

200 SEARCHERS COMB SIERRAS FOR LOST BOY

270 miles northwest of San Francisco.

Dickie, whose full name is Richard Merritt Tum Suden, had been given permission by his mother at 9 a. m. Thursday morning to play in his spacious front yard.

When Mrs. Tum Suden, the former Sally Margaret Merritt, bay area socialite, went outside at 9:30 the child was nowhere to be seen. The distracted mother ran to the highway, asked help of a passing motorist and then notified authorities.

Last night two huge bonfires were lit, at Mrs. Tum Suden's suggestion, in the hope that the youngster would be attracted by them if he were lost. The hunt had extended over an area of 18 square miles.

Dog Found
Searchers were puzzled by the actions of the boy's collie dog, a constant companion, who was found at a spot about a quarter of a mile from the house Thursday afternoon. The dog refused to move further up the hill and a few feet away, beside a log, searchers found one of the boy's mittens.

The dog was returned along the same route yesterday, but when he reached the same spot he refused to go any further.

Sheriff W. Dewey Johnson said the dog's action may support one theory that the child was carried off by a mountain lion, of which there are many in this area.

It is also possible that the child may have fallen down an abandoned mine shaft, a cliff or into a gully, the sheriff said.

Two Men Return To States After 4 Years' Internment

were dependent for food on the American supplies already on the island, but in Japan their diet consisted of rice and a watery, unseasoned soup. They had bread only when they weren't given rice. Of the group of 250 men which included Pepple and Wing, 50 died from malnutrition and pneumonia during the first year.

"We had a pretty rough time of it the first year while we were under navy control. Conditions improved a little bit when the army took over," Wing added. They were completely isolated and neither man received word from home during internment. Their relatives first heard from them in January, 1945.

Jap Cruelty

Two incidents of Japanese cruelty to prisoners of war which took place in their group are receiving attention in consideration of the case against the Japs in their treatment of prisoners. One concerned an American internee who was jailed and died while in jail because he had made a coat out of a blanket when he was cold. The other was of a prisoner who wasn't able to work because he was ill in the hospital. As a result, he was kicked to death by the Japs.

Red Cross food parcels which arrived at the camp were kept by the Japs, but when the army took over they occasionally gave the prisoners one parcel for every three men.

Cigaret Ration
They were given a cigarette ration of two cigarettes per day but there were frequent periods of as long as 70 days when they got none.

While in Japan they were imprisoned in four different camps and forced to work on Japanese military installations, leaving a camp in Nagasaki six weeks before the atomic bomb devastated that area.

On August 15, the American internees, after months of waiting and hoping, heard that the war had ended in an allied victory.

"My biggest moment was when they got Red Cross food parcels containing K and C rations to us after the war was over. We heard the army didn't like them, but after a rice diet we really went for them," Wing stated.

After the war's end the Americans set about regaining their health while they awaited transportation to the United States where "we're catching up on all the things we've missed."

More Troops Land In Java

Java were known to be in possession of at least 62 Japanese planes.

The Dutch, stretched thinly across the outskirts of southern Batavia were meeting small disorganized attacks, but they faced in this area alone a potential force of 50,000 nationalists armed with rifles, pistols and light machineguns. Dutch commanders say, however, that the Indonesians are poor, unreliable fighters.

FRENCH SAID TO MISTREAT GERMAN POW'S

camp from Buchenwald to Dachau, looked at them and said: "The only difference I can see between these men and those corpses is that here they're still breathing."

Not Eaten
All said they had not eaten in two days. Four were brought in on stretchers. A few were hospitalized immediately and fed intravenously. The rest, after a light meal, filled out a questionnaire on their treatment by the French. Then they were deloused, given blankets and assigned to winterized tents to await medical screening.

At the screening it was hard to believe that some of them could be alive. One grey-haired 47-year-old man weighed only 92 pounds and his sore-blotched and scaly skin hung in thin folds. This group followed two earlier batches totaling 1323 bringing to 2474 the number of Germans returned here for general rehabilitation so they can be sent home.

Former Premier Will Be Hanged

BUDAPEST, Nov. 3 (AP)—Laslo Bardossy, former premier and foreign minister, was sentenced by a people's court today to be hanged in Hungary's first war crimes trial.

"I accept the sentence and demand immediate execution," Bardossy responded. "I beg no mercy."

The former premier was convicted of serving German interests by allowing Hitler's army to march through Hungary to Yugoslavia and throwing Hungarian troops into the attack; arranging the Hungarian declaration of war against Russia without the consent of parliament, and involving Hungary in war with the United States. He was acquitted on a charge of failing to prevent a massacre at Ujvidek.

Bodies Of Game Wardens Found

RAWLINS, Wyo., Nov. 3 (AP)—In three feet deep Sheriff Glenn Penland and two deputies today found the bodies of two game wardens who were shot after they left Rawlins Wednesday to check on the catch of a trapper in an isolated mountainous area.

The unmarried trapper's log cabin 55 miles southeast of Rawlins had been burned to the ground, and in the ashes the sheriff discovered bones which he said he would send to a University of Wyoming laboratory to determine whether they were those of a human.

The wardens were William Lakanen, 44, of Rawlins, and Don Simpson of Saratoga. No definite trace of the trapper was found. Nor was the origin of the fire determined. The sheriff said the trapper may have set his place afire and killed himself.

Harlem, the northern section of Manhattan Island and now the most populous urban negro community in the world was named New Haarlem after the town of Haarlem in Holland in 1658.

be the third of his fleet serving southern Oregon.

It is understood that Red Ball will continue to be operated under the family's jurisdiction. In addition to his stage line Quimby owned considerable property here and in Spring Lake.

Quimby is survived by two daughters, Micky Quimby Richardson and Betty Quimby Brown, one granddaughter, Susan Lee Brown, and a son-in-law, Lowell Brown who has just returned from one year in the South Pacific. One sister, Mrs. Bernice Pernoll, Applegate, and three brothers, Walter W., Spring Lake, J. Richard, Lakeview, and Harry J., Klamath Falls, also survive.

Quimby was a member of the Klamath Falls Elks lodge and services will be held from the Elks temple early next week under the direction of Ward's funeral home. Details will be announced later. The body is at Ward's.
