

Home Gardens To Be Stressed In Oregon

The Oregon Victory garden campaign has been reconverted into the 1946 home garden program, with leadership and assistance planned to encourage every Oregon family that has suitable land available, announces W. L. Teutsch, assistant director of the OSC extension service.

The objective of the program this year will be to raise enough vegetables for fresh use and preserving to meet the family requirements for good nutrition and health, says Teutsch. While the wartime conditions have changed, the world food situation is such as to emphasize the need to produce and conserve all the garden food possible again this year.

Indications are that most families who raised victory gardens will continue to grow gardens of some size, both because of the interest in the work and because they have learned about the superior quality of garden fresh produce. Reports from several places in Oregon indicate that advance sale of garden seeds is already heavy.

State Leader
R. Ralph Clark, assistant extension horticulturist, has been named state project leader for the home garden program this year and will work with county extension staffs in promoting the work. Better planned gardens and more 4-H club gardens are other goals aimed at.

Extension bulletins and circulars on all phases of gardening will again be available through county extension offices throughout the state. Principal ones are No. 616, "Planning Your Family Food Supply," No. 614, "The Farm and Home Victory Garden," No. 551, "Vegetable Garden Insect Pest Control," No. 512, "Garden Soil Management," No. 617, "Growing Small Fruits in Eastern Oregon," No. 618, "Growing Small Fruits in Western Oregon," and station circular of information No. 328, "Tree Fruits for the Home Orchard in Western Oregon."

Crop Insurance Deadline Set

Klamath county spring wheat growers should apply between now and March 15 for insurance on their 1945 crop. Contracts signed now will be effective beginning with spring wheat seeded and thereafter through 1948. Farmers have their choice of two plans—one covering 75 per cent of the farm's average wheat yield and the other covering 50 per cent. Premium rates are 0.6 bushels per acre for 50 per cent coverage, and 1.6 bushels per acre for 75 per cent coverage. These rates were established according to the county's past history of crop yields and losses.

Applications will be taken by Fred Rueck, Bonanza; Lewis Botens, Henley; Ray Loosley, Fort Klamath; and Will Baldwin, Merrill and Malin, who are the local sales agents appointed by the county committee. Applications will also be taken by the local AAA office, room 207 and 209 federal building, Klamath Falls.

U. S. Potatoes Go To Hungry Europe

The people of France and Belgium are eating some of the big 1945 U. S. potato crop this winter. Heaviest shipments of potatoes under the government's export program are coming from the Red River valley in North Dakota and Minnesota, with occasional cars from South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Colorado, Wyoming and Idaho.

More potatoes are expected to be offered for export in these states when the transportation situation improves. Shortage of boxcars has hampered movement, and severe weather conditions in the Red River valley has curtailed loading. Because of the low temperature of the eastern seaboard ports, and the ample supplies in the Red River valley, loading operations have recently been shifted to the gulf.

Malin Grange Holds Meeting

MALIN, Feb. 28.—At the regular social meeting of the Malin Grange, Iola Haley entertained a large group of grangers by showing slides made in the service. Miss Haley, recently returned from service in the army nurses corps where she served as dietitian, had taken these colored pictures while on her travels in the European and Pacific theaters of war. They were a very interesting as well as educational group of pictures and everyone felt the evening was well spent.

Those present then enjoyed popcorn and apples served by the hostesses, Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mrs. Frank Payvr Jr.

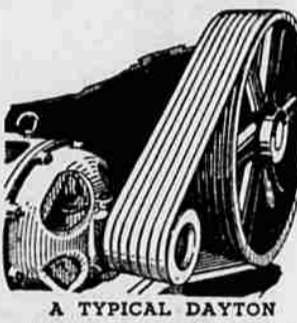

The next meeting of the grange will be a business meeting to be held on Tuesday, March 12, and will be preceded by a potluck supper at 6:30 p. m.

War Veterans Get Machinery

Veterans returning to farms and establishing new farms are getting the lion's share of the new farm machinery available in Oregon, judging from the number of preference certificates being issued to returning veterans by county AAA committees.

In one month—January—490 veteran's preference certificates were issued for 32 different items of farm equipment. Tractors led the list with 167, of which 55 were satisfied and the machines delivered by dealers during the month. Many dealers reported that they had more than enough preference certificates on file to cover all of the machinery they expect to receive during the year. Of the 490 certificates issued, only 93 were satisfied in January. In Klamath county a total of 114 certificates have been issued of which five were satisfied.

The GI preference certificates take precedence over all other orders and contracts of sale, except those supported by an emergency CC rating issued by the civilian production administration to replace necessary equipment destroyed by disaster.

Anderson Supports Food Price Controls

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson advises that we need to move cautiously in lifting price controls on food. "We simply cannot afford to let inflation get out of hand on the food front any more than on any other front," he said. The secretary said that President Truman had made a "sound" suggestion in recommending that food subsidies be continued beyond June 30 with provision to drop them as soon as the cost of living decreases.

G. H. Fullenwider, Carlton republican, filed for state representative from Yamhill county, this being the seat which Marsh is leaving to enter the senate race.
