Courtright Hunts Hellcat

B. G. Courtright, superintendent of the Klamath Indian Agency, took the controls of the Agency Piper Cub and both Sunday and New Year's day patrolled the area where a navy Hellcat was last reported December 3.

Courtright is not a rank newcomer to aviation having flown since 1908. He also is a veteran balloonist and was one of the pioneers of air travel. He made his first solo flight at Sioux City, Ia., when planes were vastly different from the sleek little jobs today. The Agency head said he flew over Crater lake and also the Bly section in the hopes of finding some trace of the missing Hellcat and pilot. Courtright said the search would be continued by the Indian service. The navy abandoned the search some time ago.
