

Lusk Trial Opens Here

Tentative selection of a jury to try Nettie Belle Lusk, indicted for contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old daughter, occupied the morning session of circuit court today and only 11 seats in the jury box were filled when the first venire panel was exhausted before noon.

Judge David R. Vandenberg ordered five additional jurors to be drawn and to be in court this afternoon.

Questioning of prospective jurors by District Attorney Clarence A. Humble and Defense Attorney R. F. McLaren went ahead perfunctorily this morning, but nine veniremen were excused upon questioning or by peremptory challenge.

R. J. O'Sullivan, local bank employe, was excused by the defense just before noon, exhausting the panel.

The 11 men in the box at recess were Jack Henry, Harry E. Wilson, E. E. Kilpatrick, Noel Turner, Jack Jackson, R. H. Barnett, Francis O. Freuer, Ralph L. Burke, Jack Eagan, L. A. Johanson and Dennis O'Connor.
