ANGELL LISTS 6 GROUPS FOR DISCHARGES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Six categories of men should be discharged from the army without further delay, Rep. Angell (R-Ore.) told the house during debate on the bill designed to attract enlistments.

He said also that boys in their teens should be relieved from the draft to complete their schooling.

The groups whose discharge Angell called for:

(1) Those already listed for discharge, now "doing menial jobs around the camps and posts;" (2) Men with families; (3) Men who have been in prison camps; (4) Men injured in combat or who have been hospitalized for long periods while in service; (5) Men who have been in service at least two years, and (6) Men who have served on the European front.

He said that while he favored the enlistment bill, there were some modifications he would like.

"It will at least give legislation," he said, "to make the military service more attractive so that we will have an opportunity to build up our peacetime forces by volunteer enlistments."
