Townsend For Dam

Lamar Townsend, democratic nominee for congress from Oregon's second district, told members of the democratic central committee in La Grande last night that he favored the McNary dam project on the Columbia river but he believed that the democratic administration would be more cordial to the plan if it were backed by a democratic congressman from this district.

"We have a democratic administration in Washington," Townsend said, "and it is reasonable to assume that if we had a democratic congressman from eastern Oregon he would have the cooperation of the administration on appropriations and other vital needs of the second district."
