

Results Of Safety Work Discussed

C. L. (Sam) Brown, a member of the staff of the accident prevention division of the state industrial accident commission and Charles F. Bollinger, assistant director of the division met with members of six Klamath Falls area industrial plant safety committees at a safety conference held at the Ewauna Box company office Monday evening.

The results of two year's work of the accident prevention division of the commission was presented in a series of graphs and charts which showed the tremendous reduction in claims received by the commission. During 1945 there were received by the commission 10,434 less claims than during the previous year. While the reduction in man-hours was 10 per cent the reduction in claims was 23 per cent.

Credit Given

The credit for this reduction is given to the program of the division and equal credit belongs to the employers and employees throughout the state who have actively cooperated in local plant accident prevention programs. It was brought out that this reduction reflected a large saving of commission funds as every claim, on the average represents an expenditure of $90.

Tuesday evening a community safety entertainment was held at Pelican City for the employees of the Klamath Lumber and Box company and their families. The program consisted of sound motion pictures and a safety talk. A similar entertainment is scheduled to be held Wednesday evening at the school auditorium at Sprague River, the Bly Logging company being the sponsoring organization. These community entertainments are open to the general public without charge.

Entertainments are also scheduled to be held at Gold Hill on Thursday evening and Friday night at Kirby.

Employment Service Status Undecided

It is still undecided whether the employment service shall remain under federal authority or be turned back to the state, Jack Almeter stated upon his return from a conference in Portland.

Managers of all U. S. employment bureaus in Oregon attended the conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Almeter and Mrs. Mary Woodhouse returned from Portland Sunday night. The Almeters visited with their daughter and family while in the northern city and Mrs. Woodhouse visited with her mother and sisters and her husband's relatives.

Bad weather and rough driving were reported on both going and return trips, with snow storms encountered en route.

Trees For Memorial Planting Available

Trees for memorial planting are now available at Klamath Forest Protective association office, 240 Conger, Hal Ogle, superintendent, announced today.

The trees are being hauled by KFPA from park service lands and are free to anyone agreeing to care for them. They are to be planted throughout the city in living memorial of the opening of the south road into Oregon a century ago, in connection with the centennial celebration to be held in Klamath Falls this year.

Persons may have as many trees as they are able to care for, Ogle said, and they may be picked up any time. This is the time of year for transplanting, he said, and trees should be put in right away to do their best in the change of environment.

New Glucose Plant Will Be Talked

An important meeting regarding the proposed $150,000 potato starch and glucose factory for Klamath basin has been set for 1:30 p. m. Friday at the Community hall, Merrill.

Organization, processing and sales of the Northwest Chemurgic Cooperative plant will be discussed in detail by the president who points out that a plant here would provide an outlet for some 1500 carloads of culls produced annually as a by-product of the export crop.

In order to handle the 1946 crop, construction of the plant, which would process 150 tons of raw potatoes daily, must start in May. The general grower meeting in Merrill will determine support of growers and initiate immediate action if support is strong enough.

Market Wide

The market for potato glucose is wide, ceiling price is 10 cents per pound, and the present price on culls per ton is $10 which is expected to hold for several years, information obtained through the Klamath county agent's office indicates.

Advantages of such a factory can only be outlined by the office, Walter Jendrzewski, assistant county agent, stated. Whether or not a plant is constructed in this area depends upon the growers themselves. Business details, stock, profits and other questions regarding the contemplated plant will be discussed at length Friday.

Building Bids To Be Opened

Sealed bids received for the erection of an addition to Fremont school will be publicly opened and read Monday, April 8, 7:30 p. m., room 200, KUHS, it was announced today.

Plans and specifications may be obtained at the office of Howard R. Perrin, architect, 1121 Main.

The planned addition to the school is to be 79 feet, six inches long and 49 feet, six inches wide. The first floor will be used as a girls' locker and shower room, boys' locker and shower room and an addition to the present shop area.

The second floor is to be a crafts and arts room, music room and storage facilities.

Exterior walls and structure will be faced brick and eight-inch tile backing to match the present structure, with continuous glass brick opening for shower rooms.

VFW To Hold District Meet

A district meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, district 13, is scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday at Danceland, at which time officers of the department of Oregon will be present.

District 13 includes Merrill, Chiloquin, Lakeview, Main and Klamath Falls. The session will be followed by a luncheon served by the hosts, Pelican Post 1383.

Service officers school will be held at noon the same day, and will be conducted by G. O. Pike, department service officer. Quartermaster and adjutant school will be held at 1 p. m. with Fred B. Corn, department quartermaster in charge. All members are urged to attend.

Florist Shop Planned Here

Plans for another florist shop to be opened at 430 Main, Klamath Falls, are under way now by Matt Kohn Jr., 534 N. 6th, resident of this city for the past 25 years.

The building formerly used by the OPA has been leased by Kohn from Claude Davis, owner.

Kohn plans to remodel the front of the building with glass brick around the entrance, and do the entire interior over. He will separate the long room with modern streamlined cases back of which will be the work room with 30 feet of space for floral displays.

He plans to obtain his plants and cut flowers from Oregon and California nurseries, and will have with him his wife and two other assistants.

Kohn has been employed with Ewauna Box company for 15 years and was also in the car painting business. For the last three months he and his wife have been working with Tommy Luke, Portland florist, learning the business.

Kohn's Flower shop will open in about 30 days, the proprietor said, if the remodeling can be accomplished by that time.
