

High-Level Mark Set At Shasta Lake

Each day Shasta Lake, California's largest storage reservoir behind Shasta dam, is establishing new high-level records, the Bureau of Reclamation announced today.

Previous high level records were established in June, 1945, when the elevation reached 1014 feet. This was exceeded following heavy winter rains in January of this year when the level of the lake reached 1019.67 feet, that record standing until April 10, when an elevation of 1020 feet was reached.

Gains Daily
Today, the reservoir elevation is 1024.32 and is rising at an average rate of 0.3 foot per day as the result of melting snows in the higher reaches of the 6665-square mile drainage area. Each day the reservoir is gaining 5000 acre-feet of stored water.

Depending on the rate of runoff of melting snow and the demands of irrigators, who are already using Sacramento river water, there is a possibility that next month the reservoir may spill over the 452 foot Shasta dam spillway by June, creating the world's highest man-made waterfall, three times the height of Niagara Falls. The lake surface now is over 124 feet below the spillway crest.

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., April 26 (AP)—Parking meters in front of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church would be "an affront to religion," the Rev. Joseph W. Kavtaugh told the town council last night.

The council voted to amend its parking meter ordinance to exclude church property.

Lodge Scores Army Breakup

PORTLAND, April 26 (AP)—The chief thing foreigners are noting in America's foreign policy is that the United States army is "steadily disintegrating," Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., former Massachusetts senator, said here.

He said in an interview yesterday that the past 10 years' history has shown a foreign policy is as good "only as the strength behind it." People of Europe, who have a "latent good will" toward this nation, were impressed by our might, Lodge stated.

He appealed for a revival of the "enthusiasm with which the west was built," saying the American people have lost their pep. On the other hand, Russia's enthusiasm—especially for the future—is "catching" in many European countries, he said.

Lodge, here to address Oregon's Young Republican Federation convention, paid tribute to the late Sen. Charles N. McNary, who helped the easterner
