

Timber Sale Activities Rank First In Importance On Klamath District Of Rogue River Forest During 1945

By JOHN W. SARGINSON
District Ranger, Rogue River National Forest

Timber sale activities continued to rank first in order of importance on the Klamath district of the Rogue River national forest during 1945.

The annual progress reports show a cut of 50 million with a stumpage valuation of approximately $240,000. This timber was supplied to three Klamath Falls operations. The cut was less than expected because of loss of time during the strike period and other operating difficulties. Another 40 million feet was available for cutting but will be carried into 1946. Considerable demand exists for additional sales in 1946 but with the closing of hostilities the annual cut from this unit will be stabilized somewhere around 10 million feet annually which is considered the approximate allowable cut for the unit.

This is in accord with the federal forest service policy of returning to the allowable cut for each area as soon as possible after hostilities ceased.

Continuing to over-cut as was done during the war period would have meant liquidation of the timber resource in this unit considering the large installed milling capacity in this area, and the keen demand for stumpage. A recent check indicates that there are only two operations that have over a three-year supply of private stumpage having approximately 12 mills dependent upon public stumpage.

All facts indicate at this time that the years 1946 and 1947 will be the turning point in the forestry economy of the Klamath area. Most timber lands are now in stabilized ownership, forest management is taking shape and a stabilized economy is in the offing. The level of the economy is still uncertain at this time depending upon what can be done towards refining the present product, lumber. Considerable interest is evident but definite action is uncertain. Many economic factors confront a new enterprise.

Recreation
Recreational activity continued at a fairly high level during 1945. However, when gas rationing was canceled our local people began going to more distant points. The fact that there were several drownings at Lake o' the Woods didn't help matters any. Youth organizations again accounted for a large part of the use in the area. The organization tract was used by three groups, including the Salvation Army and 4-H clubs of Klamath and Jackson counties for a total of approximately 2800 camper days. A new tract was selected and approved for future development during the 1945 season.

This project is of high priority in the forest service postwar plans. The Crater Lake area of Boy Scouts reported this area used by four groups totaled approximately 650 people over a period of nine weeks.

A club area was also selected and approved during the 1945 season for Girl Scouts from Jackson and Josephine counties. The Crater Lake area of Boy Scouts reported this area used by four groups totaled approximately 650 people over a period of nine weeks.

Summer home use was about normal during 1945. Several transfers were made as well as new applications received. Building was pretty much at a standstill because of material shortage, however, some remodeling and road construction work was done as well as clearing the lots for building.

Good Season
The Lake o' the Woods resort reported a good season. The personnel from the naval air station made considerable use of the resort. Construction work was started on five cabins last fall and remodeling was done on several other cabins.

Morse Penning, who has just returned from service in the Pacific, has indicated his desire to re-open Rocky Point resort and has plans for remodeling the entire area.

Fire Season
The fire season was of normal duration and the hazards were about average. An old landmark, the Crystal school, burned down during the season. A marked increase in man-caused fires was noted during the latter part of the season resulting from carelessness. More fire prevention is necessary if the forest users continue to be careless in the woods.

Hunting and fishing use was about normal. Considerable interest was shown in bear hunting with the garbage pit at Lake o' the Woods getting an extra heavy working over. Illegal hunting for deer, including spot lighting, reached an all-time high. The lack of red points was probably accountable. Several convictions were made but considerable more control of such violations is expected in 1946. Public cooperation is essential. Klamath county residents derive many benefits from the national forests. One of these is fi-

News Notes and Comment

By JOAN O'NEILL

Another new teacher can now be added to the roster at KUHS. Starting Monday Garry Robertson, former Roosevelt grade school principal and now presiding head of the Teachers' association here, will take over duties of teaching several classes in history and civics, and world history.

Yesterday Just Trippett, lighting expert, visited several of the rooms at school and took pictures of the classes and tests to ascertain the lighting facilities. Various lighting systems have been put in different rooms up at school. One room is equipped with fluorescent lighting facilities. This information may be used at the forthcoming school building conference which is to be held in Eugene next week from the 11th to the 15th.

School administrators and architects have been requested to attend this conference which will consider practically all phases of school plant construction. $400,000 has been set aside for the building programs of the schools, with the high school receiving $300,000 and the elementary schools $100,000, already in Klamath Falls.

Cafeteria Jumps to Traffic High
Statistics show that the cafeteria at high school is doing a fine job. Four years ago the usual number of students receiving their lunch in the cafeteria was 100 per day. This year the cafeteria is handling on the average of between 400 and 500 students nancial. For the fiscal year 1945 Klamath county received $95,038 which represents 25 per cent of the national forest receipts from such lands in the county. This is $12,000 more than any other county received in Oregon and Washington and probably the highest that any county received in the United States. This high return to the county is primarily the result of revenue from timber sales during the war period. Once timber sale revenues are stabilized, this figure will be lower but will be maintained at a fair level which is important from the standpoint of county budgeting. This direct contribution exceeds that of any other federal agency in the county.

Death Claims Buford Morris

F. Buford Morris, 41, former Klamath Falls pharmacist, died at Portland early Thursday. A heart ailment brought death to the former well-known Klamath man, who had been operating a drug store at Baker for the last eight years.

A graduate of Oregon State college, Morris was located at Halsey and Albany before coming here about a dozen years ago. He was pharmacist at Magill's (now Castleberry's) and Everybody's drug store before acquiring the business at Baker.

Mr. Morris is survived by his wife and two children, Robert and Jacqueline. He was a brother-in-law of Roy and C. J. Eastburn of Klamath Falls.

It is expected the funeral will be held in Baker.

Randolph Page, a World War I pilot, flew the first coast to coast air mail service of the post office department in 1920.

a day. This points to a well-deserved compliment to Mrs. P. O. Landry and the cook, Mrs. Heath. Food in the cafeteria is sold on a lower money scale than the kids can buy down town and Stanley Woodruff, principal, states that the students are receiving more food per cent than they were in normal times all through the rationing due to good management.

THE SMART FAMILY

IT'S A GRAND NIGHT FOR SINGING...

"SURE, it's not only a smart family but a grand family, too. Look at them—having fun! That's John Smart—the father—making like Nelson Eddy; that's Joan—the mother at the piano. And the kids—Tom, home from service and now at college—Jane, she's in high school—and Hal—look at him, now—he's singing ear from ear—and him so serious when he's on Safety Patrol. Yep—they have more fun and more friends—and in all my years on this beat—I've never had to worry when people come out of that house—they don't have to have any alcoholic stimulation to have a grand time.
