

4 Off-Line Railroad Agencies In Klamath

In addition to the railroads serving Klamath Falls and the main area, as do the Southern Pacific and Great Northern, four other railroads, Western Pacific, Ann Arbor, Chicago-Rock Island, Pacific, and Union Pacific, maintain off-line agencies in Klamath Falls to serve their patrons in this district.

The Western Pacific, which operates from Salt Lake City to San Francisco and Bieber, is represented by R. R. Taylor, general agent. Service from Klamath Falls is via Bieber, Calif., over a line built in 1931 from Keddle to Bieber, which gives a through direct service to and from all eastern points as well as California. Taylor has his office in the Medical-Dental building and resides at 1527 Pacific Terrace.

Ann Arbor Line

The Ann Arbor railroad also has offices in the Medical-Dental building and is represented by Ray W. Cowles, traveling freight agent. The AARR operates ferry service across Lake Michigan and serves the automobile and furniture factories, in addition to serving as a connecting link in trunk line service.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific is represented locally by A. C. Laberlee, who resides at 1951 Erie. Laberlee has been the traveling freight representative here since September, 1942. The Rock Island operates east from Denver, as well as Texas and Oklahoma. The line is famous for its Streamline Rockets.

Jack E. Atherton, traveling freight and passenger agent, represents the Union Pacific in Klamath Falls. The Union Pacific serves an extensive territory in the west with eastern gateways at Omaha and Kansas City. It operates the streamliners, City of Portland, City of San Francisco and City of Los Angeles, between Chicago and the west coast, and maintains through freight service with western connecting lines. Atherton is residing at the Willard hotel until he is able to secure residence in Klamath Falls for his wife and two children.

Bob Crosby's Band To Play At Marine Post Tonight

Bob Crosby, just out of the marine corps and 14 months duty in the Pacific as a lieutenant, will bring his "Bobcats" to the Marine Barracks tonight for a dance and show for leathernecks, their wives and girl friends.

The dance will start at 8 o'clock in the post gym. Before the dance Bing's younger brother and his orchestra will present a 45-minute show from the stage of the post theatre, starting promptly at 7 o'clock.

Crosby, who was famous on radio, screen, stage and recording before the war, did his bit overseas with the marines' special services division, organizing jungle musicals for island-isolated leathernecks.

When he received his discharge recently he lost no time in getting back to Hollywood and to get his band together again.

Transportation for marines downtown will leave the naval housing area at 6:15 tonight, make stops at the courthouse, the USO and the armory and arrive at the Barracks in time for the theatre concert.

Then the buses will make another round at 8 o'clock.

Norblad Seeks Mott Vacancy

ASTORIA, Dec. 5 (AP)—Walter A. Norblad, attorney and World War II veteran, had his bid in today for candidacy to the first congressional district post made vacant by the death of Rep. James W. Mott.

Norblad urged that all republicans back a single candidate. Should the republican committee meeting Saturday at Salem endorse another candidate, Norblad said he would withdraw, providing other candidates do likewise.

The ex-serviceman said "burdens rising out of the war—war debts, re-employment, hospitalization and atomic power problems—must be faced and solved to a large extent by the men who have been in service."

Limes that are green in color and heavy for their size are the most desirable.

Typo Strikers Reject Offer

SEATTLE, Dec. 5 (AP)—News-hungry Seattleites went into their 17th day today, still trying to find out whether they got out of the culvert, and it looks as if they won't know for some time to come.

The city's striking printers last night rejected a management proposal and resumed their picketing of the three strikebound Seattle dailies. The strike committee did not reveal terms of the management offer or the vote of the affected members of the Typographical Union (AFL), saying only that a management-concession "was rejected overwhelmingly."

Debate on the proposal lasted two and a half hours. Employees of the morning Post-Intelligencer, which was prepared for an immediate plunge into the work of resuming publication, clustered outside the building awaiting the results of the vote.

Printers on all three Seattle papers, the P-I, Times and Star, left their jobs Nov. 18 after turning down a management counter-offer of $1.65 to their demand for a wage increase of $2.05 a day.

Strikers unofficially reported yesterday's management offer was for an increase in the amount of retroactive pay if the $1.65 boost was accepted.

Prospects For Tires Look Good

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Tire prospects are looking up. The first new casings to be released to civilians by the army and navy—about 400,000 of them—will reach the market in about a month.

And these, which bolster hopes for an end to rationing around New Year's, will be followed by surplus offerings of auto, truck and tractor tires at a "sizeable rate" for some time.

This disclosure by a spokesman for the consumer goods division of the war assets corporation followed announcement that the government is stepping out of the rubber-from-alcohol business because lower-cost petroleum plants can meet the national demand for synthetic rubber.

Plans Closed

The three big plants erected at a cost of $117,000,000 to use grain alcohol for synthetic rubber making are being closed immediately on orders of the reconstruction finance corporation.

Whether RFC's decision would touch off another alcohol-vs.-oil controversy remained to be seen. Farm interests since early in the war supported the grain alcohol operations and opposed their curtailment.

Recent new estimates that

300,000 tons of natural rubber will reach the United States from liberated and other areas in the next year made it unlikely, however, that the alcohol plants would see use again.

"Stand-By" Condition

They are to be placed in "stand-by" condition, ready to resume production in an emergency, said G. B. Hadlock, associate director of the office of rubber reserve, an RFC subsidiary which supervises synthetic rubber production.

Reason for abandonment of the alcohol plants was "purely dollars and cents," Hadlock said, explaining that the cost of alcohol-rubber was 24 1/2 cents a pound compared with 12 or 13 cents for petroleum-rubber. The plants are located at Institute, W. Va., Kobuts, Pa., and Louisville, Ky.
