

Safford Knew He Was Breaking Navy Regulations When He Undertook To Clear Admiral Kimmel Of PH Blame

By J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Naval Capt. L. F. Safford testified today he knew he was breaking naval regulations when he undertook a campaign to clear Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel of blame for the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Safford told the senate-house committee investigating the December 7, 1941 attack that he believed he had to launch the campaign because he had at first felt bitter against the 1941 Pacific fleet commander.

"I had to do something to make amends," he said slowly. Safford wrote in a secret-code letter to Captain A. D. Kramer in January, 1944, that Kimmel and the 1941 army commander at Pearl Harbor had "been framed." He asked that Kramer line up Adm. William F. Halsey in "the cause" of clearing Kimmel.

"This defense of Admiral Kimmel has puzzled me," Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) told the witness. "You knew you were doing something wrong, violating navy regulations, did you not?" Safford sat silent in the witness chair, his front hand pressed against his reddened face and he waited long before he answered: "Yes."

Freshman Night OK
From the looks of things it seems that the freshman class members who were at the TAC last night had a pretty good time. There was quite a large turnout for the night which was scheduled for the purpose of helping to teach the freshman who didn't already know how to dance and to give them a place to practice without the watching eye of the upperclassmen. Several mixing schemes were put in to effect and Teen-age club tickets were on sale at the door. The club is regularly open on Wednesday and Saturday night.

King of Hearts Soon
A week from Friday will be the annual King of Hearts dance. Posters have been placed in the main hall advertising the dance. This is a formal affair and girls-ask-boy. The dance is given by the Jobs Daughters; it will be held in the Masonic temple. Baldy's band will play. Admission is $1.20 per couple. This is to be paid when the girl gets her program. Better get your date, girls, if you haven't already!

Indian Claims Commission To Be Set Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The house rules committee today approved legislation to set up an Indian claims commission and establish a five-year statute of limitations on filing of Indian claims against the government.

The bill, of which Rep Stigler (D-Okla.) is author, already has received unanimous approval of the house Indian affairs committee.

It would establish a three-man commission to pass on all Indian claims. All such claims would have to be filed within five years from the day the bill becomes law. They would be barred thereafter. The commission would exist ten years.

Stigler said he favored abolition of the Indian office on a fixed date and "emancipation of the Indian." Chairman Jackson (D-Wash.) of the Indian affairs committee urged the rules committee to approve the bill. He told the committee the proposed legislation would assure equitable treatment for Indians. He said it would save the government $100,000 a year in investigating claims, some of which, he added, have been pending for 50 years. "Many Indians, who otherwise would have been independent, self-supporting citizens," Jackson told the committee, "have become indolent dreamers waiting all their lives for settlement of claims that are never made. Whatever the amount the Indian tribes have due them, it will be better for the government to pay them."

the aviation, housing, rates and tourist committees and mimeographed copies of reports from the other committees will be distributed among members.
