

Large Crowd Views Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3 (AP)—The marines landed on Alcatraz island, but the newsmen and cameramen who landed beside them on many Pacific beachheads were not allowed to go along on this trip.

The prison riot between guards and convicts was probably the most widely viewed prison drama in the nation's history. Thousands of spectators jammed hills, waterfronts, and bridges around San Francisco bay to watch.

But newsmen and photographers have never been allowed to put foot on the rocky island, save on an unusually rare "state occasion." Today was no exception. All press boats had to keep at least 50 yards off the cliff-like walls of the island, under penalty of being fired upon.

The only communication with the prison today was over a telephone which more often than not gave a busy signal.

Girl Recluse

A self-styled "wild girl of the woods," Joan Baker, 20, (above), who lived in a wooded area south of Seattle, Wash., for nearly a month, is being held by authorities for questioning. At the time of her arrest a cache of more than $1000 worth of firearms, radios and jewelry was found. The girl denied stealing the articles recovered. She said she had been living on eggs and chickens. —AP wirephoto.

LaGuardia Hits At Lethargy

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Director General Fiorello N. La Guardia of UNRRA said today he could not feed people on "statistics and paper wheat" and hopped on the accredited representatives to the combined food board for having their subordinates hold a meeting he had requested.

La Guardia asked the combined food board to meet today. The press office of UNRRA said in a statement, in order to obtain wheat allocation for May for distressed peoples abroad. The meeting started 25 minutes late, and no member of the board itself was present but subordinates represented them, the statement asserted.

The UNRRA press office said that when La Guardia was presented with a statement showing "availabilities," he recalled that in April "the availability allocated to UNRRA was 450,000 tons out of the required 700,000 tons, and the actual grain delivered was only 339,000."

"Mr. La Guardia stated that he was through with discussing availabilities—that he could not feed people on statistics and paper wheat," the press office said. "He also served notice that he would not confer with employees... and that he expected the head representatives of each country to attend the meeting set for next Tuesday."

WHEAT

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—A sharp advance in the May rice contract sent that future into new all time high territory for any rice delivery on the board of trade today. With previous short sellers rushing to cover, May rice hit $2.72 1/2, up from $2.65 1/2, in one session, shortly before the close.

Strength in rice created a firm demand for oats and the deferred contracts of this grain scored good advances. At one time both September and December were about 1 cent a bushel, or within a cent of the ceiling price on these contracts.

May rice closed at $2.72 1/2, up 5 cents. Oats were unchanged at 1 cent higher. September $2 1/2. Wheat, corn, barley and deferred rice deliveries were unchanged at ceilings. Trading developed all through the day. Arrivals of the yellow grain at interior terminals today totaled 1,192,000 bushels against 963,000 bushels a week ago.

The car was flagged down after 70-mile-an-hour chase.

Rotary Club Hears Talk By Groesbeck

R. C. Groesbeck, for many years a member of the Klamath Falls Rotary club, spoke to the club Friday on "Retirement." Groesbeck retired from active practice of law July 1, 1944, after being a member of the Klamath bar for 32 years.

Groesbeck, speaking personally to his fellow Rotarians, told of the adjustments he had found necessary in "retiring." He spoke of retirement as a transition; of turning one's energy to his side interests to enjoy the "golden years."

Six club directors were elected to serve Rotary for a year starting July 1. The new directors are Dick Henzel, Sam Ritchey, Deb Addison, Tommy Thompson, Alfred Collier and Scott Warren.

Kaiser Hits Back At Senate Critic

SPOKANE, May 3 (AP)—Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser declared today that an "attack" in the senate April 11 by Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) "was a pitiful performance, lacking in every courtesy which respectable criticism requires."

In a speech prepared for a Spokane chamber of commerce meeting, Kaiser said Bridges included "in a mass of erroneous, incomplete and misleading statements" the charge that Kaiser interests were awarded leases by the government on two Spokane aluminum plants when another competitor had placed a higher bid.
