb delivered at recent meetings of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

There is energy in a cup of water to send a ship across the ocean, the speaker said, emphasizing the tremendous potentialities of atomic power demonstrated to the world by the atomic bomb. He described the contrasting dangers and opportunities for civilization in this vast power.

Gralapp, who did a thorough reading job on the question last summer, reviewed the scientific research that led to the atomic bomb. He pointed out that the scientists of other nations, including Germany, were close to the final discovery, and that Americans may not know how near they came to being the recipients of an attack of the same kind they used effectively on Japan at the close of the war.

TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL PORTLAND, Sept. 21
