

City Briefs

Motor Trip—J. B. Reed, 535 1/2 Hick will leave Tuesday morning to drive to Delta, Colo., taking Mrs. Hick's brother, Byron Luce, with them. Luce has been in Klamath Valley hospital since he suffered a paralytic stroke nearly a month ago. Reed will do the driving and plans to return to Klamath Falls in time for fishing season. Mrs. Reed will remain in Pasadena until May.

Honor Students—Students at the Southern Oregon college at Ashland who made a 3.5 average during the winter quarter include names of several Klamath Falls people attending school there. They are Bennett Loftsgaard, Helen Williams, Darwin Wigenback, and Erwin Wisenback. Making an average of between 3.0 and 3.5 are Rodney Bortis and Glenn Bortis of this city.

Junior Authors—There will be an organization meeting of the Junior Authors club, sponsored by the city recreation department in cooperation with Klamath Union high school, at 7:30 p. m. tonight in room 214 of KUHS. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance. Wendell Smith, high school English teacher, is the group's advisor, along with E. E. Hambrick.

Return—Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Schwab returned from Wisconsin, Minn., this week. Schwab left today for Ashland where he will enroll in the Southern Oregon College of Education. He accepted a position on the Fremont school teaching staff next fall. Mrs. Schwab is secretary to Verne Speirs, principal of Mills school.

Aid To Meet—Klamath Lutheran Ladies' Aid will meet at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the church on Cross and Crescent. Mrs. Elton Thompson will give the topic, "Conquer Heart," and there will be a song by the quartette. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Larson and Mrs. Frank Dorn.

Dinner Guests—Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Craig, 2525 Eberlein, former Delta, Colo., residents, entertained Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Hick of Delta at Sunday dinner. Craig is teaching trades and industries at KUHS. He and his wife came home last fall.

Card Party—The Suburban League auxiliary will hold its regular pinocle party Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the KC hall. A pot-luck luncheon and business meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. the same day.

Visit Lava Beds—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eastburn, Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Milne, Mr. and Mrs. George Carnell motored to the Lava Beds on Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic lunch and visited several of the caves.

Holding Horses—The sheriff's office is holding a bay and white pinto mare and a black mare colt which were located running loose in the Altamont district over the weekend and ask that the owner get in touch with the office to recover the horses.

Book Review—Mrs. Lawrence Ralph will review the book, "The Egg and I," by Betty MacDonald, for the Wednesday club which will meet at 8 p. m. Wednesday in St. Paul's parish house.

Discharged—Wilbur L. Kesson, F 1/c, 1985 Portland, received his honorable discharge from the navy March 25, at the U. S. naval base, Bremerton, Wash.

Knights Meeting—Knights of Pythias will meet in the IOOF hall at 8 p. m. this Monday, conducting the rank of knight. Refreshments will be served and visiting knights are welcome.

Returned—Mr. and Mrs. Merit Smith, 2550 Applegate, have returned from a one-week business trip which took them to Boise and Twin Falls, Idaho.

Junior Hostesses—There will be an important meeting of the Junior Hostesses Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the ladies' lounge of the Elks lodge. All hostesses are asked to be there.

Here Today—Jo Hessig arrived in Klamath Falls this morning to attend the funeral of her great uncle, Gus Melhase. She arrived in San Francisco Saturday from Honolulu aboard the Anzac Clipper. She has been the system's service representative of the International Business Machine corporation in Honolulu for the past year. Miss Hessig will visit friends and relatives here for a few days before returning to San Francisco.

Out of Army—Bob Leonard, former Herald and News staff man, has been discharged from the army. After spending some time at his old home in Chicago, Leonard joined his wife at Eugene and is taking a brief vacation at various Oregon points.

Home on Leave—Cpl. Hugh Killmeyer, USMC, is home on leave in Klamath Falls. He will return to the marine corps base in San Diego in mid-April. His wife, the former Edna Kahl, is a member of The Herald and News staff.

Discharged—Glen Bowen, Klamath Falls man who has been a commissioned officer in the navy, has received his discharge and has rejoined his family here. Bowen was formerly with Copco.

From Hospital—Albert W. Winegar of 1827 Portland, returned to his home from Hillside hospital on Saturday.

Home From Coast—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerber and family are home from a visit to the Oregon and California coasts.

STATIC

Biggest news of the moment to at least 15 people (the staffers) in Klamath Falls was the opening of KFLW yesterday. The culmination of five years of effort, the opening was attended with a certain amount of nervousness among the staff, but nothing too bad.

Chuck Cecil, staff announcer started the ball rolling in the "boot" line by coming in, when the program was just five words old, with "stratton" KFLW. He was followed in short order by Bob McCarl, who introduced "Fank" Jenkins as a speaker on the program. Nice goin' lads.

Most serious case of gloating is reported in the case of Mel Baldwin, program and production man. Taking advantage of his position (according to the other announcers) he wrote himself out of the opening script. All he had to do was sweat out the time in the control room.

And along that line, Baldwin says it was a tough go until he got to the first brief talk on the program. When it ended right on time to the second he knew the rest of the program would go off all OK. That "whoosh" you might have heard was his sigh of relief.

Now, after a long, long time, we can throw off the title "Klamath Falls Long Wait" and say "KFLW is on the air." We're glad to be there, and hope you're glad to be there.

all as happy about it as the staff is.

Right now this writer, speaking for the entire staff of KFLW, would like to thank all the people who so graciously helped us out on our dedicatory program, those who phoned and wired us their congratulations (and the information that we were being received in such spots as Lakeview, the Ashland Highway, Tulelake, etc.) and our listeners.

Work Starts On Elevator

Construction began last week on a 350 carload capacity grain elevator at Worden for the Tullana Farms, extensive grain holding in the southern part of the Klamath basin, owned by Dick and Ben Henzel and Dave and Dan Liskey. The project, contracted by Henry George and Son of Spokane, is estimated to cost $378,000 for actual construction, however, after the addition of new trucks and other equipment it is expected to be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

In connection with the elevator, Southern Pacific is building a railroad siding off its main line to serve shippers. The owners plan to use the elevator for commercial storage as well as for grain storage at harvest time. It will serve other shippers by grain being brought there for storage, while the cars on which shipments were loaded continue to other points.

The elevator will house 14 bins, each 90 feet high and 20 feet in diameter, and the elevator itself will be 120 feet high.

Grading work for the SP track has been underway all winter, with the first excavation for laying the track beginning last week.

If materials are readily available, the project should be completed by August 15.

Keno
A meeting was called for Friday night, March 22, at the school building, for the consideration of installing fire fighting apparatus in Keno. Types of apparatus, cost, and territory to be covered by this fire protection were subjects under discussion.

A committee was named to look into the matter of cost of various types of fire fighting apparatus and so forth, and another meeting of interested people of the community will be called soon to hear the committee's report and for further discussion of the idea.

The committee consists of L. A. Smith, D. J. Puckett, Fred Barnes and C. R. Morgan.

An estimated group of 25 or 30 persons attended the meeting.
