HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By JOAN O'NEILL

Tonight is the night! The Medford game has arrived. This afternoon was a noisy one down on Main street and up at the high school for KUHS held a big pep rally for the game.

At 3:15 to day the assembly started. The dance band played "Southern Fry" while the students found their seats. Ted and Fred, co-yell leaders, and Bud Selby led the yells. The members of the dance band then helped to put on an act which consisted of playing "Hold That Tiger," after which George Zupan made a speech. At the conclusion of the speech they played Chopin's "Funeral March."

Jim Howard, president of the student body, explained the forthcoming rally. Instructions for the rally were that the seniors were to leave first then the other classes in respective order. Pep Peppers patrolled the ranks during the rally. Lines were formed single file and the serpentine began down the street with the band and twirlers marching. They yelled and screamed all through town. The whole procession stopped at 7th and also at 9th and Main to form a large circle for yells led by the yell leaders.

After the game tonight there will be a dance down at the Masonic temple sponsored by the Job's Daughters. Admission is 50c a couple and 35c stag. The dance will start as soon after the game as the kids can scramble down there.

SERVICE RIBBONS TO BE ISSUED

Plans are now underway for presentation of faithful service ribbons to all active members of the Oregon State Guard who have served one year or more.

The ribbons of blue and gold silk, designating the years of service, will be presented in Klamath Falls in the near future by Adj. Gen. Olson of the OSG. The ribbons will be worn on the left breast of the uniform or shirt in accordance with military practice, according to word from the Salem office.

Family Here Faces Difficult Situation

To have your home sold out from under you is tough enough under any conditions, but when you have two children in high school, one in grade school, an invalid husband, and you earn your way by doing housework—well, it's really rugged.

A Klamath Falls family is faced with this situation right now. They need a furnished, two or three-bedroom home, rent not too high. If you know of any leads toward finding such a place in the city will you please call USO-Travelers Aid Service at 7083?

NATION-WIDE SHOWING OF OREGON AGRICULTURE

To emphasize nationally the importance of our agricultural crops, the story is told graphically by The Oregonian in this advertisement, one in a series on Oregon market industries. It is appearing in national magazines—Time, Business Week, Editor & Publisher.

Agriculture is a basic, year-round industry in Oregon, a fact recognized by most of us privileged to live in this remarkable region. We take for granted the advantages of growing conditions here. The Oregonian believes that such nation-wide advertising as this will focus wide attention on our agriculture, creating an interest that will aid industry to grow even greater.

Oregon GROWS EVERY CROP... AND GROWS IT BETTER

EASTER LILIES bloom twice a year in Oregon. First they bloom in late summer, then natural flowering season. At Easter time the autumn-blossomed bulbs are "forced" in blossom again in the nation's bathhouses. Southern Oregon counts. Today it is a big industry—proof of ideal growing conditions in this state of diversified specialty crops.

Nature is a willing partner on Oregon farms. Year-round mild climate, ideal soil conditions and varied topographical features bring bountiful, high quality crops, with a minimum of effort.

Consumer preference for Oregon-grown agricultural products is the key to the big retail buying market the state's farmers form. Last year, alone, this growing industry produced $280,000,000 in agricultural products.

Although Oregon growers get top prices for their crops, the demand is more than the state's 64,250 farms can meet. Yes, Oregon needs more progressive farmers than in this "Farther West" land where crop failures are common.

In Oregon can be grown any crop known to a temperate climate. East of Oregon's Cascade mountains is a great 1000 to 5000-foot plateau. On these "great open spaces"—in addition to 2,000,000 acres of the state's grazing land—are extensive grain fields, pea fields and irrigated crops.

In Western Oregon's famous green valleys, where moisture always is distributed evenly, rich soil produces such crops as apples, pears, cherries, peaches, prunes, cranberries, cane berries, grains, bulbs, seeds, hops, vegetables, sugar beets, nuts and flax. As many as 20 crops often are grown on a single farm.

"Developing Good Taste in Clothes" was the subject used by Mrs. Winnifred K. Gillen before a large and interested group of women at the Klamath Falls home extension unit. The first meeting of the group was held in the women's lounge of the USO Tuesday.

Goals discussed were: to develop good taste in selecting and wearing becoming clothes; to be able to plan an adequate wardrobe and keep within the budget; to know how to select clothes that are distinctive; to study how to dress attractively and interestingly without a variety of clothes.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Ray Garrison, chairman; Mrs. Ken Samson, Mrs. A. E. Gross, Mrs. J. K. Calder, Mrs. M. F. Shrieve, Mrs. I. J. O'Hara, Mrs. G. E. Matthews, Mrs. C. A. Baker, Mrs. B.
