

Housing Emergency May Bring Oregon Lumber Strike Bar

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—National housing officials are watching the lumber industry's labor situation in Oregon and may ask the AFL and the CIO to forego jurisdictional strikes for the duration of the housing emergency.

Wilson W. Wyatt, housing expediter, told Senator Cordon (R-Ore) today he would act if further trouble broke out in the Willamette valley lumber industry.

He said a generally unsettled condition in logging and lumbering operations, from the standpoint of union membership, exists and that "both unions appear to be laying plans to expand membership."

"Should a new series of jurisdictional difficulties break out during the duration of the housing program,"

The expediter said that in anticipation of such difficulties held between top officials of the AFL and the CIO in my office in an attempt to persuade both organizations to respect the status quo and keep jurisdictional rivalry at a minimum."

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By JOAN O'NEILL

The music kids came way from Eugene with honors at the northwest regional national music contest which took place Friday and Saturday.

The cappella choir received a 1, superior rating, as did the clarinet quartet and girls' nonet. Beth Chastain and Marie Wright, vocalists, took superior ratings also. The band had a rating of excellent and Dorothy Howry, vocalist, received the rate of 3, or good.

The music students appreciated the chance to try their skill in a national contest since this was the first time that KUHS has ever participated in this event. The trip was financed by donations from the townspeople.

In Portland School Fund Faces Slash

PORTLAND, May 7 (AP)—The Portland school board will be asked to shave $1,750,000 from its 1946-47 school budget and drop 370 "substitute" teachers from the payroll because of lack of revenue sources.

Superintendent Willard B. Spaulding declared the schools could not depend upon federal assistance which hinged on "emergency" requirements and that the federal funds may not be approved before congress recesses for the summer.

The board's plans to ask voters for a special tax levy were blocked by a supreme court ruling that a 1937 tax law did not permit the special election and Gov. Earl Snell declined to call a special legislative session.

Krug Denies Personal Bias

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Krug has assured congress he will administer his department "without any bias in the direction of power development."

In testimony before the house appropriations committee on the interior bill, made public today, he said he believed there has been some feeling that his work with TVA might prejudice his administration of interior.

He then added that while he was "deeply inspired by my experience with TVA," this would not be the case.

"I am going to do my best, needless to say, in administering the great and varied responsibilities that rest with the sphere of the department of interior," he told the committee.

"I shall not, to the best of my judgment, permit any one aspect of the department's affairs to dominate the total picture. I shall try to keep them in perspective."

At another point, Krug said he felt there ought to be a "most complete disclosure" of the federal operation of power facilities.

Congressman Raps Press Agent Use

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—Rep. Horan (D-Wash.) believes employment by the government of a large number of press agents "not only is unnecessary but definitely dangerous."

"They do try to influence action of congress and I am in a position to know," Horan said. "They total up to the greatest Horan asserted that with an active, capable and free press the 45,000 "part and full time promotional agents in the executive department" are not needed.

Oregon Keeps 41st Division

SALEM, May 7 (AP)—Headquarters of the 41st national guard division will remain in Oregon, Governor Earl Snell announced today.

Governor Snell said he also was advised by Brig. Gen. Thomas E. Rilea, Oregon's adjutant general, in a telephone call from Washington, D. C., that Oregon would retain its two regiments, the 186th and the 162d, both of which were part of the 41st.

The 41st division included national guard units from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming before the war. When the division went into war service, the Wyoming unit went into another division. Division headquarters probably will be Salem, where it was located before the war.
