

TRUMAN FAVORS FREE ELECTION FOR JAPANESE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Truman said today it would be a good idea if the Japanese people had an opportunity to decide the fate of their emperor in a free election.

He also told his news conference in reply to questions that this government is in correspondence with all interested governments in an effort to break the stalemate resulting from the London conference of foreign ministers.

Russia Refuses

These formal consultations, he added, also involve efforts to get a full attendance at next Tuesday's meeting here on an American plan to set up an allied advisory body on Japanese occupation. Of the ten governments invited, Russia has not accepted, asking instead that Big Four control of Japan be provided prior to such a conference.

The president said he believed the situations would be worked out. He emphasized that not only were the Big Five powers represented at London involved in the correspondence, but all the others interested in far eastern questions.

No additional "Big Three" meeting is now contemplated, he stated.

Personal Business

He said in response to other questions that he did not know why Russian Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko made a hurried flight to Washington from London this week and then flew back after an overnight stay. "No, I wish I did," Mr. Truman replied, adding he assumed it was on personal business.

The president told reporters he had received a formal message from Marshal Stalin recently in answer to some correspondence he had had, but that the message did not refer to what he called the present situation.

Mr. Truman gave his comment on Emperor Hirohito in response to a question whether he knew of a proposal by the late President Roosevelt that the fate of the emperor be decided by a Japanese free election. The president said he knew of no such plan but he thought it was a good one.
