War Heroes On USO Broadcast

The USO's regular Monday night radio broadcast over station KFJI this week featured the theme "Lest We Forget." Captain Donald (Red) Loomis and Sgt. Doug Vaden, local heroes of World War II, were interviewed during the program. Cpl. Jim Franks of bond headquarters planned the program and was master of ceremonies.

For the musical part of the broadcast, Pat Brown, accompanied by Mrs. Marjorie Fraser, sang "Some Day I'll Meet You Again." Cpl. Frank Yantow sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," accompanied by Elaine Abbott, and George Willis, a former marine, accompanied by the Chicagoans, sang "There's No You."

Discharged—Three Klamath men received their discharges in late November from the army separation center at Fort Lewis, Wash. They are T/Sgt. John G. Whitelme, Rt. 1, Box 1083, PFC Louis L. Hill, 2512 Shasta way, and PFC Edward R. Croker, Box 744.

Christmas Boxes—The Venture club wishes to send Christmas boxes to all Klamath county servicemen who are confined to hospitals. Agent Gives Candy Tips

Christmas traditions of homemade sweets may be observed in spite of sugar shortages by the use of syrups, honey, dried fruits, and other sugar extenders, says Winifred K. Gillen, Klamath county home demonstration agent. A variation of old fashioned sugariers molasses taffy combines with mint in a delicious product. A new method of combining dried fruits, chopped nuts and honey or syrup produces a delectable variety of Persian sweets.

Excellent crackerjacks for the youngsters or oldsters can be made with molasses and a small amount of sugar. Brittle chocolate taffy can be made from dark corn syrup and a small amount of brown sugar.

Recipes for these sugar saving sweets, including a new marshmallow made with fruit, are given in a new circular HE-1927, "Sugar Saving Christmas Sweets," which is available free at all extension service offices.

Dr. Riker Will Be Stationed Here

Information just received by the county agent's office from Dr. Sam B. Foster, inspector in charge, bureau of animal industry, Oregon division, states that Dr. Riker, formerly veterinarian inspector at Klamath Falls, who is now returning from active duty, will again be stationed at Klamath Falls. A few days ago Dr. Riker stopped in at the county agent's office for a short visit and indicated he would like to be back to this location at the earliest opportunity.

The county agent's office is still taking requests for testing both dairy and beef cattle and these should be made at the earliest opportunity at room 213, post office building, Klamath Falls.

Cancels Dance—Baldy Evans has cancelled his dance at the Klamath armory tonight because of the Marine Barracks' dance featuring Bob Crosby's orchestra. The Saturday night dance at the armory will be held as usual, Evans said.

Sweets, which is available free at all extension service offices.
