

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY

CONFIRMING an exclusive story carried by The Herald and News a fortnight ago, suits were filed today in San Francisco on behalf of a large group of Tulelake Japanese seeking to recover the U. S. citizenship they renounced in late 1944 and early 1945.

As was predicted in the "break" story, the Japanese claim they were victims of duress at the time they renounced their citizenship. They blame much of the duress on the pro-Japanese "clubs" which were busy at Tulelake early in the year, and whose activities were first reported in our paper.

In their petitions, the renunciants claim that the government made no effort to stop the alleged activities of the pro-Jap clubs. This will be a matter for legal determination, but it will be remembered that large numbers of the Jap agitators were moved out of the camp last winter, and the club activities were sharply denounced by a department of justice official. The extent of protest from "victims of duress" at that time against activities of the clubs is an interesting question in connection with the present evacuee assertions. We would like to know about that.

This newspaper takes some journalistic pride in its success in developing this and other important stories out of the unique situation at Tulelake. It is evidence that we do try our best to "do a job" for the big family of subscribers who give us such excellent patronage and support.

Long Wait

A YOUNG Klamath woman, struck by an automobile as she crossed Pine street at seventh, lay on the icy-cold pavement there for half an hour or so last night before she was removed to a hospital.

What happened was that the merchant police patrol ambulance at that time was out on a call to another accident out of town, which required two trips to bring in the casualties. Such a conflict in calls is almost inevitable so long as there is only one ambulance in the city. It is less likely, of course, if there are two ambulances in operation here, and the incident would seem to be an argument for an emergency car such as the Elks lodge is willing to provide for the city, county or both.

The merchant patrol ambulance people, who are operating their machine as a private enterprise, are doing a good job, and the incident of Monday night was not in any way their fault.

The young woman was finally picked up by the police patrol wagon. But the wagon had to go somewhere for a stretcher, adding five or ten minutes to the time the girl lay on the pavement. It occurred to us that perhaps the patrol wagon ought to be permanently equipped with a stretcher for just such emergencies.

If the present accident rate keeps up, it looks as if there are going to be plenty of emergencies.

Hunting Yarn

THOSE big elk horns pictured on our Page One Saturday drew a lot of interest, and their size was especially impressive to recent arrivals from the east and midwest. One easterner got a clipping of the picture to send back to people who, he said, had never seen anything like that and would need picture proof to believe it.

Sportsmen and wildlifers will be interested in the story of the bagging of this 1000-pound elk by Dr. D. D. Havens, Klamath Falls. It happened on a trip to Mt. Emily, in the La Grande country, with Dr. Havens, Dr. Lloyd Goble and Jack Ray of Klamath Falls in the party.

On the first day of the season, Dr. Havens trekked out of camp by himself and sat down on a steep hillside that gave him a view over a clearing. The big elk soon walked out in the clearing, going up a trail toward a saddle. Dr. Havens braced himself, raised his .35 automatic, and let go. The elk dropped like a rock. The animal was well down in a steep canyon, and the Klamath men had plenty of trouble getting it out of there, even though they were well equipped with the required block and tackle and other paraphernalia.

But the interesting thing is that it was three days before they found where Dr. Havens had shot the elk. The bullet had penetrated just behind an ear, and the heavy hide and hair at that point made the hole virtually invisible. The hunters knew the elk had been hit in a vital spot, but before they found the bullet hole almost came to the conclusion it had had a heart attack.

It was a swell shot at 300 yards, and "Doc" Havens can tell that hunting yarn with justifiable pride.

As member of the naval affairs committee, he visited the Klamath naval air station and Marine Barracks last winter, and gave some help on the navy housing program here. He used his influence strongly in behalf of navy development at Astoria, his home area. Before going to congress in 1933, he was Oregon corporation commissioner, and in the early depression period took over several Klamath theatres for the corporation department. The Tulelake WRA center's farm operations this year yielded 3,088,175 pounds of vegetables, as compared with 2,522,044 pounds. Weather pessimists are advised not to get excited—10 years ago this month the Klamath country was tied up by a terrific storm that froze potatoes in the ground and piled up ice along the sides of Upper Klamath lake. Later, the weather cleared and there was a long period of warm sunshine.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Nothing was published about the untitled attacks made since peace in China upon American forces there several weeks ago.

I have private but direct information a United States navy repair ship was "shot up" floating down a river. I have also learned of numerous incidents where planes at American airfields have been shot at. Damage was done in most instances but there were no casualties.

Official authorities presumably kept these matters quiet for diplomatic purposes (Russia?). Instead the daily news routes from China are being plied with rather injured assertions from the communist "New China Daily News" that the United States is now don't laugh soldiers after the war you have been through there—"intervening in the domestic affairs of China." I suppose next the commie press will be charging us with intervening in the affairs of Germany and Italy, where our troops also are.

Anyhow, in this instance, the Chinese communists asserted whatever we did was dastardly of us, because Russian troops were politely withdrawing from Chinese territory, in accordance with their treaty promise. They neglected to mention the Russian communists had left them, the Chinese communists, to start a civil war against the established allied Chinese government.

Communists Losing War

ALL this means, of course, is that the communists are losing their civil war. The only interpretation which should be put upon my above information is that it points again to the defect in the American free press system which allows foreign agencies to use us for their propaganda tends to mislead our people, especially when our official authorities do not care to give out statements of the facts. We need to bulwark our free press against such easy ill-use.

A second way we are being deceived is with truth. Our professional liberals are riding the front pages and airwaves with assertions that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is a dictator. They constantly present to our eyes and ears the truth that his regime is not a democracy. They say no more.

Well, the generalissimo has been what he is for many years. No such international attacks on him were made during the war, or earlier—only now that the communists have started a civil war against him.

Some of these American pros know their half-truths are communist propaganda, Markist pressure which lend their efforts to a typical commie trick, but other unthinking Americans do not, and glibly take up these deceptive fractional verities, to contribute unwittingly to deceiving the entire world.

The whole truth is there are but two political regimes in China, neither of them democratic. Chiang, in the true democratic spirit, has promised repeatedly—his entire Kuomintang movement has pledged—an election as soon as the communists lay down their arms or genuine collaboration by the communists justifies. He is an avowed disciple of Christian principles.

The communists, atheistic or agnostic disbelievers in Christian principles, only pretend to advocate democracy. They represent Stalin's bid to capture Asia—in absentia.

Two Alternatives

THE only choice for us in Asia is between those two alternatives. All other argument is immaterial. I could report as bad things about the Kuomintang regime as the communists are reporting to us now. It is corrupt in many spots; in others it is not good government.

China is suffering inflation, which the Kuomintang has not combated. It will have a terrific struggle to survive not only the communist opposition, but itself. As I reported before, I have authoritative information 98 per cent of the struggling Chinese people are not much interested in either government.

The Kuomintang government, however, is our ally, was a participant with us in setting up the United Nations war and peace organization. It cooperates with us wholeheartedly. The communist government may or not have a unique degree of independence from Moscow, but it would vote today with Russia against us on any matter of war or peace; in fact, is in armed-rebellion against our ally.

Put this basic background thought to any China news dispatch you read from now on, whether it comes straight from the communists or circuitously through American or other spokesmen—and laugh at them.

The World Today

By DeWitt MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Troubles are buzzing about John Bull's ears so actively that it's given to wonder whether British Prime Minister Attlee—currently the honored guest of President Truman—didn't invite worry by breaking a mirror sometime after his new socialistic government came to power in September.

The boiling over of the Palestine problem, with its dangerous Jewish-Arab differences, has been followed by other embarrassing events. A couple of days ago Pandit Nehru, who next to Mahatma Gandhi is the most influential Hindu in all India, declared during a speech in Bombay that it was India's duty to revolt. Then yesterday along came Egyptian Prime Minister Nokrashi Pasha with a demand for complete independence, including the withdrawal of British troops from his country.

Academic Challenge Of course Nehru's advocacy of revolution to break away from England may be rather in the nature of an academic challenge which is calculated to force the political issue with the new British government for independence. Also the provincial elections in British India are to be held soon, and he may have had them in mind.

Still such a statement coming from Nehru can't be brushed aside lightly. He is powerful, and he has been making strong speeches ever since last June when he was released from prison where he had been held with other Indian leaders as the result of the disorders following the failure of the Cripps mission which offered India Dominion status in 1942. He has been supporting the Indonesian revolt against the Dutch, and recently tried to visit Java but was refused permission by the government of India.

The Egyptian demand looks rather formidable, since it was made at a full-dress opening of parliament, in the presence of King Farouk, the queen, and a large gathering of diplomats. Egypt of course is one of the vital bases for the protection of Britain's Mediterranean lifeline through the Suez canal to India and the other British domains of the Far East. It also is the keystone of English strength in the Middle East.
