

Tree Books

Mrs. William J. Owsley, regent of Eulalona chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has placed in the city library a pamphlet entitled "Famous Trees," which is published by the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

There are 50 illustrations in the publication under three headings: "Trees Associated With Notable Persons, Events, or Places"; "Trees Notable for Unusual Size or Age," and "Freak Trees." Under the first heading a number of trees called "Washington Elm Grandchild" are mentioned, one planted on the grounds of the state capital in Hartford, Conn., March 31, 1933.

Klamath Falls has a "Washington Grandchild" tree, too, though the pamphlet fails to mention it. In 1932 Eulalona chapter planted one of these trees at the south corner of KUHS building, a few feet south of the paved walk. On October 2, 1934, the chapter dedicated a bronze marker which the chapter had placed near the tree, commending the tree and marking to the care and protection of the student body, present and future.

The story of the elm tree follows: "Washington selected an elm tree under which to take command of the Continental army on July 2, 1775. This tree was venerated by every American patriot, and a bronze tablet marks the place where it stood.

"Elder Brewster (William), one of the most notable of the early colonists, took several of the saplings which grew up under the Washington elm, and placed them around his home place in Boston.

"In 1832, Colburn Barrell, a descendant of Brewster, placed one of these young trees in a container, and took it around the Horn to Oregon, planting it at Main and Second streets, in Portland. Later it was again transplanted and now stands in the Lone Fir cemetery, and from this tree 80 years later, Mrs. McCreadie, then state regent, was able to secure and present to Eulalona chapter, this grandchild of the old George Washington elm."

Under "Trees of Unusual Size" Oregon is given credit for six trees, one in Klamath county, one in Crater Lake national park. The pamphlet contains 111 pages of most interesting and informative material. Mrs. Burton B. Lowrey, Medford, state regent of Oregon DAR, is making a special project of placing these pamphlets in every Oregon library.

Those desiring copies for their own library can obtain them by addressing the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C., and asking for Famous Trees, Miscellaneous Publication No. 295, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The price is 20 cents.

Potluck

The Yomarc class of the First Methodist church held a regular potluck dinner and party on November 1 at the church. The Halloween theme was used for decorations. A gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foote who will soon be moving to their new home at Redmond. The class is planning to sponsor outdoor lighting for the church during the Christmas holidays.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Lee.

NOVEMBER 28th has been chosen by Mary Duggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Duggan of Tulelake, as the date of her marriage to James Russell Anderson in St. Augustine's church, Merrill. —Evergreen.

Following the session refreshments were served to members of the Loyal Order of Moose and the Women of the Moose by Mrs. Olivia Hobbs, Mrs. Susan Williams, Mrs. Margaret Fields, Mrs. Lillian Thomason, Mrs. Josephine Card, and Mrs. Rose Van Meter.

Church Circles

The Ruth Circle of Klamath Lutheran church met November 6 at the home of Mrs. F. W. Delyea, Stewart addition, for dessert. The program consisted of Scripture reading and prayer by the Rev. S. M. Topness, singing of the hymn, "Beautiful Savior" by the group, and a reading by Mrs. C. H. Meyer. The members of the circle responded to roll call by quoting Bible passages. A reading project was adopted in which religious books will be read by the members and reports given at meetings. Books will be purchased from time to time, passed on to other circles in the church and eventually be placed in the church library. Lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held December 4 at the home of Mrs. Chester Owens. The officers are: president, Mrs. F. W. Delyea; vice president, Mrs. C. H. Meyers; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Chester Owens.

Mrs. Estin Kiger entertained members of the Miriam Circle of Klamath Lutheran church on Tuesday, November 6. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. O. K. Warcup and Mrs. S. M. Topness gave a reading on Miriam. The members responded to roll call with Bible passages. As a special project the circle will have charge of the nursery at the church during morning worship for the month of November. The following are officers of the circle: president, Mrs. J. R. Peebler; vice president, Mrs. O. K. Warcup; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Estin Kiger. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Members of the Rebekah Social club met in the IOOF hall Wednesday, November 14, for a potluck luncheon at 1 p. m. followed by a social afternoon. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party Wednesday, December 12, which will be given by the social club and the Past Noble Grand club jointly, with a turkey dinner and all the trimmings. Plans were also completed for the rummage sale to be held soon.
