WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—A wind that would make a 75-mile an hour hurricane seem like a leaf-fluttering zephyr—generating a velocity of 500 to 1000 miles an hour—likely will result from the navy's atomic bomb experiment on warships at lonely Bikini atoll.

This was one of the predictions made by navy and military experts as they speculated upon the effect of the bomb in its first application over water.

The initial pressure blast of hundreds of thousands of pounds per square inch at the core of the explosion would:

1. Create the 500 to 1000 miles an hour winds;
2. Pile up 100-foot waves racing outward from the blast;
3. Develop heat up to 100,000,000 degrees Fahrenheit which will fuse the metal of the ships into molten masses, if, in fact, it does not completely dissipate the vessels.

Still to be adequately answered is the question of radioactivity—what effect radio active water and air will have. As a precaution, islanders from nearby areas will be evacuated, as it is recalled that the Hiroshima and Nagasaki explosions above land affected persons radioactively. Blood seeped out through apparently undamaged skin to drain into internal cavities.

Map Lands Army Private In Jail

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 28 (AP)—A crudely drawn map took an army private on a nocturnal treasure hunt whose trail led to jail today.

Pvt. Joseph Torres, 24, Fort Lewis, Wash., was held by the county grand jury on a charge of burglary because his treasure map was a sketch of an apartment where he was found by detectives early today.

Detective George Turner said Torres told him that at Eureka, Calif., he was told by a jail prisoner of a $400 cache in the wall of a Portland apartment. A map went with the information.

When Torres arrived at Fort Lewis for basic training Friday he decided to make the search, Turner quoted him as saying.

Detectives, called by a tenant who heard someone in the vacant apartment, found Torres and his map but no treasure.

Negotiations Completed On Rubber Sales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The state department announced today completion of price negotiations for purchase of natural rubber from British, Dutch and French areas in the Far East.

The price was fixed at 20 1/2 cents a pound for standard top grades, delivered free on board ocean-going steamers at Far Eastern ports. Under terms of the agreement the reconstruction finance corporation subsidiary, the rubber development corporation, will buy all rubber in those areas allocated to the United States and the combined rubber committees.

The agreement will cover the period September 2, 1945—V-J Day—through June 30, 1946, in the case of the Dutch and the French, and the period September 2 through March 31, 1946, in the case of the United Kingdom from whose areas substantial quantities of rubber already have been shipped, the announcement said.

The American-British-French-Dutch study group reported November 24 that the United States capacity for the production of synthetic rubber is now about 1,055,000 tons a year and that the estimated total world capacity is between 1,200,000 and 1,400,000 tons.

At that time, the board said its survey showed that plant manufacturing costs in the United States "have declined markedly in the recent past and are more than covered by the present selling price of 18 1/2 U. S. cents per pound for general purpose synthetic rubber."

RFI officials said the last price paid by the United States before the war for natural rubber from the Far Eastern areas was 18 1/2 cents a pound.
