

Germans Show Growing Resentment Against U. S. Occupation Methods

By JAMES F. KING
FRANKFURT, Dec. 3 (AP)—German resentment against the American occupation methods is developing gradually into bitter hatred which is giving rise to increasing talk of resistance, according to a survey made by U. S. intelligence officers.

An outstanding source of resentment, the survey found, is the conviction that the American military administration is suffering from a lack of policy which the Germans hold responsible for much injustice and confusion.

This conviction, it was said, is shared by many of the clergy who profess pro-allied sympathies.

Results of the survey, undertaken in an effort to obtain some light on the German view, were embodied in a 20,000-word report made public yesterday.

Bittered Enough

In general, the investigators found that the Germans seem to feel that they have suffered enough, whatever their crimes. "Whatever material losses were inflicted on other countries, Germany has lost more," is the way the average German seems to feel, the report said. It pictured Germany as a land of groaners, and quoted one civil servant as saying "The only thing Germans would be able really to agree on would be some form of resistance."

The report disclosed that the Council of the Evangelical church in Germany had made a formal protest to the inter-allied control council charging injustices in the de-nationalization program.

Danger Exists

"This campaign as we see it in the American zone will not exterminate Hitlerism," the protest said. "Indeed danger exists that Hitlerism will win new adherents."

Both clergy and laymen were reported of the opinion that American policy is "resentful of the church's position as a defender of rights and suspicious of the church as an educational force."

The clergymen also protested against "the freedom accorded Poles and other foreigners when they take their revenge on the German people for charging which the Nazis inflicted on them."

There has been some talk among Germans of organizing vigilante groups to combat deprivations by displaced persons, the survey said.

There also has been talk of organizing similar groups "to punish fraternizing women."

Civil Case Opens Here

Although no grand jury has been called by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg, the December term of court began this morning with the civil case of W. G. Smith versus the Horsey Irrigation district as first on the docket.

This case was held over from the June term of court. A new jury panel was called for the December term and of the 31 persons slated for jury duty several were excused and only 13 showed up at the courthouse this morning.

No extra help has been put on a supplementary list of 15 veniremen could be drawn up and the prospective jurors called to court this afternoon.

Farrans and Maxwell are representing Smith in the irrigation case and William Ganong is the defense attorney.

Holiday Mail Lags Behind

Many people are going to be disappointed at Christmas time if mailing doesn't start soon.

There are only 19 more business days until Christmas, and only nine mailing days until December 15 when all packages should be in the post office to insure timely delivery, Burt E. Hawkins, Klamath Falls postmaster, stated today.

The quiet at the post office at this date is in sharp contrast with this time last year when thousands of packages were going to all corners of the world.

No extra help has been put on yet and none will be until mailing increases, Hawkins said. Business is expected to pick up within the next few days.

Veterans will be hired first for extra work, then high school boys and several applications are on hand already.

World Education Urged By Van Vactor

A program of world education in the principles of decency and honor among men was advocated by Major Dayton E. Van Vactor in his address at the Elks memorial services held at the temple here Sunday afternoon.

Van Vactor noted the tenets of the Elks lodge—charity, justice and brotherly love—and said they might well be given world-wide application in the cause of permanent good will and international peace.

Exalted Ruler Ray Ruger led the lodge officers in the traditional memorial ritual. Music was provided by Winnifred Gilen, vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. Sherman Carter.

58 Divorces Granted Here

The state of matrimony in the Klamath basin didn't hold its own during the month of November, courthouse records reveal. During the month there were 42 marriage licenses issued and 58 divorce decrees granted.

Also there were 52 suits for divorce and four cases for annulment of marriage filed during the 30-day period.

On the orange-blossom side of the picture, civilian couples received 29 marriage licenses, eight went to marines and their girlfriends, four were issued to sailors and a couple went to soldiers.

One marine married a Wave, three others sent back home for their brides and four wed local girls. The sailors and soldiers married Klamath Falls girls.

As for the homes-wrecked side, 42 of the decrees went to women and 16 to men plaintiffs, and one case was dismissed.

Of the 52 cases filed, cruel and inhuman treatment, which might mean almost anything, was charged in 45 suits, and desertion in the other seven.

Reasons for requesting the four annulments were, one, bride under age of 15; two, bride under age; three, fraud on part of the wife charged by the groom; and four, a prior marriage still in effect.

CAP Meeting To Be Held

Now you can learn to fly. Everyone interested in flying is urged to attend the civil air patrol meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the chamber of commerce.

Discharged pilots and ground personnel from the army air corps will be enlisted in the senior CAP group.

Present activity of the organization as outlined by Capt. P. H. Hitchcock, Klamath Falls squadron, is training of cadets between the ages of 15 and 18 for future material in the AAF, if that branch of service is selected by the cadet on reaching his 18th birthday.

Training aids used by the AAF during the war are being supplied as fast as possible and classes will be offered at KUHS, commencing in January for the junior group. Those students electing to take the aviation course in high school will receive academic credit, as well as credit in CAP for their work.

Orientation flights for all CAPC members will be made in the PT-17 which is being supplied by the AAF for this purpose. These flights will start Saturday, December 9, with schedules being arranged by Harold Teale, director of vocational education at KUHS.

All cadet personnel scheduled for orientation flights are requested to appear in uniform.

Classes in ground school courses and military tactics for senior members of CAP will be held evenings after January 1, the time and place to be announced at a later date.
