

Controls Planned To Make Sure Home Buyers Get Money's Worth

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—An aide of John W. Snyder said today the reconstruction director is planning controls aimed at assuring new home buyers value for their money.

This official, who is representing Snyder at the government-sponsored housing conference here, said it has been decided "there will have to be some sort of quality controls" to make sure home purchasers get their money's worth.

The official, who asked that his name not be used, told a reporter this subject will be discussed with labor and management representatives of the construction industry at concluding sessions of the housing conference today.

While details have not been worked out, it is understood the general plan is to have the national housing agency check builders' specifications when they apply for government aid in obtaining materials.

Recommended Under a program recommended to Snyder by other government officials, NHA would turn down applications for such aid if it felt the proposed price for a home was out of line with cost.

This provision would be incorporated in a new regulation to earmark 50 per cent of all building materials for homes costing $10,000 or less. The purpose of the provision would be to see that a $8000 home sold at that price and not, say, at $8500.

The quality control measure went on the conference agenda along with further discussion of administration-endorsed legislation for price ceilings on new and old houses, a proposal which split labor and industry delegates into two camps at yesterday's opening session.

The CIO threw its support to the ceiling program, but the construction industry reiterated its opposition.

Joseph E. Merrion, president of the national association of home builders, asserted the Patman bill providing for such ceilings would "emasculate" the industry.

Although they divided sharply on this issue, industry and labor were in agreement that the government should tell the public in blunt language that there is no speedy cure-all for the housing shortage.

Jones and Gloria Mayfield, the angel; John Baker, Mercedes Collins and Gordon Lindberg, the little brother. Lighting effects were achieved by Dick Griffiths and Harold Gillette. Barbara Perkins and Della June Michael are in charge of costuming. Assistant stage manager is Margaret Grub. The play will be shown Thursday for students and a night performance will be held for the public Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Exams Coming Up

A special bulletin was read to the students yesterday in homerooms concerning semester exams which will be given shortly after the pupils return to their classes after Christmas vacation. Tests will be given during the week of the 7th to the 11th. Any student missing an exam will presumably fail the course unless documentary evidence is presented to show that absence was necessary.

And Incidentally

Frank Ramsey, former football coach at KUHS, was visiting at school yesterday. Ramsey left his coaching position at KUHS to join the marines several years ago.

Bill Colbert and June Selstrom, two members of the Sacred Heart academy, have been added to the Teen-age club committee. A special program is being planned for the TAC next Saturday night.

Members of the various groups of the music department were in and out of classes yesterday practicing for the program to be given tomorrow. An evening performance of this musical program will be given for adults at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the auditorium at Klamath high.

Fox Makes Mistake Of Attacking Man

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 18 (AP) W. Grizzard, of Tattall Homes, came to town with the warm body of a big red fox. He told the Morning News his story:

He had stopped his automobile eight miles from Savannah to inspect the tires. He heard a rustle in the leaves and turned to see what caused the noise. At that instant the fox leaped upon him. Grizzard grabbed the animal by its snout, gave a quick jerk and broke its neck.

Bishop Disappoints Crowd, Hits Only 23

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Dec. 18 (AP)—Gail Bishop, who tallied 1195 basketball points last season to lead the national scoring pace, made his first appearance of the current season last night in rather disappointing fashion. He scored only 23 points.

The former Washington State college star, however, paced his war department training quintet to a 63-45 victory over the Fort Lewis Medics.

Bishop averaged 26 points per game last season.
