

3 NIPS DEAD IN OUTBREAK AT PEIPING

By SPENCER DAVIS
PEIPING, Oct. 17 (Delayed)—A crowd of Chinese attacked Japanese civilians in the little Tokyo district of Peiping last night in the first outbreak of violence here since the surrender of Nipponese forces.

Three deaths were reported. Other Japanese were beaten and stoned.

The outbreak followed similar disturbances at Tientsin, where homes were entered and several hundred Japanese were beaten four days ago.

Local police re-established order quickly in Peiping and there were no recurrences. The Japanese were warned to stay in their quarters and streets normally crowded with both civilians and soldiers of Nippon were nearly deserted.

Troopship Crashes
More than 50 Chinese troops and an American crew were killed today when a troopship bringing Chinese government soldiers into the North China occupation zone crashed in an attempt to land at Peiping's Nanyuan airfield.

An angry little mob of jeering, screaming Chinese school children, buzzing like bees, chased three Japanese girls into the Pekin hotel grounds prior to last night's clash while astonished American marines and soldiers in the hotel looked on. The mob broke up as quickly as it formed when marine military police reached the scene.

No Explanation
There was no immediate explanation for the outbreak here. Some observers attributed it to exuberance the townspeople have shown at the arrival of Chinese national troops from Hankow and a belief that their oppressors of the last eighty years soon would be disarmed and eventually shipped home.

The assassination yesterday of the president of Korea's chamber of commerce at Tientsin was reported today. There were no details.

The assassination marked a new outbreak of violence in the former treaty port, where martial law was declared after Chinese crowds assaulted several hundred Japanese civilians. The outbreak was quelled by municipal police and U. S. marines advised the Japanese to remain in their quarters.

AFTER we get full PRODUCTION OF THINGS, the danger of inflation will disappear because normal competition will then take the place of price controls.

IF we are wise, we will continue price controls (no matter how distasteful they may be) until the supply of things catches up with the supply of money.

When that happens rationing will be as useless as two tails on a dog. But UNTIL THEN rationing will continue to be a measure for our own self-protection.

SENATE SATISFIED WITH NAVY HEARING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Members of congress sighted relief today from the flood of complaints about the navy's demobilization program.

They had it straight from Vice Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of navy personnel, that:

(1) Navy discharges now number more than 11,000 a day, a rate which will bring release of all of the 3,000,000 reserve and drafted personnel by next September 1.

(2) By that date the navy will have all the 500,000 men it needs in the form of 323,000 regulars and 177,000 volunteers, because volunteers are coming in at the rate of 18,000 a month.

After hearing Denfeld and a dozen other high ranking naval officers yesterday, senate military committee members told newsmen they are satisfied that most of the kinks in navy demobilization have been straightened.

Denfeld testified that voluntary enlistments were so satisfactory the navy henceforth would ask only "token" numbers of draftees.
