

Oregon's Congressmen Elated Over Approval Of $200 Million Project; Klamath Gets New 200-Bed Hospital

By CHARLES D. WATKINS
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Oregon's congressional delegation went into a new year today with satisfaction over one big 1945 accomplishment for their constituents: Approval of the eventual $200,000,000 program for development of the Columbia and Snake rivers.

The Umatilla dam, the chief project in the program, had been urged for years by the state's congressional delegation. Its construction, plus that of four dams on Snake river, will provide a waterway from Idaho to the Pacific.

The past year brought into operation the new wood waste alcohol plant at Springfield, the alumina from clay plant at Eugene, expansion of the Veterans hospitals at Portland and Roseburg and approval of a new 200-bed hospital for Klamath Falls.

And there was official word that Camp White at Medford would be made permanent if the peace-time size of the army warrants its use.

Looking forward to 1946, the delegation expected to continue its fight for greater use of the port of Portland by the federal government, and for making Tongue Point a permanent naval station.

Michael W. Straus, reclamation commissioner, announced recently that $35,000,000 of work would be done by the bureau in the Pacific northwest next year with $4,983,000 of it in Oregon.

The bureau said it would start work on the Columbia basin project in Washington at a cost of $18,749,000 and spend $2,226,300 on the Roza division of the Yakima project. In Idaho the bureau plans to spend $11,236,500, including $3,494,850 on the Payette division of the Boise project and $5,353,270 on the Anderson ranch project.

Klamath Project
In Oregon the bureau plans to spend $3,035,580 on the Deschutes project; $1,695,341 on the Klamath project; $249,145 on the Owyhee project and $3,000 on the Vale project. In the Deschutes project the major portion of the money will be spent to bring an additional 50,000 acres of land under irrigation in the vicinity of Madras. Further work will be done on the Wicklup dam and clearing of the reservoir area, for river channel improvements, and installation of additional power facilities, including construction of substation and a transmission line.

On the Klamath project the bureau said it planned to extend and improve the irrigation system, construct a drainage system in the Coppeck Bay area to make water available for 9300 acres of public land, construct flood control works and concrete line the main canal.

As the session of congress closed for the year, Senator Morse (R) told the senate it was completing the worst "do-nothing session in history" but on the house side Rep. Ellsworth (R) said he believed congress had accomplished all it started out to do that was of major importance.

HIGH SCHOOL

News Notes and Comment

By JOAN O'NEILL

The pictures of the student body which were taken in such a quick fashion the Wednesday before school was dismissed for the holidays were returned to the students today. The pictures were taken so that the office record cards could be used as a means of identification. Many of the pictures have already been placed on the permanent record cards.

The home room period was extended until 9:30 a. m. so that the teachers could distribute the pictures and collect money from those who wished to keep them. Each student who was photographed was given 12 small pictures of himself. He was allowed to keep them at a rate of three for 10 cents; six for 20 cents, and 12 for 30 cents. There was no obligation to those who did not wish to keep the pictures, however, many of the kids did keep their pictures and were exchanging them with their friends in the halls today. Stress has been placed lately on the final exams which will be given next week. A special bulletin was read by the home-room teachers last week before vacation concerning semester reviews and examinations and teachers have been setting the dates for the exams in their classes.

Examinations must be given in all classes including physical education, trade and industry, retail selling, mechanical drawing, shop and music classes. Absences and tardys will not be tolerated unless the student can furnish satisfactory documentary evidence as to why he was absent or late. Students failing in PE, English, U. S. history, social economics, or home economics will continue in the same class, but failure in other classes will mean dismissal from the class.

No school Friday of next week for the majority of the students as only those who have been asked by the teacher to come to make up needed work will attend. Assemblies and meetings will be taboo from January 8 to 10, because of the examinations.

Washington County Farmers Will Meet

HILLSBORO, Jan. 3 (AP)—Washington county farmers, who earned $11,000,000 annually during the peak war years, will meet here January 24 to outline a peacetime production program. Ten committees are now canvassing the region's farmers on
