

MacArthur Directs Jap Government To Inaugurate Broad Relief Plan

By RUSSELL BRINES
TOKYO, Dec. 13 (AP)—Election reform legislation revolutionary in Japanese history is expected to be passed by the house of peers—probably tomorrow—as a first step toward proportionate representation.

While the diet wrestled with political reform, General MacArthur attacked on the economic front, directing the Japanese government to inaugurate a broad relief program to provide food, clothing, housing, medical care, financial aid and welfare services for unemployed this winter.

The relief plan, when ready, must be submitted in detail for allied approval. The government also was ordered to take all necessary steps to prevent discrimination in distribution of food. Allied headquarters meanwhile began surveys of food consumption, nutrition and physical health of Japanese.

Told to Get Busy
The Japanese government was told bluntly by the house of representatives today to get busy and do something to alleviate suffering of the war stripped people.

The house, in a resolution sponsored jointly by all political parties and approved without a dissenting vote, warning that many victims of American bombings "are still aimlessly wandering on the scorched earth," and blamed "bureaucratic red tape" for failure of reconstruction plans.

The election reform bill would double the electorate, to about 45,000,000 voters, by granting women suffrage and reducing the balloting age to 20 years.

Wider Choice
Shunichi Suzuki, election expert of the home ministry, explained that the government measure provides also for drastic re-districting and a wider choice of candidates for the house of representatives.

The legislation does not involve revision of the house of peers, the reform of which was promised earlier by Premier Kijuro Shidehara. A bill altering the present highly restrictive selection of the upper house is to be introduced in the diet after Japan's first general election of the occupation.

Replying to Naoshi Obara, a peer, Shidehara said the revision should be made before the diet considers constitutional changes but that the government is not yet ready to offer a concrete plan.

Probe Slated On Whippings

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 12 (AP) State Senator Frank Hilton said today he would convene the state legislature's interim committee on state institutions to conduct an investigation of whipping of Woodburn state training school inmates.

The Portland legislator said he and State Representative Jack Baln, Multnomah-Clackamas district, were not satisfied with a state board of control secretary's report in which whipping of two boys was declared justified.

Senator Hilton said the committee would interview the two boys involved and also W. H. Runyan, 70, who complained of the severe whippings given the boys while he was working at the school.

Roy Mills, control board secretary, reported he believed the whippings justified under the circumstances and that the two boys had stated they considered their treatment was not harsh.
