jective analysis the same root causes of our own troubles domestically—namely that we are being high-pressured into political economics...

Roosevelt Spending Theory

ESSENTIALLY, I suppose, his is the Roosevelt spending theory of the depression era, applied now to an inflation when prices are already too high...

This political angle is the only justification which seems understandable. The doctrine therefore must be called political economics—economics designed for political effect in opposition to genuine economics for economic effect.

Mr. Truman is said once to have wanted private 20 per cent increase for unions also, and his espousal of that figure for the government employees has been interpreted as a political economics.

Inflationary Situation

TODAY, in an inflationary situation up to our necks and a debt to reach $300,000,000,000 we are not merely playing with fire but with a conflagration.

Getting down to root causes then, why are political economics absorbing most of our reading and radio-hearing?

You can see the answer behind the New York and Detroit elections Tuesday in Detroit, CIO had its own candidate for mayor, and in New York, Tammany had the backing of the American labor party which is a communist affiliate of CIO.

I am not now handling those subjects, but proving great political power has been massed behind political economics. This accumulation of power has passed beyond the plane of equal representation for a minority CIO group...

Domestically then, the trouble is the same as with the world—too much politics. We are trying to cure economic crisis with purely political balm. The world is being guided by confused—if earnest—political considerations.

I have read on good military authority 98 per cent of the Chinese people are not much concerned in the civil war raised by the communists against Chiang Kai-shek...

Until we get to that spirit of inspiration for justice I do not think many of the problems of the world or nation will be solved.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

By DeWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst A fellow commuter this morning turned from the headlines in his newspaper and asked me in pre-dawn, sepulchral tones: "Well, when will the next war come — in about five years?"

I wasn't feeling so good myself because the train was late, but that pessimistic query put me on the alert. One doesn't (or at least shouldn't) talk about world wars in these atomic-bomb days without pausing to think. Anyway, my reply was that while there are very real dangers to be overcome, there is no sound reason why these shouldn't be met successfully. I believe that, too.

Certainly there is cause for anxiety, but there's nothing to cause surprise. The international difficulties are mild compared with what might have developed from such a cataclysm as that through which our poor old globe has just passed.

Powers Have Disappeared Great powers — Germany, Italy, Japan — have disappeared and there is an inevitable realignment of spheres of influence which are causing heart-burnings.

George Humphrey was elected councilman for the third ward at a meeting of the city council Monday evening.

From the Evening Herald November 9, 1945 Burt K. Snyder, Lakeview, is new president of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland association.

We are coming out of this war a much poorer nation... Government should offer every possible encouragement to individuals and industry to produce and save and create new wealth, and should cut its own expenses to the bone.

THE DOUGHBOY

Written by PFC Leroy Heaton While in the Philippines I'm sure you've heard his name before. You must have seen him, too; His uniform is proudly worn, His cap is braided blue.

He trained in mud, heat and snow. For what may wait ahead, His feet were sore, his shoulders ached, His cheeks were tinted red.

Yes, he's the backbone of this war, The infantry, to you. But we all know him as a doughboy, Because he has the most to do.

His going tonight away from home; His Mom is softly praying; His sweetheart's voice is soft and clear— God bless you where you're going.

His ship is slowly moving out, His eager eyes are glaring. He may not see our shores again— Only God knows where he's going.

And now we find him waiting For his barge to hit the sand; His pack seems tight, his helmet low, His rifle's in his hand.

Their guns being to thunder, Their shells burst with a thud; Shrapnel screamed murder When the doughboy hit the shore.

Bloodstain filled his shirt sleeve, But still he went ahead, His bayonet meant business, His rifle spit hot lead.

The enemy fought stubbornly, Their troops were all around; The doughboy fought with skill and strength, And slowly took their ground.

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

INVITATION for participation in Klamath's observance of the Marine Corps anniversary has been directed especially toward the people of rural areas and the smaller cities and towns of the huge area surrounding Klamath Falls.

This emphasis has been due to two special reasons: 1. The football jamboree on Modoc field Saturday afternoon will feature seven teams from the surrounding high schools.

2. A great many of our neighbors missed the public visit to the Marine Barracks on Navy Day.

The jamboree and open house at the Barracks Saturday offer two good reasons for those folks to come to town that day to participate in the anniversary events.

People of Klamath Falls and suburbs, of course, are expected to join in the celebration, along with their neighbors from farther out. It's a chance to make it a grand public tribute to a grand fighting organization, which maintains at Klamath Falls its only now active installation in the state of Oregon.

Local Angle

THE U. S. Marine Corps was founded on November 10, 1775, at Philadelphia. Marines have fought in every American war since the revolution. Their contribution to victory in World War II was outstanding.

Here's an interesting local angle on the corps. In the official summary published by the corps in connection with the anniversary, there is a list of outstanding marine heroes of World War II. Two of the men in that list have done duty at Klamath Falls.

One is Major Joseph L. Foss, Sioux Falls, S. D., the marine fighter pilot first to equal Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's World War I record for destruction of enemy planes. Joe spent several months here in late 1944 and early 1945, made many friends, and comes back occasionally for a visit.

The other is Lt. Mitchell Paige, Dravosburg, Pa., who almost single-handedly repulsed a Jap attack on Henderson Field, Guadalcanal. Lt. Paige was here for more than a year, and had charge of military police work with offices on Klamath avenue. He has a wide circle of acquaintances here.

Unique

THERE has been a unique relationship between the marines and the people of the Klamath country. That relationship should help to bring out record crowds for the anniversary events Saturday.

The latchstring is out.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — Yesterday I tried to show too much politics was preventing the world from returning to peace—economic peace as well as human peace.

The Attlee moves to get us to give away money and the atomic bomb I traced to political considerations; the bomb to a political appeasement for nations, and the money for his domestic political considerations of socialism for Britain.

But the same tensioned political spirit can be detected behind all other ills—the Chinese communist uprisings, the planned soviet elections in Europe, the Argentine crisis, what not. I promised to try to demonstrate by ob-

KUHS Graduate's Poem Gets Truman Recognition

MERRILL — Frances Kamarad, 21-year-old former resident of Malin and Merrill and a graduate of KUHS now living at San Mateo will give her consent to President Truman to use a poem written by her for engraving in the Washington memorial in commemoration of those who gave their lives during World War II.

Word of the president's request was forwarded this week to Miss Kamarad's father, J. F. Kamarad and her sister, Mrs. Alfred Carleton, the former Helen Kamarad, both of Merrill. Neither knew of the poem's origin or whether it has been previously published.

Frances is at present employed at the Bethlehem steel plant at San Mateo in the photographic department and has been interested for some years in writing. The letter written by the president's secretary reads:

White House, Wash. D. C. October 24, 1945 My dear Miss Kamarad: Your poem in dedication to the memorial of our soldiers killed in action serving their country was brought to the at-attention of the president of the United States and the president wishes me to express his appreciation for your thoughtfulness in having written such an epitaph and wishes to thank you in behalf of the mothers and fathers of the United States. With your permission the president would like to have your poem engraved in memory of our dead in our Washington memorial.

I am enclosing a form which I would appreciate your returning to me as soon as possible giving us permission to do so. Very sincerely, WILLIAM D. HASSETT, Secretary to the president.

Klamath's Yesterdays

From the files — 40 years ago and 10 years ago.

From the Klamath Republican November 9, 1905 The chamber of commerce today published a letter from George X. Wendling, president of the Weed Lumber company, urging Klamath ranchers to grow apples and potatoes.

George Humphrey was elected councilman for the third ward at a meeting of the city council Monday evening.

From the Evening Herald November 9, 1935 Burt K. Snyder, Lakeview, is new president of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland association.

State Will Operate Butte Falls Hatchery

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP) — House passage sent to the White House a bill transferring the Butte Falls, Ore., fish hatchery to the state, which plans to operate it in connection with a similar plant nearby.

Also approved by the house was a bill to prohibit mining in a recreation area of the Deschutes, Ore., national forest. The only known mineral in the area, according to the interior department, is pumice, commercially undeveloped since 1937. This bill now goes to the senate.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster— Now her Backache is better. Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
