GRALAPP SPEAKS TO TULELAKE ROTARY

TULELAKE—Arnold Gralapp, superintendent of Klamath Falls city schools, guest speaker at the Wednesday Rotary club luncheon, gave one of the most comprehensive, instructive addresses that has been presented here in many months.

Mr. Gralapp, talked on atomic energy, reviewing the development of the earth's elements which now number 97 from the beginning of scientific research.

Atomic energy, he stated, was known in 1895 when a German scientist discovered the vacuum which later led to the X-ray. In the following year a French scientist developed samples of radio activity. Next came pitch blend from Colorado and in 1898 the discovery of radium.

In 1919 a Britisher began to explore the atom and in 1932 an Italian found the neutron. By 1935 world wide research was under way on the atom and by 1939 three distinct kinds of uranium had been discovered.

The atomic bomb was an accidental discovery which had been missed by a hair's breadth by other scientists.

The meeting was one of the largest held in several months with a number of visiting Rotarians and other guests present.
