

Cruise Of Ledgepole Area Starts

BEND, Ore., Feb. 18—Making their way with skis and snow shoes over deep snow that covers the region, a party of forest service men has started cruising the ledgepole pine areas of the Deschutes national forest preparatory to advertising the timber, now much in demand, for sale. The party is headed by Charles H. Overbay, assistant forester. He is accompanied by Henry Tenth, ranger of the Fort Rock district, and Hans Milius, George Cleveland and Paul Talch of the timber sales division, stationed at Sisters.

Not only will the ledgepole pine areas be advertised for sale, but also for saw timber. The cruise is being made under difficult conditions at this time in order that the timber might be advertised for sale before spring, and when prospective buyers might get into the regions to remove it.

Stumps Halt Work Steps were taken about two months ago to cruise the ledgepole belts, but the work was halted soon after because of stormy weather. Decision to again start the cruise resulted from the growing demand for the timber, especially poles, for use by the rural electrification administration and private line builders.

In recent weeks there have been a number of representatives of pole buyers in Central Oregon, seeking to contract for all the poles they can get in carload lots.
